Consumed Rethinking Business In The Era Of Mindful Spending:

Consumed Andrew Bennett, Ann O'Reilly, 2010-07-06 Consumed is a forward thinking look at how shoppers and consumption have changed now and for the foreseeable future and how businesses must rethink their strategies in order to thrive in this new economic landscape. A worldwide study by the authors found the following: More than a quarter of respondents believe their lives would be better if they owned fewer things. 55 percent of Americans surveyed say they're deriving a sense of satisfaction from reducing their purchases during the down turn and seven in ten global respondents say they feel good about reducing the amount of waste they create. Nearly half of the American respondents have no intention of going back to their old shopping patterns even when the economy rebounds. Brand experts Andrew Bennett and Ann O'Reilly advise businesses on current and pending shifts in consumer behavior and what they must do to lead in this new economy.

Consumed: Rethinking Business in the Era of Mindful Spending Andrew Bennett, Ann O'Reilly, 2010-07-06 As the effects of the global recession linger, consumers everywhere are changing their purchasing patterns, paying greater attention to what and why they are buying and from whom. While many feel rampant spending is hard-wired into the modern psyche and that we will be back to our wasteful ways soon enough, there are clear indications of a permanent shift in the way we shop. Even before the economic downturn, consumers' definitions of value had begun to change. People were becoming more mindful about their purchases and more attuned to the social and environmental implications of their choices. To better understand this important evolution and its ramifications for business, Andrew Bennett and Anne O'Reilly launched a groundbreaking study on the New Consumer and the escalating dissatisfaction over hyperconsumerism. Here for the first time is an in-depth look at the new face of the global consumer, showing that a significant majority in the seven markets surveyed are deeply worried about the direction in which our consumption-obsessed society is moving. They believe people have become both physically and mentally lazy and that as a society we have lost sight of what truly matters. Two-thirds believe they would be better off if they lived more simply and a quarter say they would be happier if they owned fewer things. Half of Americans surveyed are deriving a sense of satisfaction from reducing their purchases during the downturn and three-quarters are feeling good about cutting back on the amount of waste they create. A majority of Americans have no intention of going back to their old shopping patterns even when the economy rebounds. Now as the consumer voice signals its changed priorities, forward-thinking companies are responding by rejecting excess and artificiality in favor of products and communications that offer authenticity, substance, and interconnectedness. All values today's more mindful consumer craves. In this book, the brand experts look at corporations as diverse as Glenmorangie and Wal-Mart to see what lessons they can offer to businesses attempting to grow in the post-consumerism era. They also spoke with corporate leaders in a variety of industries to learn how they are recasting their businesses and brands in order to prepare for the changes ahead. Through cutting-edge research and a sharp look at new industry models, Consumed provides real direction for marketers and

Killer Stuff and Tons of Money Maureen Stanton, 2011-06-09 One dealer s journey from the populist mayhem of flea markets to the rarefied realm of auctions reveals the rich often outrageous subculture of antiques and collectibles Millions of Americans are drawn to antiques and flea market culture whether as participants or as viewers of the perennially popular Antiques Roadshow or the recent hit American Pickers This world has the air of a lottery a 20 purchase might net you four five or six figures Master dealer Curt Avery the unlikely star of Killer Stuff and Tons of Money plays that lottery every day and he wins it more than most Occasionally he gets lucky but more often he draws on a deep knowledge of America s past and the odd fascinating and beautiful objects that have survived it Week in week out Avery trawls the flea and antiques circuit buying selling and advising other dealers in his many areas of expertise from furniture to glass to stoneware and more On the surface he s an improbable candidate for an antiques dealer He wrestled in high school and still retains the pugilistic build he is gruff funny and profane he favors shorts and sneakers even in November and he is remarkably generous toward both competitors and customers who want a break But as he struggles for a spot in a high end Boston show he must step up his game and perhaps more challenging fit in with a white shoe crowd Through his ascent we see the flea osphere for what it truly is less a lottery than a contact sport with few rules and many pitfalls This rich and sometimes hilarious subculture rewards peculiar interests and outright obsessions one dealer specializes in shrunken heads another wants all the postal memorabilia he can get So Avery must be a guerrilla historian and use his hard earned knowledge of America s past to live by and off his wits Only the smartest survive in one of America s most ruthless meritocracies Killer Stuff and Tons of Money is many things an insider s look at a subculture replete with arcane traditions and high drama an inspiring account of a self made man making his way in a cutthroat field a treasure trove of tips for those who seek out old things themselves and a thoroughly fresh vibrant view of history as blood sport

Marketing in an Audiology Practice Brian Taylor, 2015-04-01 Marketing in an Audiology Practice provides a unique in depth look into all facets of marketing and is a must have for audiologists looking to market themselves and grow their business It demonstrates how marketing and branding are instrumental to the long term sustainability of an audiology or hearing instrument dispensing practice It is written for two audiences graduate students who often do not get enough exposure to business related coursework during their graduate school tenure and experienced audiologists who are looking for some material of a practical nature This practical text strives to further the autonomy of the profession by presenting an A to Z approach for creating and implementing marketing plans and budgets in both for profit and not for profit settings Additionally a key focus of this text is how to incorporate new and emerging social media tools as part of a comprehensive marketing strategy to appeal to a broader patient base
