Computational Models in the Economics of Environment and Development A.K. Duraiappah, 2012-12-06 Computational Models in the Economics of Environment and Development provides a step by step guide in designing developing and solving non linear environment development models. It accomplishes this by focusing on applied models using real examples as case studies. Additionally, it gives examples of developing policy interventions based on quantitative model results. Finally, it uses a simple computer program GAMS to develop and solve models. This book is targeted towards university lecturers and students in economic modeling and sustainable development but is also of particular interest to researchers at sustainable development research institutes and policy makers at international sustainable development policy institutions such as the World Bank UNDP and UNEP.

Handbook on the Economics of Climate Change Graciela Chichilnisky, Armon Rezai, 2020-06-26 This timely Handbook recognises the emergence of climate change as the defining topic of our time. With public climate discourse growing more urgent every year, this Handbook brings together international experts from different economic disciplines to answer critical climate policy questions. Global Change and Baltic Coastal Zones Gerald Schernewski, Jacobus Hofstede, Thomas Neumann, 2011-03-31 Climate change and ongoing transformation processes in economy and agriculture will have strong and multiple impacts in the Baltic region. In particular, coastal zones face increasing hazards e.g. due to sea level rise or changes in riverine nutrient loads and eutrophication. These changes also offer a wide range of new opportunities in the Baltic Region. Adaptation measures are needed but require a thorough and spatially differentiated understanding of underlying ecological, economic and social processes. Sixteen contributions by authors from eight countries give a comprehensive overview of these changes, their consequences and practical challenges, with focus on coastal zones. Besides risks, the chances and opportunities of changes for the region are addressed and adaptation examples and strategies are given. The practitioners' perspective and their demands are integrated in the various contributions.

Blue Economy and Ocean Sustainable Development in a Globalised World: Social, Political, Economic and Environmental Issues

Ibukun J. Adewumi,Andrei Polejack,Joanna Vince,Maree E. Fudge,2023-12-05 In the last decade the concept of a Blue Economy has ignited a deep theoretical debate Ranging from the integration of the triple bottom line of sustainability to the optimization of profit from ocean exploitation the meaning of the term blue economy differs considerably between epistemic communities and even more so among national and regional policies There is a general sense of the opportunity to realise enhanced social and economic benefits from the sustainable utilisation of their ocean and coastal resources under the umbrella framework of blue economy Blue economy is gaining traction already as a significant component of national policies even in spite of a clear conceptualization of the term Many countries are now preparing national policies towards realising their blue economy ambitions utilizing the concept as they see fit Likewise multilateral and regional organisations are developing guidelines and providing investment in new research technologies and financing tools that promote blue economy Critical challenges abound in particular in less privileged countries These include the gap in research capabilities governments prioritizing social wellbeing and economic profit in contrast to environmental protection the identification of new and emerging areas of ocean economic activity that are both socially and ecologically sustainable and holds viable business models that can attract private investment
