Community Well Being In Biocultural Landscapes Are We Living Well:

Community Well-being in Biocultural Landscapes Bas Verschuuren, Suneetha M. Subramanian, Wim Hiemstra, 2014 There is a growing recognition that living well must go beyond economic and material plenty to encompass social and spiritual well being But what do we understand by these wider aspects of well being Community Well being in Biocultural Landscapes provides an introduction to the concept of human well being as it relates to international rural development and conservation policy and practice It demonstrates that well being is understood and managed in a variety of ways in different cultures but also across the geographical scales at which decision making processes take place from the local to regional national and international scales This book shows how community well being can be measured using indicators chosen by local people to reflect the worldviews of their culture It provides a unifying approach that is flexible enough to be used by conservation and rural development workers This book is important reading for the staff of international aid and conservation agencies for students of international development and those exploring concepts of well being Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Planetary Well-Being Merja Elo, Jonne Hytönen, Sanna Karkulehto, Teea Kortetmäki, Janne S. Kotiaho, Mikael Puurtinen, Miikka Salo, 2023-06-26 This book proposes a paradigm shift in how human and nonhuman well being are perceived and approached In response to years of accelerated decline in the health of ecosystems and their inhabitants this edited collection presents planetary well being as a new cross disciplinary concept to foster global transformation towards a more equal and inclusive framing of well being Throughout this edited volume researchers across the humanities social sciences and natural sciences apply and reflect on the concept of planetary well being showcasing its value as an interdisciplinary cross sectoral changemaker The book explores the significance of planetary well being as a theoretical and empirical concept in sustainability science and applies it to discipline specific cases including business education psychology culture and development Interdisciplinary perspectives on topical global questions and processes underpin each chapter from soil processes and ecosystem health to global inequalities and cultural transformation in the framework of planetary well being The book will appeal to academics researchers and students in a broad range of disciplines including sustainability science sustainable development natural resources and environmental humanities Calling readers to assess challenge and rethink the dominant perceptions of well being and societal activities this rich resource that explores the interconnection between human and nonhuman well being serves as a tool to foster transformative action towards a more sustainable society The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license Plant Diversity in Biocultural Landscapes Siva Ramamoorthy, Inocencio E Buot Jr., C Rajasekaran, 2023-06-09 The edited book highlights comprehensive studies on plant diversity dynamics ecosystem processes and best conservation practices from the interdisciplinary perspectives such as the botanists ecologists conservation biologists geneticists cell biologists molecular biotechnologists and social scientists The main focus of the book is to address biodiversity loss and ecosystem collapse amidst the escalating climate change problems aggravated by anthropogenic activities in biocultural landscapes The book describes the biocultural landscape of today ecology of plant diversity botany of keystone and other rare species of economic and pharmaceutical significance ecosystem processes conservation and emerging frameworks to sustain biocultural landscapes in the Anthropocene Biocultural landscapes are tracks of land in many parts of the world shaped by unique human nature interactions Many of these landscapes are populated with indigenous peoples with a unique way of life including their interaction with plants and the environment The relationship between humans and nature in biocultural landscapes used to be harmonious However as the human population surges much pressure has been experienced by the landscape hence the loss of biodiversity and degradation of ecosystem services that cascade to agricultural systems The book is of interest to teachers professors policymakers researchers and advocates in the fields of botany ecology taxonomy biodiversity conservation environmental science molecular biology and genomics molecular ecology agriculture and Agri tourism forestry social science and climate change professionals Also the book serves as a good reference and additional reading material for undergraduate and graduate students

Routledge Handbook of Cultural Landscape Practice Steve Brown, Cari Goetcheus, 2023-02-14 Cultural landscapes which in the field of heritage studies and practice relates to caring for and safeguarding heritage landscapes is a concept embedded in contemporary conservation Heritage conservation has shifted from an historical focus on buildings city centres and archaeological sites to encompass progressively more diverse forms of heritage and increasingly larger geographic areas embracing both rural and urban landscapes While the origin of the idea of cultural landscapes can be traced to the late 19th century Euro American scholarship it came to global attention after 1992 following its adoption as a category of site by the UNESCO World Heritage Committee Today cultural landscape practice has become increasingly complex given the expansion of the values and meanings of heritage the influence of environmental challenges such as human induced climate change technological advancements and the need to better understand and interpret human connections to place and landscapes The aim of this handbook is to strike a balance between theory and practice which we see as inseparable while also seeking to achieve a geographical spread disciplinary diversity and perspectives and a mix of authors from academic practitioner management and community backgrounds

