Tentoonstellingscatalogus over de cultuurgeschiedenis van tijd en tijdmeting de voorstelling van tijd in de beeldende kunst en tijdsbesef in verschillende perioden en culturen North African Mosaic Nabil Boudraa, Joseph Krause, 2009-03-26 This book's ambition is to offer the most recent scholarship on North African cultures at a time when the very notion of culture is being re-evaluated in the shifting tides that both associate and divorce the forces of nationalism, globalism and neo liberalism. Another ambition is to be a readable document about the past and the potential of North African civilizations. Those which have been crystallized into a polysemic voice from centuries of occupations, exchanges and what is now commonly called hybridizations. In this work the collective position of the authors with their different fields of experience is that the languages, musics and the many expressions of common life in North Africa continue to flourish. That they are a bridge between sub-Saharan peoples and Europe. That they are a necessary antidote to the anemic political discourses that have prevailed since decolonization. That they are seminal for the future of the African continent as it begins its true voyage into democracy. It is difficult at this juncture to measure the distance that in the decades to come will be achieved on that voyage. It is however less difficult to evaluate the importance of North Africa on tomorrow's world. If the past is an indicator it will be an important force in the cross flow of trade, ideas and of global destinies.

Yotvata Lily Singer-Avitz, Etan Ayalon, 2023-01-03 This book presents the final report of the excavations at Yotvata, the largest oasis in the Arabah Valley, conducted by the Sonia and Marco Nadler Institute of Archaeology of Tel Aviv University in 1974-1980 under the direction of Dr. Ze'ev Meshel. The report covers two central sites: a fortified Iron I site and an Early Islamic settlement. The Iron I remains consist of an irregular casemate wall surrounding a courtyard. The location of this site suggests that the settlement was established in order to protect the water sources and to overlook and supervise the nearby crossroads. Based on the relative proximity of the site to Timna, it may be concluded that the oasis formed the main source of water and wood for the population involved in copper production in that region. The rich finds uncovered at the Early Islamic settlement including a large courtyard building and a nearby bathhouse among other structures point to habitation from the end of the seventh to the early ninth century CE. The proximity of the settlement to a sophisticated irrigation system, qanat, and the administrative economic ostraca discovered at the site suggest that it served as the center of an agricultural estate owned by an elite Muslim family. Among the unique finds is a large assemblage of locally produced handmade pottery which is thoroughly studied here. The findings from the excavations at the Yotvata oasis have made a major contribution to the study of Early Islamic settlement and material culture in the greater Arabah region and beyond.

From Nomadism to Monarchy? Ido Koch, Oded Lipschits, Omer Sergi, 2023-11-07 Archaeological exploration in the Central Highlands of the Southern Levant conducted during the 1970s and 1980s dramatically transformed the scholarly understanding of the early Iron Age and led to the publication of From Nomadism to Monarchy Archaeological and Historical Aspects of Early Israel by Israel Finkelstein and Nadav Na'aman. This volume explores and reassesses the legacy of that foundational text. Using current theoretical frameworks and taking into account new excavation data and methodologies from the natural sciences, the seventeen essays in this volume examine the archaeology of the Southern Levant during the early Iron Age and the ways in which the period may be reflected in biblical accounts. The variety of methodologies employed and the historical narratives presented within these contributions illuminate the multifaceted nature of contemporary research on this formative period. Building upon Finkelstein and Na'aman's seminal study, this work provides an essential update. It will be welcomed by ancient historians, scholars of early Israel and the early Iron Age Southern Levant, and biblical scholars. In addition to the editors, the contributors to this volume are Eran Arie Erez, Ben Yosef, Cynthia Edenburg, Israel Finkelstein, Yuval Gadot, Assaf Kleiman, Gunnar Lehmann, Defna Langgut, Aren M. Maeir, Nadav Na'aman, Thomas R. Mer, Lidar Sapir, Hen Katja Soennecken, Dieter Vieweger, Ido Wachtel, and Naama Yahalom Mack.

The Queens of the Arabs During the Neo-Assyrian Period Ellie Bennett, 2024-05-03. The title Queen of the Arabs is applied in Neo-Assyrian texts to five women from the Arabian Peninsula. These women led armies, offered tribute, and held religious roles in their communities from 738 to approximately 651 BCE. This book discusses what the title meant to the women who carried it and to the Assyrians who wrote about them. Whereas previous scholarship has considered the Queens of the Arabs in relation to the military and economic history of the Neo-Assyrian empire, Eleanor Bennett focuses on identity, using gender theory to locate points of the women's alterity in Assyrian sources and to analyze how Assyrian cultural norms influenced the treatment of the Queens of the Arabs. This kind of analysis shows how Assyrian perceptions of the Queens of the Arabs and of Arabian populations more generally changed over time. As the Queens of the Arabs were located on the periphery of the Assyrian Empire, Bennett incorporates data from the Arabian Peninsula. The shift from an Assyrian lens to an Arabian one highlights inaccuracies in the Assyrian material, which brings into focus Assyrian misunderstandings of the region. The Arabian Peninsula also offers comparative models for the Queens of the Arabs based on Arabian cultures.

The Desert Origins of God Juan Manuel Tebes, Christian Frevel, 2021-07-15. This special issue publishes most of the contributions of a three-day workshop of the Käte Hamburger Kolleg Dynamics in the History of Religions between Asia and Europe, held on July 2019 at the Center for Religious Studies, Ruhr University Bochum. It seeks to explore and contextualize the configuration of the varied desert cultic practices from the southern Levant and northern Arabia during the Late Bronze Iron Ages that may have contributed to the emergence of the Yahwistic cult. By this, it raises also crucial questions on the early history of the Israelite and Judean religions in the first millennium BCE. Recent archaeological excavations in the Negev, southern Transjordan, and Hejaz, and new interpretations of old epigraphic and iconographic evidence are rapidly changing the biblical-based paradigm of the interactions between the desert cults and the Iron Age Levantine religions. Cultural contacts and the entanglement of religious networks are paramount for the understanding of this early history Recent archaeological iconographic and epigraphic studies of the Southern Levant contribute to the question of the emergence and early development of a Yahwistic religion The issue adopts an interdisciplinary approach assessing textual archaeological as well as epigraphic and iconographic data

Ancient Egyptian Sacred Science and The Loss of Soul in Modern Materialism Todd Hayen, 2014 The ancient Egyptians believed that the material world as well as the imaginal inner world was infused with spirit and spirits They believed in a wholly integrated reality which included the physical forms of nature as well as the unseen images gods goddesses powers symbols and meanings that go beyond a rational intelligent comprehension but rather present a harmonized inner and outer perception of reality This study utilizes an alchemical hermeneutic research methodology which advocates research with soul in mind using meditative transference dialogues to inform the scholarly research and interpretation of resources used to investigate the spiritual substance of these important concepts such as the psyche to matter problem and the possible loss of soul in a modern materialist paradigm This inquiry explores how ancient Egyptian sacred science relates to the variety of ways in which humankind has defined soul and spirit how this ancient Egyptian way of being could be integrated in modern modalities of science and how this integration would impact today s understanding of reality The study proposes how a modern shift into this ancient cosmology might benefit today s sciences medicine and most significantly the practice of psychotherapy which from a conventional perspective is presently considered from a largely materialistic perspective with little or no regard for the unseen and the immeasurable presence of soul

Conclusions are drawn regarding the personal impact of the study on the researcher efforts toward a methodology of psychotherapy practice integrating the concepts of ancient Egyptian sacred science and the limitations of adopting a modern cosmology rooted in an ancient way of being
