David Solway

David Solway David Solway:

David Solway Carmine Starnino, 2001 In recent years David Solway's groundbreaking trio of critical books have earned him a reputation as a thinker and prose writer of considerable erudition. He now emerges into the 21st century as a Canadian poet of major stature. David Solway Papers David Solway, 1968 Notes from a Derelict Culture David Solway, 2019-08-04 The essays in this book elaborate an overall view of the central predicament confronting the West today: a theologically inspired terrorist movement, the left liberal belief system that dominates the Western sensibility, the plague of political correctness that devitalizes language and obscures truth, and the almost universal opprobrium in which America and by extrapolation the historical endowment of Western civilization is held by the official institutions of the international community and by liberal culture. For too many years now we have practiced the rites of evasion, craving asylum in blindness, conciliation, sophistry, and equivocation. Many flinch from expressing their convictions, plainly fearing to offend their readers and imperil their professional credentials. There is no more pressing requirement for us today than the obligation to seek the truth and to speak clearly, boldly, and without compromise, an endeavor with which this book is fundamentally engaged.

Crossing the Jordan David Solway, 2023-11-21 The recent events in Israel require context to understand. One must be aware of the motives of Jews, Muslims, Israel, and its neighbors, as well as the not irreversible fall of the West. Solway provides analysis in this painfully timely book. Installations David Solway, 2015 Installations David Solway's 14th book of poetry is haunted with transformation. Few poets possess as commanding a gift for metaphor or can use it to masterfully conjure the ever-changing landscape of the natural world. Like the jerry-rigged farmer's contraption that stands in for eclectic grandeur and jumbled eloquence, this collection celebrates the way ordinary elements can be yoked to create wholly original insights. Be it through rhyme or free verse, slang or lyricism, and roaming a dazzling range of tones, satirical, philosophical, scabrous, tender, celebratory, Installations offers up a world depicted and inhabited in all its manifestations. Director's Cut David Solway, 2003 Solway argues in this feisty and polemical book that the time has arrived to take stock and engage passionately with our literature and especially our poetry if it is ever to be rescued from the swamp of second-rateness into which it has descended. He contends that almost all of the poetry and much of the fiction being written in Canada these days is turgid, spurious, and pedestrian, the result of two highly questionable developments: the proliferation of Creative Writing departments in universities throughout the country and a largely subsidized literature industry abetted by a press of cousinly critics and reviewers intended to construct a patchwork national psyche, create a sense of ideological cohesion, and glorify the tribe. In consequence of this, we have sponsored a coterie of underachieving overproducers and proceeded to collude in their diffusion by virtue of our silent complicity or our chauvinism. Solway believes that we are on the whole far too nice, far too politically correct, and in a word far too Canadian to register our disapproval bluntly and agonistically. The last thing we want to do is offend anyone. But all that such manoeuvres ensure is that nothing changes while conscience is appeased. There comes a time when diffidence and affability those specifically Canadian virtues work against our best interests and prevent the candid and occasionally brutal assessments without which the critical stupor and aesthetic fog so congenial to us must remain destructively in place In Director s Cut Solway attempts to dispel that fog to see clearly and to speak directly to a readership that has been far too receptive of questionable work Habibi (my Beloved) David Solway,2012 Habibi the love poems of the Moroccan poet Alim Maghrebi is the latest in a series of David Solway s poetic translations dating from Andreas Karavis Saracen Island and including Nesmine Rifat s Pallikari Rhys Savarin s Reaching for Clear Bartholomew the Englishman s The Properties of Things and Dov Ben Zamir s New Wine Old Bottles the latter still in manuscript These are what Solway calls his ostensible poetic voices and artifacts which he regards as constituting an extended trope or metaphor of the desire for transformation Chess Pieces David Solway,1999-03-30 But never underestimate the powers of the pawn who can promote into a queen and put a kingdom on or moving humbly up the board killing on the side outpriest the priest and leave the knight without a horse to ride and trip the elevated rook to bring it crashing down and nudge the misanthropic queen into oblivion and stop before great Caesar s throne a tiny regicide and watch a cornered monarch fall and ponder how he died from The Powers of the Pawn The Properties of Things David Solway,2012-10-16 The Properties of Things continues David Solway s explorations in the realm of fictive translation this time that of the obscure thirteenth century scholar Bartolomaeus Anglicus The result is a poetic alphabet ranging from the bawdy to the sublime David Solway has been called an internationalist of the imagination He remains one of the country s most brilliant and inventive poets Selected Poems David Solway,1982 Presents a collection of poems dating from 1966 written in Greece Reflections on Music, Poetry and Politics, 2nd Edition David Solway,2016-07-16 David Solway was politically incorrect long before the term was in vogue Now he writes candidly and with a poet s flair about music poetry politics and their relation to life He asks basic searching questions What makes a good song and how does a songwriter know when he has written one Are song lyrics a kind of poetry set to melody or something different altogether Does Canada have a patriotic country folk tradition comparable to the American one Should music be political or does the politics ruin the song With his trademark elegance and wit Solway writes of the joys and challenges of being immersed in music The Herb Garden David Solway,2018 Bartholomew the Englishman was a 13th century Franciscan friar and scholar whose only surviving work De proprietatibus rerum The Properties of Things was intended as an encyclopedia of the world The poet has culled certain details from the tome and added many others to construct what he conceives his garden might have been like assuming he had one and how he might have described it He has also repositioned him as a poet This collection is to be understood as an invention Modern Marriage David Solway,1987 A series of lucid and engaging postcard sonnets written as letters to the poet s wife from temporary residences in Greece and in the Eastern Townships of Quebec Reflections on Music, Poetry and Politics David Solway,2016-03-23 David Solway was politically incorrect long before the term was in vogue Now he writes

