Bubb,2023-03-14 The interest among Victorian readers in classical literature from Asia has been greatly underestimated The popularity of the Arabian Nights and The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam is well documented Yet this was also an era in which freethinkers consulted the Quran in which schoolchildren were given abridgements of the Ramayana to read in which names like Kalidasa and Firdusi were carved on the fa ades of public libraries and in which women s book clubs discussed Japanese poetry But for the most part such readers were not consulting the specialist publications of scholarly orientalists What then were the translations that catalysed these intercultural encounters Based on a unique methodology marrying translation theory with empirical techniques developed by historians of reading this book shines light for the first time on the numerous amateur translators or popularizers who were responsible for making these texts accessible and disseminating them to the Victorian general readership Asian Classics on the Victorian Bookshelf explains the process whereby popular translations were written published distributed to bookshops and libraries and ultimately consumed by readers It uses the working papers and correspondence of popularizers to demonstrate their techniques and motivations while the responses of contemporary readers are traced through the pencil marginalia they left behind in dozens of original copies In spite of their typically limited knowledge of source languages Asian Classics argues that popularizers produced versions more respectful of the complexity cultural difference and fundamental untranslatability of Asian texts than the professional orientalists whose work they were often adapting The responses of their readers likewise frequently deviated from interpretive norms and it is proposed that this combination of eccentric translators and unorthodox readers triggered flights of translation whereby historical individuals can be seen to escape the hegemony of orientalist forms of knowledge Department of Public Instruction, Oakland California Oakland Board Of Education,2018-02-14 Excerpt from Department of Public Instruction Oakland California School Directory 1916 1917 Tompkins and Orchard Sts mills College car at 13th and Broadway to Beulah Station West about four blocks About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Schoolmasters' Yearbook & Educational Directory ,1922 The Journal of Education ,1917 The Publishers Weekly ,1917 Catalog of Copyright Entries Library of Congress.
