Legal Education Through an Indigenous Lens Nicole Watson, Heather Douglas, 2024-12-04 This book provides a comprehensive resource for accommodating and pursuing Indigenous perspectives in legal education. The book is divided into three sections. The first section highlights the continuing issues that Indigenous people face in law schools and universities, including the ongoing impacts of colonisation and intergenerational trauma, institutional racism and exclusion. This section also includes chapters that explore arguments for the recognition of Indigenous legal knowledge and of the impact of settler law and the incorporation of Indigenous concepts, laws and ways of thinking about settler law across the curriculum. The second section explores how Indigenous ways of reading and thinking about settler law make a difference to how settler law is understood and interpreted. Contributors consider the power of storytelling and address the prospect of law's decolonisation. The third section of the book grapples with how traditional law school subjects can be taught through an Indigenous lens, including torts, public law, criminal law and sentencing, clinical legal education and native title. Fighting for Political Freedom Terence C. Halliday,Lucien Karpik,Malcolm Feeley,2007-12-20 Across the world political liberalism is being fought for consolidated and defended That is the case for nations that have never enjoyed a liberal political society for nations that have advanced towards and then retreated from political liberalism for nations that have recently shifted from authoritarian to liberal political systems and for mature democracies facing terrorism and domestic conflict This book tests for the contemporary world the proposition that lawyers are active agents in the construction of liberal political regimes It examines the efficacy of a framework that postulates that legal professions not only orient themselves to a market for their services but can frequently be seen in the forefront of actors seeking to institutionalise political liberalism On the basis of some 16 case studies from across the world the authors present a theoretical link between lawyers and political liberalism having wide ranging application over radically diverse situations in Asia and the Middle East North and South America and Europe They argue that it is not the politics of lawyers alone but the politics of a legal complex of legally trained occupations centred on lawyers and judges that drives advances or retreats from political liberalism that political liberalism itself is everywhere in play in countries with established democracies and those without liberal politics and that it is now clear that the legal arena is a central field of struggle over the shape of political power The case studies presented here provide powerful evidence that the nexus of bar and bench in transitions towards or away from political liberalism is a force which has universal application
