Government Reports
Announcements & Index, 1993 China World Bank, 1993 The Republic of Korea s industrial policy has directed that nation s economy through nearly three decades of spectacular growth But the authors of this paper maintain that this policy is showing signs of being outmoded The time has come the authors argue for the Korean government to stop managing the economy s structural development and to redefine the responsibilities of business and government Under this proposed compact the allocation of resources would shift from the government to the private industrial and financial sectors The transformation of the government bureaucracy from an ad hoc policy role to one of a transparent and predictable regulator is a key to the success of this undertaking These new directions would present the government with enormous challenges Greater competitive discipline and regulatory oversight would be required While dealing with the complexities of the transition the government would have to maintain macroeconomic stability and the momentum of savings and investment For

Vego, 2009 Smallholder farmers and pastoralists fulfil an invaluable yet undervalued role in conserving biodiversity They act as guardians of locally adapted livestock breeds that can make use of even marginal environments under tough climatic conditions and therefore are a crucial resource for food security But in addition by sustaining animals on natural vegetation and as part of local ecosystems these communities also make a significant contribution to the conservation of wild biodiversity and of cultural landscapes This publication provides a glimpse into the often intricate knowledge systems that pastoralists and smallholder farmers have developed for the management of their breeds in specific production systems and it also describes the multitude of threats and challenges these often marginalized communities have to cope with Military Review , 2006 Gettysburg Adam I. P. Smith, 2025-01-12 How did Gettysburg become the most famous battle of the American Civil War and one of the most consequential in world history Why is the most visited battlefield the place where veterans came in the greatest numbers where Presidents pay homage and millions of families have vacationed What was it about this three day struggle in July 1863 in the rolling hills of Pennsylvania that made it seem the turning point of the war or the high water mark of the Confederate rebellion Gettysburg explains the battle s place in the Civil War why two vast armies clashed there and how in the century and a half since it has been re imagined re created and re enacted It is the story of a battle which no one planned but which became the bloodiest encounter of the war and one with dramatically high stakes The postwar romanticisation of Gettysburg as the place of might have beens is based on a kernel of reality But it also suited the interests of both the winners and the losers for Gettysburg to become the Civil War in miniature a glorious storied tragic tale small enough to comprehend but large enough to be inspirational If this was the battle that determined the war Confederates could tell themselves that if only they had made different tactical choices they would have won their independence while Northerners could credit valour for their victory without the unromantic need to invoke superior resources Yet there was only a war because of slavery and Gettysburg s importance lies in its role in ending it In the speech Abraham Lincoln gave there four months after the battle he expressed the hope that Union victory would inaugurate a new birth of freedom The history of the battle has been shaped by a contest over what that means Review of Current Military Literature , 1989 The Grand Design Donald Stoker, 2010-07-20 Despite the abundance of books on the Civil War not one has focused exclusively on what was in fact the determining factor in the outcome of the conflict differences in Union and Southern strategy In The Grand Design Donald Stoker provides for the first time a comprehensive and often surprising account of strategy as it evolved between Fort Sumter and Appomattox Reminding us that strategy is different from tactics battlefield deployments and operations campaigns conducted in pursuit of a strategy Stoker examines how Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis identified their political goals and worked with their generals to craft the military means to achieve them or how they often failed to do so Stoker shows that Davis despite a West Point education and experience as Secretary of War ultimately failed as a strategist by losing control of the political side of the war Lincoln in contrast evolved a clear strategic vision but he failed for years to make his generals implement it And while Robert E Lee was unerring in his ability to determine the Union s strategic heart its center of gravity he proved mistaken in his assessment of how to destroy it Historians have often argued that the North s advantages in population and industry ensured certain victory In The Grand Design Stoker reasserts the centrality of the overarching plan on each side arguing convincingly that it was strategy that determined the result of America s great national conflict

School of Advanced Military Studies,1988 This monograph searches for an answer to the question What is the relationship between strategies and operational culminating points It begins by examining the theoretical position of Hans Delbruck and his dual strategies of annihilation and exhaustion It then turns to Clausewitz and investigates the concept of culminating points Finally it develops a model of strategic combat power which is used to aid the reader in understanding the theoretical link between operational culminating points and the strategies of exhaustion and annihilation This concludes the first part of the monograph The second section of the monograph is a case study of the Yom Kippur War of 1973 This war is used to test the validity of our analysis concerning strategies and culminating points Our theory not only is valid but also demonstrates that a strategic planner must consider operational culminating points as an integral element to the success of any campaign Not to understand the relationship of culminating points to the success of strategies will only end in disaster
