2052 Jorgen Randers, 2012-06-13 With clarity conscience and courage global systems pioneer Jorgen Randers and his distinguished contributors map the forces that will shape the next four decades Forty years ago The Limits to Growth study addressed the grand question of how humans would adapt to the physical limitations of planet Earth It predicted that during the first half of the 21st century the ongoing growth in the human ecological footprint would stop either through catastrophic overshoot and collapse or through well managed peak and decline So where are we now And what does our future look like In the book 2052 Jorgen Randers one of the coauthors of Limits to Growth issues a progress report and makes a forecast for the next forty years To do this he asked dozens of experts to weigh in with their best predictions on how our economies energy supplies natural resources climate food fisheries militaries political divisions cities psyches and more will take shape in the coming decades He then synthesized those scenarios into a global forecast of life as we will most likely know it in the years ahead The good news we will see impressive advances in resource efficiency and an increasing focus on human well being rather than on per capita income growth But this change might not come as we expect Future growth in population and GDP for instance will be constrained in surprising ways by rapid fertility decline as result of increased urbanization productivity decline as a result of social unrest and continuing poverty among the poorest 2 billion world citizens Runaway global warming too is likely So how do we prepare for the years ahead With heart fact and wisdom Randers guides us along a realistic path into the future and discusses what readers can do to ensure a better life for themselves and their children during the increasing turmoil of the next forty years

How the Rich are Destroying the Earth Hervé Kempf, 2008 A best seller in France and already translated into Spanish Italian Greek and Korean Herv Kempf's How the Rich Are Destroying the Earth now appears in its first English edition Bringing to bear more than twenty years of experience as an environmental journalist Kempf describes the invincibility that many of the world's wealthy feel in the face of global warming and how their unchecked privilege is thwarting action on the single most vexing problem facing our world In this important primer on the link between global ecology and the global economy Kempf makes the following observations First that the planet's ecological situation is growing ever worse despite the efforts of millions of engaged citizens around the world And second despite environmentalists emphasis that we're all in the same boat the world's economic elites who continue to benefit by plundering the environment have access to lifeboats that insulate them from the resulting catastrophes Societies have not been able to effectively combat the expanding ecological crisis because it is intimately linked to the social crisis in which the ruling form of capitalism has been organized to impede democratic initiatives This link explains the failure to make progress against the greatest emergency of our time because in this relationship the oligarchy plays an essential and destructive role For this reason solving the ecological crisis depends on disrupting the power of the world's elite We cannot understand the entwined ecological and social crises Kempf argues if we don't see them as the two sides of the same disaster a disaster that comes from a system piloted by a dominant social strata that has no drive other than greed no ideal other than conservatism no dream other than technology But Kempf also calls for measured optimism Despite the scale of the challenges that await us solutions are emerging and faced with the sinister prospects the oligarchs promote the desire to remake the world is being reborn
