Community, Myth and Recognition in Twentieth-Century French Literature and Thought Nikolaj

Lübecker, 2009-11-19 Taking as its point of departure the notion of community in mid twentieth century French literature and thought this ambitious study seeks to uncover the ways in which Breton Bataille Sartre and Barthes used literature and art to engage with the question of reconceptualizing society In exploring the relevance these writings hold for contemporary debates about community Lubecker argues for the continuing social importance of literary studies Throughout the book he suggests that literature and art are privileged fields for confronting some of the anti social desires situated at the periphery of human rationality The authors studied put to work the concepts of Thanatos sado masochism and self sacrifice they also write more poetically about man's attraction to Silence the Night and the Neutral. Many sociological discourses on the question of community tend to marginalize the drives inherent within these concepts. Lubecker argues it is essential to take these drives into account when theorising the question of community otherwise they may return in the atavistic form of myths. Moreover if handled with care and attention they can prove to be a resource.

The Routledge Companion to Literature and Feminism Rachel Carroll, Fiona Tolan, 2023-12-01 The Routledge Companion to Literature and Feminism brings unique literary critical and historical perspectives to the relationship between women's writing and women's rights in British contexts from the late eighteenth century to the present. Thematically organised around five central concepts: Rights, Networks, Bodies, Production and Activism, the Companion tracks vital questions and debates offering fresh perspectives on changing priorities and enduring continuities in relation to women's ongoing struggle for liberty and equality. This groundbreaking collection brings into focus the historical and cultural conditions which have shaped the formation of British literary feminisms including the legacies of slavery, colonialism and Empire. From the political novel of the 1790s to early twentieth century suffrage theatre and contemporary ecofeminism and from the mid-Victorian antislavery movement to anti-fascist activism in the 1930s and working class women's writing groups in the 1980s, this book testifies to the diverse and dynamic character of the relationship between literature and feminism. Featuring contributions from leading feminist scholars, the Companion offers new insights into the crucial role played by women's literary production in the evolving history of women's rights discourses, feminist activism and movements for gender equality. It will appeal to students and scholars in the fields of women's writing, British literature, cultural history and gender and feminist studies.

Writing African American Women Elizabeth A. Beaulieu, 2006-04-30 Women have had a complex experience in African American culture. The first work of its kind, this encyclopedia approaches African American literature from a Women's Studies perspective. While Yolanda Williams Page's Encyclopedia of African American Women Writers provides biographical entries on more than 150 literary figures, this book is much broader in scope. Included are several hundred alphabetically arranged entries on African American women writers as well as on male writers who have treated women in their works. Entries on genres, periods, themes, characters, historical events, texts, places and other topics are included as well. Each entry is written by an expert contributor and relates its subject to the overall experience of women in African American literature. Entries cite works for further reading and the encyclopedia closes with a selected general bibliography. African American culture is enormously diverse and the experience of women in African American society is especially complex. Women were among the first African American writers and works by black women writers are popular among students and general readers alike. At the same time, African American women have been oppressed and texts by black male authors represent women in a variety of ways. The first of its kind, this encyclopedia approaches African American literature from a Women's Studies perspective and thus significantly illuminates the African American cultural experience through literary works. Included are several hundred alphabetically arranged entries written by numerous expert contributors In addition to covering male and female African American authors the encyclopedia also discusses themes major works and characters genres periods historical events places and other topics Included are entries on such authors as Maya Angelou James Baldwin Frederick Douglass Nikki Giovanni June Jordan Claude McKay Ishmael Reed Sojourner Truth Phillis Wheatley And many others In addition the many works discussed include Beloved Blanche on the Lam I know Why the Caged Bird Sings The Men of Brewster Place Quicksand The Street Waiting to Exhale And many more The many topical entries cover Black Feminism Black Nationalism Conjuring Children s and Young Adult Literature Detective Fiction Epistolary Novel Motherhood Sexuality Spirituality Stereotypes And many others Entries relate their topics to the experience of African American women and cite works for further reading Features and Benefits Includes hundreds of alphabetically arranged entries Draws on the work of numerous expert contributors Includes a selected general bibliography Offers a range of finding aids such as a list of entries a guide to related topics and an extensive index Supports the literature curriculum by helping students analyze major writers and works Supports the social studies curriculum by helping students use literature to understand the experience of African American women Covers the full chronological range of African American literature Fosters a respect for cultural diversity Develops research skills by directing students to additional sources of information Builds bridges between African American history literature and Women s Studies

The Posthuman Condition in 21st Century Literature and Culture María Ferrández-Sanmiguel, Esther Muñoz-González, Carmen Laguarda-Bueno, 2025-06-18 More than a decade after its first definitions critical posthumanism has become consolidated as a key discourse for the understanding of our contemporary state of being within what has been called the paradigm of posthumanity but also crucially as an ideology and a praxis that guides our engagements with the world around us This double dimension characterizes the contributions to this volume They resort to critical posthumanism in its most recent developments as a set of tools for critical and cultural analysis of our posthuman times as posthumanist concerns manifest in our cultural products This volume studies the most recent evolutions in the field of critical posthumanism as represented in key novels and other screened popular cultural products produced in the first and second decades of the twenty first century Resorting to the analytical tools provided by critical posthumanist theory in cross disciplinary dialogue with other fields such as transhumanism feminist gender and queer theory vulnerability studies new materialism critical animal studies and environmental theory the scholars whose work this volume showcases bear witness to how literature and popular culture have been influenced and impressed by posthumanism Chapters 1 5 7 8 and 12 are available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via Springerlink

Eighteenth-century Women's Writing and the Methodist Media Revolution Andrew O. Winckles, 2019 This book traces specific cases of how evangelical and Methodist discourse practices interacted with major cultural and literary events during the long eighteenth century from the rise of the novel to the Revolution controversy of the 1790s to the shifting ground for women writers leading up to the Reform era in the 1830s

Uncertainty and Undecidability in Twentieth-Century Literature and Literary Theory Mette Leonard Høeg, 2022-04-28 Undecidability is a fundamental quality of literature and constitutive of what renders some works appealing and engaging across time and in different contexts This book explores the essential literary notion and its role function and effect in late nineteenth and twentieth century literature and literary theory The book traces the notion historically providing a map of central theories addressing interpretative challenges and recalcitrance in literature and showing theory of uncertainty to be an essential strand of literary theory While uncertainty is present in all literature and indeed a prerequisite for any stabilisation of meaning the Modernist period is characterised by a particularly strong awareness of uncertainty and its subforms of undecidability ambiguity indeterminacy etc With examples from seminal Modernist works by Woolf Proust Ford Kafka and Musil the book sheds light on undecidability as a central structuring principle and guiding philosophical idea in twentieth century literature and demonstrates the analytical value of undecidability as a critical concept and reading strategy Defining undecidability as a specific sustained and productive kind of uncertainty and distinguishing it from related forms such as ambiguity indeterminacy and indistinction the book develops a systematic but flexible theory of undecidability and outlines a productive reading strategy based on the recognition of textual and interpretive undecidability
