Introductory Psychology in Modules Understanding Our Heads Hearts and Hands is a unique and comprehensive introduction to psychology. It consists of 36 short modules that keep students engaged with humor, a narrative style, and hands-on activities that facilitate interactive learning and critical thinking. Each stand-alone module focuses on a major topic in psychology, from the brain, sensation, memory, and cognition to human development, personality, social psychology, and clinical psychology. The modular format also allows a deep dive into important topics that have less coverage in other introductory psychology textbooks. This includes cross-cultural psychology, stereotypes and discrimination, evolutionary psychology, sex and gender, climate change, health psychology, and sport psychology. This truly modular format, ideal for both face-to-face and virtual learning, makes it easy for instructors to customize their readings and assign exactly what they wish to emphasize. The book also contains an abundance of pedagogical features, including numerous hands-on activities and group discussion activities, multiple-choice practice quizzes, and an instructor exam bank written by the authors. By covering both classic and contemporary topics, this book will delight students and instructors alike. The modular format also makes this a useful supplementary text for classes in nursing, medicine, social work, policing, and sociology.

Heterosexuality Diana Chapman, 1987. Why are some people so stubbornly attracted to the opposite sex? What exactly is heterosexuality? What causes it? Is it a satisfactory lifestyle for the individuals affected? Can it be cured? And why is it so often the subject of powerful, irrational feelings? Questions like these have vexed lesbians and gay men from time immemorial. In this highly original anthology, the nature of heterosexuality is examined from a wide range of converging perspectives. The contributors use memoir, fiction, illustration, and verse, as well as the more scholarly techniques of social psychology. They explore such themes as friendship with heterosexual women, working politically with straight men, social behaviour in the heterosexual community, and the philosophical basis of the heterosexual norm, to name but a few. Produced by a team of acknowledged experts, each with long experience in this field of study, this book has an appeal for both specialist and general reader. Certain to become the established authority of its subject.

Mediating Multiculturalism Daniella Trimboli, 2020-08-04. Using digital storytelling, a new media genre that began in California in the late 1990s and that proliferated across the West in the 2000s as a site of analysis, this book asks: What is done in the name of the everyday? Like everyday multiculturalism, digital storytelling is promoted as an accessible, enabling, and ordinary phenomenon that represents cultural experience more accurately than official sites. As such, the genre frequently houses stories of migration, community, and ethnic and racial differences. In turn, digital story collections often act as digital monuments or repositories of multiculturalism, giving a digital life to narratives of migration, cultural difference and national belonging This is evidenced in one of the world's largest public collections of digital stories found in the Australian Centre for the Moving Image ACMI and referenced throughout this book Using examples from this collection and pointing to comparable ones in the UK and North America this book investigates how notions of the everyday become a channel through which certain long standing discourses of race get redeployed in multicultural nations What can digital storytelling teach us about the status and future of multiculturalism in these societies Can digital storytelling re mediate multiculturalism in new progressive ways
