

A vibrant blue background is adorned with a collage of various objects. In the top left, a silver pen with a black grip lies diagonally. Below it, a black watch with a white face and black strap is visible. To the right, a black camera with a silver lens and a black strap is positioned. In the center, a white lightbulb is partially obscured by a black rectangular box containing the text. Below the lightbulb, a black book with a white cover and a black spine is shown. In the bottom left, a black watch with a white face and black strap is visible. To the right, a black watch with a white face and black strap is shown. In the bottom right, a black watch with a white face and black strap is visible. The text "How to feel like you have enough" is written in a white, cursive font across the center of the image, with the words "have enough" on a separate line below "How to feel like you".

Creative Thinking When You Feel Like You Have No Ideas:

Creative Thinking C J Hollins, 2012-01-28 What would C zanne Monet Picasso Kandinsky and the other founders of modern art think of Damien Hirst's shark in formaldehyde or Tracey Emin's unmade bed Has modern art moved on since the breakthroughs of these early pioneers or are we going round in circles Has modern art merely become a carnival of the shocking grotesque and ridiculous because modern artists have failed to comprehend what Modernism emerged to explore Have modern artists become so intoxicated by the need for notoriety and celebrity status that they are no longer interested in the quest for a genuine art experience In this collection of essays written between 1968 and 2010 C J Hollins reveals his thoughts on these questions in an unflinching attempt to open our eyes to the enigma of modern art From early cave paintings and traditional masterpieces Hollins explores the development of art ending at the current crisis point of our times More importantly he offers concrete theories of what the modern artist should be striving to achieve to move us closer to a new way of perceiving the world

Phenomenology in a Co-creative Workplace Emiko Tsuyuki,Ichiro Yamaguchi,2024-05-29 This book introduces phenomenology to reveal how the atmosphere and relationships in the workplace are generated and how this affects creativity In their daily work people sometimes feel that today s meeting was more exciting than expected or that everyone s motivation is down This unspoken workplace atmosphere has a significant impact on their work But has enough thought been given to how this workplace atmosphere is created Phenomenology reveals the basic structure of human relationships in the workplace Are there any general rules that govern human interaction and the nature of relationships in that workplace If these unspoken rules can be made explicit clearly felt and spoken people can work together to bring about a creative workplace in which individuals can maximize their abilities The main point of the book is that human relationships are based on a two layered structure emotional communication which is rooted in human sensitivity and centers on sensation and emotion and verbal communication which is based on shared intelligence and relies upon language and thought The invisible layer of emotional communication is always at work as the foundation of verbal communication creating what can be described as the workplace atmosphere This book offers a new perspective on promoting creativity in the workplace by unraveling the principles behind the structure of workplace atmospheres
