PCMA University of Warsaw and the National Corporation for Antiquities and Museums in Khartoum presents an Early Makurian elite tumuli cemetery from the 5th 6th centuries AD This period in ancient Nubian history preceding the rise of the Christian kingdoms has long been understudied Informed analyses by an array of specialists on the team cover the archaeological and bioarchaeological evidence from the tombs Volume 1 as well as the abundant ceramics Volume 2 and small finds especially jewellery weaponry and personal accessories Volume 3 The outcome is a people oriented view of an elite community in ancient Nubia at the dawn of a new age in its history

Eight Human Skulls in a Dung Heap and More Annet Nieuwhof, 2015-06-30 The study of ritual practice in the past is an accepted part of archaeological research these days Yet its theoretical basis is still not fully mature This book aims at making a contribution to the study of ritual practice in the past by assembling a theoretical framework which is tailored to the needs of archaeology and which helps to identify and interpret the remains of rituals in the past This framework is applied in a special archaeological region the coastal area of the northern Netherlands a former salt marsh area In the past people lived here on artificial dwelling mounds so called terps Preservation conditions are excellent in this wetland area This study makes use of the well preserved remains of rituals in terps to examine the role of ritual practice in the societies of the pre Roman and Roman Iron Age in this area

Northern Emporium Søren M. Sindbæk, 2022-07-01 In the early Middle Ages a network of maritime trading towns emporia emerged along the northern coasts of Europe These early urban sites are among archaeology's most notable contributions to our knowledge of the period between the disintegration of the Western Roman Empire and the growth of a maritime oriented world in the Viking Age Ribe on the western coast of Denmark is one of these sites In 2017 18 the Northern Emporium research project conducted seminal research excavations which provided new foundations for the study of this nodal point between Western Europe Scandinavia and the world beyond This first volume presents the results of these excavations and analyses to piece together the history of the emporium and its social fabric The research employs novel high definition methods to explore the networks of the site integrating an extensive use of geoarchaeology and 3D stratigraphic recording with intensive environmental sampling and artefact recovery resulting in more than 100 000 artefact finds The results transform our understanding of key points of the early history of the North Sea region Through the remains of dwellings and workshops the traces left by traders sailors weavers tailors comb makers and skilled producers of glass beads and metal ornaments we follow the creation of Viking Age social networks along with some of the most iconic artistic products of this world and the daily lives of some of its notable inhabitants

The Maya and Teotihuacan Geoffrey E. Braswell, 2009-07-21 The contributors to this volume present extensive new evidence from archaeology iconography and epigraphy to offer a more nuanced understanding of the interaction between the Early Classic Maya and Teotihuacan Winner Choice Outstanding Academic Book 2005 Since the 1930s archaeologists have uncovered startling evidence of interaction between the Early Classic Maya and the great empire of Teotihuacan in Central Mexico Yet the exact nature of the relationship between these two ancient Mesoamerican civilizations remains to be fully deciphered. Many scholars have assumed that Teotihuacan colonized the Maya region and dominated the political or economic systems of certain key centers perhaps even giving rise to state level political organizations. Others argue that Early Classic rulers merely traded with Teotihuacan and skillfully manipulated its imported exotic goods and symbol sets to increase their prestige. Moving beyond these traditional assumptions, the contributors to this volume present extensive new evidence from archaeology, iconography and epigraphy to offer a more nuanced understanding of the interaction between the Early Classic Maya and Teotihuacan. Investigating a range of Maya sites including Kaminaljuyu, Copán, Tikal, Altun Ha and Oxkintok, they demonstrate that the influence of Teotihuacan on the Maya varied in nature and duration from site to site, requiring a range of models to explain the patterns of interaction. Moreover, they show that the interaction was bidirectional and discuss how the Maya in turn influenced Teotihuacan.

Places of Special Virtue Alasdair Whittle, 2017-02-20. This volume explores the landscape settings of megalithic chambered monuments in Wales. Set against a broader theoretical discussion on the significance of the landscape, the authors consider the role of visual landscapes in prehistory, meanings attached to the landscape and the values and beliefs invested in it. Wales is rich in Neolithic monuments, but the general absence of certain classic monumental forms found in the rest of Britain and Ireland, such as causewayed enclosures, henges and cursus monuments, seems to have marginalized the Welsh record from many wider discussions on the Neolithic. Instead of seeing Wales as an area which lacks many of these classic components, Cummings and Whittle argue that Wales has its own unique and individual Neolithic, which is simply different from the Neolithic found further to the east. It is suggested that this difference may relate to an essentially mobile existence with strong links back to the Mesolithic period. The authors present three detailed case studies examining the settings of sites in southwest, northwest and southeast Wales. They outline the history of research for each region, including the previous classification of the monuments and any excavations, and describe the specific landscape settings of the monuments. They assess the significance of a variety of landscape features which would have been visible from the monuments, in particular emphasizing the mythological and symbolic significance of the sea, rivers and mountains. An illustrated inventory of sites completes the volume.

