of a king of this era He is the earliest substantially preserved body of an Egyptian king to survive in the archaeological record and the first known Egyptian pharaoh whose skeletal remains show that he died in battle The analysis of his death in a military encounter along with insights from the other skeletal remains indicates a line of kings whose rise to power was associated with their social background as members of the military elite The book examines the wider implications of these bodies in terms of the pronounced militarization of society in the Second Intermediate Period Seneb Kay's tomb has also provided extensive evidence through its use of reused blocks bearing decoration of earlier elite and royal monuments at Abydos The combination of evidence provides a new archaeological and historical window into the political situation that defined Egypt's Second Intermediate Period
