The New Engineering Contract Arthur McInnis, 2001 The introduction of the New Engineering Contract NEC encourages a systematic approach to contracting which is multidisciplinary in nature and fully interlocked in form The NEC is intended by its supporters to be more flexible and easier to use than any current leading traditional standard forms of contract It is believed that these features reduce adversariality and disputes The NEC seeks to achieve this aim primarily through co operative management techniques and incentives built into the NEC s procedures This commentary analyses and evaluates these and related claims of innovation The New Engineering Contract A legal commentary examines the background to the NEC its design objectives structure procedures and likely judicial interpretation to determine whether it improves upon the traditional standard forms of contract Special attention is given in the commentary to the development and the significance of the principles underlying preparation of the NEC as well as the arguments in favour of and against them Throughout the detailed commentary upon the NEC clauses comparisons to the traditional forms are also made to highlight unique features and principles of general application The conclusion reached is that the NEC does make a significant contribution to the development of standard forms of contract addresses many of their short comings and offers one of the best models for their future development direction and design The commentary draws upon the body of the project management literature and legal analysis to support its conclusions The New Engineering Contract A legal commentary will be essential reading for

Person-Centered Politics Eamonn O'Higgins, 2024-04-09 What accounts for the widespread disillusionment with politics Person centered Politics suggests that politics today through its structures processes and institutions tends to presuppose and to impose a certain caricature of the human person that inhibits and frustrates a real sense of personal participation in an authentic common good of politics and society In 12 chapters that touch on fundamental themes of political philosophy Person centered Politics proposes the social and transcendent dimensions of personal existence and their application to the renewal of politics today The themes explore the commonly accepted assumptions of politics today and how a renewed understanding of the person can invigorate political discourse and action In Person centered Politics the author is in continuous dialogue with some of the major contemporary philosophers and thinkers such as Eric Voegelin David Walsh Robert Sokolowski Vaclav Havel Pierre Manent Peter Simpson and Joseph Ratzinger Benedict XVI Detailed footnotes in each chapter provide reference to further sources of enlightenment and research Person centered Politics proposes an outline for a renewed vision of politics that is centered on the truth of human existence and not a politics that distorts and suffocates the human spirit because in the words of E Voegelin the right order of the soul through philosophy furnishes the standard for the right order of society and not the other way round
