Lester, Meng Ji, Kingsley Edney, Chris G. Pope, Luli van der Does-Ishikawa, 2017-04-07 This book offers a theoretically informed empirical investigation of national media reporting and political discourse on environmental issues in Australia China and Japan It illuminates the risks harms and responsibilities associated with climate change through an analysis of pollution adopting an interdisciplinary approach drawing on both the social sciences and humanities A particular strength of the work is the detailed analysis of the data using a range of both quantitative and qualitative techniques enabling the authors to reveal in rich and compelling detail the complex relationship between risk and responsibility in the climate change discourse The case studies of Australia China and Japan are set in the current literature as well as in the historical context of climate change in these three countries The analysis of the media discourse on the Great Barrier Reef in Australia demonstrates how the mining of coal for overseas markets has led to devastating harm to the life of the reef A critical discussion of the Chinese documentary Under the Dome shows how this medium has played a crucial role in building awareness of the harm from atmospheric pollution among the citizens shaping attitudes and promoting action The first case study of Japan elucidates how cross border atmospheric pollution from China forges a chain of responsibility for responding to climate change running from the state to society The other case study of Japan demonstrates how smart cities have emerged as a way to mitigate the risks and harms of climate change The Conclusion draws together the similarities and differences in how climate change is addressed in the three countries In all Environmental Pollution and the Media Political Discourses of Risk and Responsibility in Australia China and Japan uncovers the dynamics of the triadic relationship among risk harm and climate change in Australia China and Japan By so doing the book makes an original and timely contribution to understanding comparative media discourse and political debates on climate change New Concepts in Air Pollution Research Willums,2013-11-11

Recent publications on the fate of our limited earth have stirred up vivid worldwide discussions during which it became clear that our knowledge of the complex ecosystem is far from sufficient today All planning and predictive models are only as good as the input data they are based on Improved research methods and new ideas and impulses are therefore urgently needed both to stimulate the specialized scientists and to supply the concerned citizen with the updated background information necessary to make responsible decisions Generally most of the serious publications in the field of pollution are written by well known and well established scientists It is beyond doubt that their experience and profound knowledge is an essential contribution to the understanding of our environment But one whole group of scientists has not been able to present their ideas and concerns to a broader scientific or non scientific readership the young scientist at the beginning of his career He belongs to a new generation of scientists who have studied during a time when environmental concern has become a vital part of the university life Now in the first decade of his academic career his educational approach and his developing expertise in this field may synthesize ideas that will fall on what is already a fertile ground for new concepts that are urgently needed to solve the environmental crisis Water-resources Investigations Report ,1987 Technical Abstract Bulletin , Human Radiation Experiments DIANE Publishing Company,1998-04 Examines progress that the U S government has