Archaeological Investigations in a Northern Albanian Province Michael L. Galaty, Lorenc Bejko, 2023-09-12. This work, presented in two volumes, is focused on the province of Shkodër in northern Albania. It is the first synthetic archaeological treatment of this region and is based on five years of field and laboratory work. Some of the earliest and largest hillforts and tumuli burial mounds in Albania, dating to the Bronze and Iron Age, are located in Shkodër, and this region is important to ongoing archaeological debates regarding the origins of inequality and the rise of social complexity. Volume 1 includes geological context, a literature review, historical background and reports on the regional survey and test excavations at three settlements and three tumuli. In Volume 2, the authors describe the artifacts recovered through survey and excavation, including chipped stone, small finds and pottery from the prehistoric

Classical Roman medieval and post medieval periods They also present results of faunal petrographic chemical carpological and strontium isotope analyses of the artifacts

The city on the Kerkenes Da in the high plateau of central Turkey was a new Iron Age capital very probably Pteria Founded in the later seventh century BC the city was put to the torch in the mid sixth century and then abandoned Excavations at what we have identified as the Palatial Complex were conducted between 1999 and 2005 The stone glacis supporting the Fortified Structure at the eastern end of the complex was revealed in its entirety while the greater portion of the Monumental Entrance was uncovered Portions of buildings within the complex were also excavated notably one half of the heavily burned Ashlar Building one corner of the Audience Hall and parts of other structures This volume documents as fully as possible the results of those excavations with the exception of sculpture some bearing Paleo Phrygian inscription already published OIP 135 The location of the complex its development from foundation to destruction and its architecture are discussed and illustrated Within the Monumental Entrance were extraordinary unexpected semi iconic stone idols and other embellishments that include stone blocks with bolsters bases for large freestanding wooden columns and stone plinths Extensive use was made of iron in combination with timber framed facades and large double leafed doors Objects of gold silver copper alloys and iron attest to former splendor Organization of the volume is roughly chronological beginning with the Fortified Structure and concluding with the Monumental Entrance Presentation of material culture is organized with an emphasis on context Specialist chapters report on alphabetic and nonalphabetic graffiti and masons marks animal bones among which was found the jawbone of a dolphin and a Byzantine period burial This volume provides further dramatic and surprising new evidence for the power wealth and sophistication of an eastward expansion of Phrygian culture exemplified by architecture cultic imagery Paleo Phrygian inscriptions and graffiti pottery and artifacts The brief existence of this extraordinary city hardly more than one hundred years together with the excellent stratigraphic context provided by the destruction level offer an unparalleled window onto the first half of the sixth century BC on the Anatolian Plateau

Identifying and Interpreting Animal Bones April M. Beisaw, 2013-11-21

Offering a field tested analytic method for identifying faunal remains along with helpful references images and examples of the most commonly encountered North American species Identifying and Interpreting Animal Bones A Manual provides an important new reference for students avocational archaeologists and even naturalists and wildlife enthusiasts Using the basic principles outlined here the bones of any vertebrate animal including humans can be identified and their relevance to common research questions can be better understood Because the interpretation of archaeological sites depends heavily on the analysis of surrounding materials soils artifacts and floral and faunal remains it is important that non human remains be correctly distinguished from human bones that distinctions between domesticated and wild or feral animals be made correctly and that evidence of the reasons for faunal remains in the site be recognized But the ability to identify and analyze animal bones is a skill that is not easy to learn from a traditional textbook In Identifying and Interpreting Animal Bones veteran archaeologist and educator April Beisaw guides readers through the stages of identification and analysis with sample images and data also illustrating how specialists make analytical decisions that allow for the identification of the smallest fragments of bone Extensive additional illustrative material from the author's own collected assemblages and from those in the Archaeological Analytical Research Facility at Binghamton University in New York are also available in the book's online supplement There readers can view and interact with images to further understanding of the principles explained in the text

Dariali: The 'Caspian Gates' in the Caucasus from Antiquity to the Age of the Huns and the Middle Ages Eberhard

Sauer, 2020-04-30 The Huns invading through Dariali Gorge on the modern day border between Russia and Georgia in AD 395 and 515 spread terror across the late antique world Was this the prelude to the apocalypse Prophecies foresaw a future Hunnic onslaught via the same mountain pass bringing about the end of the world Humanity's fate depended on a gated barrier deep in Europe's highest and most forbidding mountain chain Centuries before the emergence of such apocalyptic beliefs the gorge had reached world fame It was the target of a planned military expedition by the Emperor Nero Chained to the dramatic sheer cliffs framing the narrow passage the mythical fire thief Prometheus suffered severe punishment his liver devoured by an eagle It was known under multiple names most commonly the Caspian or Alan Gates Featuring in the works of literary giants no other mountain pass in the ancient and medieval world matches Dariali's fame Yet little was known about the materiality of this mythical place A team of archaeologists has now shed much new light on the major gorge blocking fort and a barrier wall on a steep rocky ridge further north The walls still standing today were built around the time of the first major Hunnic invasion in the late fourth century when the Caucasus defenses feature increasingly prominently in negotiations between the Great Powers of Persia and Rome In its endeavor to strongly fortify the strategic mountain pass through the Central Caucasus the workforce erased most traces of earlier occupation The Persian built bastion saw heavy occupation for 600 years Its multi faith medieval garrison controlled Trans Caucasian traffic Everyday objects and human remains reveal harsh living conditions and close connections to the Muslim South as well as the steppe world of the north The Caspian Gates explains how a highly strategic rock has played a pivotal role in world history from Classical Antiquity into the twentieth century
