Constructing Education for Development Colette Chabbott, 2013-10-28 Recent research has advanced the understanding of how global processes have led to standardized ideas about modern schooling Chabbott provides an insightful examination of how the processes of international development have effected the role of education at a global level since World War II

Education Game Changers Karen E. Starr, 2014-12-08 Education Game Changers is written for an international readership This book refers to all education levels and sectors and builds on research in educational leadership education business and organizational change Karen E Starr describes policy paradoxes challenging the sustainability of educational provision as we know it and the imperatives they present for educational leadership business and governance This book critiques the paradoxical education policy context while exploring alternative futures they may spawn It ponders both possibilities and pitfalls that cannot be ignored by instrumental players such as governments policy makers educational leaders and business managers researchers and analysts This book unveils rising cases of education business failures around the world the paucity of governance and business skill on educational boards and the irrational contradictions faced by governments in determining education policy

The Lean Education Manifesto Arran Hamilton, John Hattie, 2022-03-30 The global expansion of education is one of the greatest successes of the modern era More children have access to schooling and leave with higher levels of learning than at any time in history However 250 million children in developing countries are still not in school and 600 million attend but get little out of it a situation further exacerbated by the dislocations from COVID 19 In a context where education funding is stagnating and even declining Arran Hamilton and John Hattie suggest that we need to start thinking Lean and explicitly look for ways of unlocking more from less Drawing on data from 900 systematic reviews of 53 000 research studies from the perspective of efficiency of impact they controversially suggest that for low and middle income countries Maybe pre service initial teacher training programs could be significantly shortened and perhaps even stopped Maybe teachers need not have degree level qualifications in the subjects they teach and they might not really need degrees at all Maybe the hours per week and years of schooling that each child receives could be significantly reduced or at least not increased Maybe learners can be taught more effectively and less resource intensively in mixed age classrooms with peers tutoring one another Maybe different approaches to curriculum instruction and the length of the school day might be more cost effective ways of driving up student achievement than hiring extra teachers reducing class sizes or building more classrooms Maybe school based management public private partnerships and performance related pay are blind and expensive alleys that have limited influence or impact on what teachers actually do in classrooms This groundbreaking and thought provoking work also identifies a range of initiatives that are worth starting It introduces the Leaning to G O L D methodology to support school and system leaders in selecting implementing and scaling those high probability initiatives and to rigorously de implement those to be stopped It is essential reading for anyone with an interest in education

Governance of Educational Trajectories in Europe Andreas Walther, Marcelo Parreira do Amaral, Morena

Cuconato, Roger Dale, 2016-05-19 Drawing on findings from a large EU funded research project that took place over three years this book analyses educational trajectories of young people in eight European countries Finland France Germany Italy the Netherlands Poland Slovenia and the United Kingdom Contributors explore interactions between structural and institutional contexts of educational trajectories the individual meaning attached to education and the strategies adopted by young people to cope with its demands The book also analyses the decision making processes of individual students placing them firmly within the social contexts of their families local schools national education systems and welfare states as well as transnational policy contexts In considering educational disadvantage the book is based on primary cross national research with systematic analysis of the different themes addressed As every chapters is co authored by two or three researchers each based in a different country the book goes beyond the usual country based chapter design to provide an enriched insight into both comparative theory and research methods Research in Education ,1973 Resources in Education ,2001-10