Guidance on mainstreaming biodiversity for nutrition and health, 2022-01-14 Research in Landscape Architecture Adri van den Brink, Diedrich Bruns, Hilde Tobi, Simon Bell, 2016-11-10 Defining a research question describing why it needs to be answered and explaining how methods are selected and applied are challenging tasks for anyone embarking on academic research within the field of landscape architecture Whether you are an early career researcher or a senior academic it is essential to draw meaningful conclusions and robust answers to research questions Research in Landscape Architecture provides guidance on the rationales needed for selecting methods and offers direction to help to frame and design academic research within the discipline Over the last couple of decades the traditional orientation in landscape architecture as a field of professional practice has gradually been complemented by a growing focus on research This book will help you to develop the connections between research teaching and practice to help you to build a common framework of theory and research methods Bringing together contributions from landscape architects across the world this book covers a broad range of research methodologies and examples to help you conduct research successfully Also included is a study in which the editors discuss the most important priorities for the research within the discipline over the coming years This book will provide a definitive path to developing research within landscape architecture

Cultural and Spiritual Significance of Nature in Protected Areas Bas Verschuuren, Steve Brown, 2018-08-15 Cultural and spiritual bonds with nature are among the strongest motivators for nature conservation yet they are seldom taken into account in the governance and management of protected and conserved areas The starting point of this book is that to be sustainable effective and equitable approaches to the management and governance of these areas need to engage with people s deeply held cultural spiritual personal and community values alongside inspiring action to conserve biological geological and cultural diversity Since protected area management and governance have traditionally been based on scientific research a combination of science and spirituality can engage and empower a variety of stakeholders from different cultural and religious backgrounds As evidenced in this volume stakeholders range from indigenous peoples and local communities to those following mainstream religions and those representing the wider public The authors argue that the scope of protected area management and governance needs to be extended to acknowledge the rights responsibilities obligations and aspirations of stakeholder groups and to recognise the cultural and spiritual significance that nature holds for people The book also has direct practical applications These follow the IUCN Best Practice Guidelines for protected and conserved area managers and present a wide range of case studies from around the world including Africa Asia Australia Europe and the Americas

Religion and Nature Conservation Radhika Borde, Alison A Ormsby, Stephen M Awoyemi, Andrew G Gosler, 2022-10-31 This book presents a broad array of global case studies exploring the interaction between religion and the conservation of nature from the viewpoints of the religious practitioners themselves With conservation and religion often being championed as allies in the quest for a sustainable world where humans and nature flourish this book provides a much needed compendium of detailed examples where religion and conservation science have been brought together Case studies cover a variety of religions faiths and practices including traditional Indigenous Buddhism Christianity Hinduism Islam Jainism Judaism Shinto and Zoroastrianism Importantly this volume gives voice to the religious practitioners and adherents themselves Beyond an exercise in anthropology ethnobiology and comparative religion the book is an applied work seeking the answer to how in a world of nearly eight billion people we might help our own species to prevent the extinction of life This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of nature conservation environment and religion cultural geography and ethnobiology as well as practitioners and professionals working in conservation On the Roads of Community Landscapes Paolo Debernardi, 2024-01-23 The paper text is a conceptual introduction to the INTERNATIONAL INVENTORY OF COMMUNITY CULTURAL AND BIOCULTURAL LANDSCAPES for the moment in digital form The Inventory is an attempt to identify rural pasture forestry and coastal community spaces still existing and observable in the landscape and identity dimension as stratified over the millennia also in relation to the presence of management practices still existing potentially subject to analysis and studies by agroecologists and naturalists These spaces have been reviewed in approximately 1300 files on an international basis into 8 main typologies divided into nations departments regions and localities in relation to scientific reports and activities carried out by bodies associations universities and foundations as well as on the basis of personal direct observations in different continents Anyone among the readers can find in alphabetical order in the Inventory sheets of different nations the presence of areas of interest to them and inform me if they believe of the presence of other spaces of communities and landscapes by email debernardi@agerlandscape.org Religion, Sustainability, and Place Steven E. Silvern, Edward H. Davis, 2020-12-14 This book explores how religious groups work to create sustainable relationships between people places and environments This interdisciplinary volume deepens our understanding of this relationship revealing that the geographical imagination our sense of place is a key aspect of the sustainability ideas and practices of religious groups The book begins with a broad examination of how place shapes faith based ideas about sustainability with examples drawn from indigenous Hawaiians and the sacred texts of Judaism and Islam Empirical case studies from North America Europe Central Asia and Africa follow illustrating how a local bounded and sacred sense of place informs religious based efforts to protect people and natural resources from threatening economic and political forces Other contributors demonstrate that a cosmopolitan geographical imagination viewing place as extending from the local to the global shapes the struggles of Christian Jewish and interfaith groups to promote just and sustainable food systems and battle the climate crisis