candidly and with a poet's flair about music poetry politics and their relation to life He asks basic searching questions What makes a good song and how does a songwriter know when he has written one Are song lyrics a kind of poetry set to melody or something different altogether Does Canada have a patriotic country folk tradition comparable to the American one Should music be political or does the politics ruin the song With his trademark elegance and wit Solway writes of the joys and challenges of being immersed in music This Is Not a Hoax Heather Jessup, 2019-11-06 This Is Not a Hoax shows how the work of some contemporary artists and writers intentionally disrupts the curatorial and authorial practices of the country's most respected cultural institutions art galleries museums and book publishers This first ever study of contemporary Canadian hoaxes in visual art and literature asks why we trust authority in artistic works and how that trust is manifest This book claims that hoaxes far from being merely lies meant to deceive or wound may exert a positive influence Through their insistent disobedience they assist viewers and readers in re-examining unquestioned institutional trust habituated cultural hierarchies and the deeply inscribed racism and sexism of Canada's settler colonial history Through its attentive look at hoaxical works by Canadian artists Iris Hussler Brian Jungen and Rebecca Belmore photographer Jeff Wall and writers and translators David Solway and Erin Mour this book celebrates the surprising ways hoaxes call attention to human capacities for flexibility adaptation and resilience in a cultural moment when radical empathy and imagination is critically needed

Paximalia, by David Solway David Solway, 1972 An Andreas Karavis Companion David Solway, 2000 Drawing on his friendship with Karavis David Solway has leavened the critical commentary and biographical background with a selection of letters and extracts from the notebooks of this enigmatic Greek poet Includes never before published new poems Karavis has sent to Solway The works and days of Andreas Karavis together constitute a rare phenomenon in the cultural life of contemporary Greece A poet who was largely unknown until the late eighties working indefatigably but in almost total obscurity from youth to later middle age he suddenly finds himself in the public eye as a powerful but enigmatic presence yet his life remains an almost impenetrable secret The Mulberry Men David Solway, 1982 A collection of whimsical poems with illustrations by Maureen Maxwell The Anatomy of Arcadia David Solway, 1992 His wry and beautifully written excursion into a dystopian Arcadia is rooted in his sardonic wit and in the pitiless eye that he turns on modern Greece on modern Greeks and not the least on himself Witold Rybczynski Catalog of the Gerald K.
