Education in Urban America William De La Torre, Luis A. Rubalcava, Beverly Cabello, 2004 The Praeger Handbook of Urban Education Philip M. Anderson, Kecia Hayes, Joe Kincheloe, Karel Rose, 2006-03-30

Maintaining that urban teaching and learning is characterized by many contradictions this work proposes that there is a wide range of social cultural psychological and pedagogical knowledge urban educators must possess in order to engage in effective and transformative practice It is necessary for those teaching in urban schools to be scholar practitioners rather than bureaucrats who can only follow rather than analyze understand and create Ten major sections cover the myriad issues of urban education as it exists today

The Future of American Higher Education Joseph L. DeVitis, 2023-07-03 This impressive anthology presents the reader with an introduction to a gallery of public intellectuals through the critical eyes of a wide array of contributing writers from various academic fields Both the latter and the public intellectuals themselves are responding to the state of American higher education Importantly most of them there are a few public intellectuals in the book who cling closer to the status quo do not separate colleges and universities from the political economic and social currents of American society They attack the realities of growing social inequality the intractable presence of institutional racism and the recurrent reliance on the free market as the arbiter of value Public intellectuals assess the impact of these social factors on the organization and practices of contemporary American higher education They force the reader to consider serious challenges to the current arrangement of higher learning and as such they ask us to assess the efficacy of their respective perspectives Do they present the reader with insight or idealism pathways or dead ends This compendium provides an abundance of ideas for higher education leaders policy makers faculty members trustees and governmental officials as well as social theorists and graduate students interested in higher education careers Richard Guarasci President Emeritus of Wagner College Just as our society is polarized higher education is no less divided as to its mission and purpose whether it should be preparing students for employment or for engagement as citizens whether it should be corporatist and profit driven or promote intellectual curiosity and independent thinking and whether it should pursue a neoliberal agenda or promote a liberal education Whose scholarship culture and epistemologies should be validated Should it be a private or a public good Preserve tenure or erode it What role should colleges and universities play in addressing economic inequality and systemic racism The answers to these questions are critical for the future of our society as our universities and colleges are the nurseries of the values and philosophies that shape it The chapters in this book review the contributions of seventeen public intellectuals who have been at the forefront of these issues and significantly contributed to these debates Each describes the genesis of each scholar s ideas and presents and critiques his or her core insights and arguments The seventeen public intellectuals represent a spectrum of opinion from the conservative to the progressive At this pivotal moment when much of higher education is in economic crisis and public trust in it has been eroded this book offers a robust entry point for considering the options and directions ahead for anyone in a leadership position The book will also be valuable for higher education courses to stimulate debate about these critical issues and introduce readers to the seminal thinkers in the field Public Intellectuals Presented Stanley Aronowitz Michael B rub Marc Bousquet Patricia Hill Collins Lori Patton Davis William Deresiewicz Stanley Fish Marybeth Gasman Henry Giroux Sara Goldrick Rabb Amy Gutmann Russell Jacoby Randall Kennedy David Kirp David F Labaree Christopher Newfield Michael Roth Educational Opportunity in an Urban American High School Patrick J. Urban Education Karen Symms Gallagher,Rodney Goodyear,Dominic Brewer,Robert Rueda,2013-03-19 Many factors complicate the education of urban students Among them have been issues related to population density racial ethnic cultural and linguistic diversity poverty racism individual and institutional and funding levels Although urban educators have been addressing these issues for decades placing them under the umbrella of urban education and treating them as a specific area of practice and inquiry is relatively recent Despite the wide adoption of the term a consensus about its meaning exists at only the broadest of levels In short urban education remains an ill defined concept This comprehensive volume addresses this definitional challenge and provides a 3 part conceptual model in which the achievement of equity for all regardless of race gender or ethnicity is an ideal that is central to urban education The model also posits that effective urban education requires attention to the three central issues that confronts all education systems a accountability of individuals and the institutions in which they work b leadership which occurs in multiple ways and at multiple levels and c learning which is the raison d tre of education Just as a three legged stool would fall if any one leg were weak or missing each of these areas is essential to effective urban education and affects the others

School Counseling for Black Male Student Success in 21st Century Urban Schools Malik S. Henfield, Ahmad R. Washington, 2015-11-01 Discussions and research related to the salience of Black male student needs and development in relation to their general success and well being is well documented in many fields Indeed many studies have found that healthy masculine identity development is associated with a number of positive outcomes for males in general including Black males In school counseling literature however this discussion has been relatively absent particularly regarding those students living in urban contexts Indeed research devoted to the study of Black males in the school counseling literature focuses almost exclusively on race and issues associated with its social construction with only cursory if any attention given to their masculine identity development as a function of living in urban communities and attending urban schools Based on this lack of information it is probably a safe assumption that intentional systematic culturally relevant efforts to assist Black males in developing healthy achievement and masculine identities based on their unique personal social academic experiences and future career goals are not being applied by school counselors concerned with meeting students needs School counselors are in a unique position nonetheless to lend their considerable expertise insights training and skills to improving life outcomes among Black males a population who are consistently in positions of risk according to a number of quality of life indicators Without knowledge and awareness of Black males masculine identity development in urban areas coupled with the requisite skills to influence the myriad factors that enhance and impede healthy development in such environments they are missing out on tremendous opportunities which other professions appear to understand and quite frankly seem to take more seriously As such this book proposes to accomplish two specific goals 1 Highlight the plight of Black males with specific emphasis on the ecological components of their lives in relation to current school culture and trends 2 Encourage school counselors to give more thought to Black male identity development that takes into consideration differential experiences in society as a whole and schools in particular as a function of the intersection of their race as well as their gender The first rationale for this book then is to highlight the plight of Black males with specific emphasis on the ecological components of their lives in relation to current school culture and trends e g standards based accountability practices in urban environments However I recognize the role of school counselors has never been fully integrated into educational reform programs As such their positions are often unregulated and determined by people in positions of power who do not understand their training job specific standards and thus potential impact on the lives of Black male students As a result their vast potential to develop strong interventions designed to address the myriad racial and masculine factors that serve to enhance and impede Black males academic achievement is often unrealized Therefore the second reason for this special issue is to include the scholarship of professional school counselors and counselor educators with policy change in mind Scholars will be invited to contribute manuscripts that explore race masculinity and academic achievement in relation to the role of school counselors This is designed to encourage school counselors and counselor educators to give more thought to Black male identity development that takes into consideration differential experiences in society as a whole and schools in particular as a function of the intersection of their race as well as their gender