Perspectives on Nature

Conservation John Tiefenbacher, 2012-02-29 Perspectives on Nature Conservation demonstrates the diversity of information and viewpoints that are critical for appreciating the gaps and weaknesses in local regional and hemispheric ecologies and also for understanding the limitations and barriers to accomplishing critical nature conservation projects The book is organized to emphasize the linkages between the geographic foci of conservation projects and the biological substances that we conceptualize as nature through original research The reader moves through perspectives of diminishing spatial scales from smaller to larger landscapes or larger portions of the Earth to learn that the range of factors that promote or prevent conservation through the application of scholarship and academic concepts change with the space in question The book reflects disciplinary diversity and a co mingling of science and social science to promote understanding of the patterns of pressures on and prospects for conservation Ethnobotany and Biocultural Diversities in the Balkans Andrea Pieroni, Cassandra L. Quave, 2014-11-14 This volume addresses recent and ongoing ethnobotanical studies in the Balkans The book focuses on elaborating the relevance of such studies for future initiatives in this region both in terms of sustainable and peaceful trans regional trans cultural rural development A multi disciplinary viewpoint is utilized with an incorporation of historical ethnographic linguistic biological nutritional and medical perspectives The book is also authored by recognized scholars who in the last decade have extensively researched the Balkan traditional knowledge systems as they pertain to perceptions of the natural world and especially plants Ethnobotany and Biocultural Diversities in the Balkans is the first ethnobotany book on one of the most biologically and culturally diverse regions of the world and is a valuable resource for both scholars and students interested in the field of ethnobotany

Well-Being and Cultures Hans Henrik Knoop, Antonella Delle Fave, 2012-08-01 This anthology focuses on empirical studies comparing cultures in relation to central positive psychological topics The book starts out with an introductory chapter that brings together the main ideas and findings within an integrative perspective based on a broad theoretical framework encompassing interdisciplinary and methodological issues It gives special emphasis to some open issues in the theory and assessment of culture related dimensions and to the potential of positive psychology in addressing them The introductory chapter is followed by two chapters that examine theoretical approaches and instruments developed to assess happiness and well being across cultures Following that examination five chapters are devoted to the relationship between well being cultures and values The second half of the book prominently investigates well being across cultures in the light of socio economic factors This book shows that positive psychology now officially well into its second decade is providing still finer grained perspectives on the diversity of cultures along with insights about our shared human nature uniting us for better or worse

Loconto, Douglas H. Constance, 2024-02-01 The greatest challenges of the twenty first century stem from the fact that we are now living in a new epoch the Anthropocene The human footprint on the planet can no longer be denied One of the greatest and most essential human innovations agriculture is being increasingly recognised as a leading contributor to climate change According to global governance bodies the world will need to feed a predicted nine billion people by 2050 However in this Anthropocene we must address the environmental inequalities in how these people will be fed This book explores our current societal struggles to transition towards more sustainable agrifood systems It suggests that debates around sustainable agriculture must be social as well as technical exploring the growth of social movements campaigning for more democratic food systems However as each chapter demonstrates both the problems and the solutions in sustainable agriculture are highly contested Using the term agrifood to capture the nexus between research governance and the environment knowledge environment governance this book provides an in depth and wide ranging account of current research around agricultural production and food consumption The book introduces the Anthropocene along with the fundamental question that it poses about human nature interactions It outlines the core concerns related to agriculture and food and the debates around the need for agrifood system transitions Each chapter investigates controversies in the field through case studies These contributions offer a call for sociologists of agriculture and food to engage with the controversies unfolding in the Anthropocene
