Can East Asia Compete Innovation For Global Markets Economics:

Can East Asia Compete? Simon J. Evenett, Shahid Yusuf, 2002-09-27 East Asian economies of the 1980s and much of the 1990s were among the most competitive exporters of manufactured products and were also able to sustain growth rates far higher than those of other countries developing or industrial. However the economic crisis of 1997-98 impacted the economies of these countries. Although recovery began fairly quickly in some countries others have yet to regain their growth momentum. Can East Asia Compete looks at whether or not East Asia can restore its near magical performance or is its competitive strength beginning to wane. This volume argues that East Asian countries have far from exhausted their growth potential. However future competitiveness will depend on much greater innovative capability in manufacturing and services innovativeness that is grounded in stronger institutions, improved macroeconomic policies and closer regional coordination. Can East Asia Compete clearly summarizes the issues currently being debated and provides guidance to East Asian economies on how to deal with the policy concerns that lie ahead. East Asia, Globalization and the New Economy F. Gerard Adams, 2006-10-03 Written by a recognized expert in the area of business economics this book analyzes the effect of the IT revolution, globalization and the new economy on the development of East Asia. Global Change and East Asian Policy Initiatives Shahid Yusuf, M. Anjum Altaf, Kaoru Nabeshima, 2004 Annotation Although many economies have grown briskly in the last few years future development will depend on the quality and timeliness of policy actions. This volume provides specific policy responses that could be employed to navigate successfully through periods of economic, political and technological turbulence by enhancing both competitiveness of firms and the stability of the economies in East Asia. The Economies of Southeast Asia Teofilo C. Daquila, 2005 This book analyses the growth, development and crisis experiences of the Southeast Asian economies in particular Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore and Thailand, also known as ASEAN 5. The proposition is developed that the robust economic performance of the Southeast Asian economies during the past four decades has been attributed to the various factors, developments and independent national policies which have been pursued by the individual member countries rather than to any regional economic framework. The book covers eleven topics which is suitable for a one semester course on the economics of Southeast Asia. Also it has a narrower area coverage as it focuses only on the five economies namely Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore and Thailand. The sectoral treatment of the crisis impact and the analytical treatment of policy responses to the crisis differentiate this book from other publications on the same topic. Finally this book provides an analysis of national developments, policies and factors which have contributed to the economic transformation of the respective Southeast Asian economies. Future Perspectives on the Economic Development of Asia John Malcolm Dowling, 2008 The future growth and development of Asia, OCo the most dynamic economic region in the world today, OCo will have important implications for the rest of the global economy. This book offers a futuristic perspective of a wide array of developmental challenges and opportunities facing Asian economies.

over the next two decades The future is approached from several different developmental paradigms including technological change and innovation regional cooperation within Asia and between Asia and the West poverty reduction ethics and corruption and environmental challenges Future prospects for the two giant economies of China and India are also explored By offering a comprehensive look at the medium term future of Asia from such a wide range of different viewpoints this fascinating book will interest economists social scientists politicians international investment managers and the general public alike

Renewable Energy in East Asia Christopher M. Dent, 2014-11-27 Energy is crucial to the functioning of any human society and central to understanding East Asia's economic miracle The region's rapid development over the last few decades has been inherently energy intensive and the impact on global energy security climate change and the twenty first century global system generally is now very significant and will become more so over foreseeable years and decades to come The region is already the world's largest energy consumer and greenhouse gas emitter so establishing cleaner energy systems in East Asia is both a regional and global challenge and renewable energy has a critically important part to play in meeting it This book presents a comprehensive study of renewable energy development in East Asia It begins by examining renewable energy development in global and historic contexts and situates East Asia's position in the recent worldwide expansion of renewables This same approach is applied on sector specific chapter studies on wind solar hydropower geothermal ocean wave and tidal and bioenergy and to general trends in renewable energy policy Governments play a critical role in promoting renewables and their contribution to tackling climate change and other environmental challenges Christopher M Dent argues this is particularly relevant to East Asia where state capacity practice has been increasingly allied to ecological modernisation thinking to form what he calls new developmentalism the principal foundation on which renewables have developed in the region as well as how East Asia's low carbon development is being generally promoted Renewable Energy in East Asia will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Asian studies economics political economy energy studies business development international relations and environmental studies It will also appeal to researchers working on the subject matter in government business international organisations think tanks and civil society organisations

Southeast Asian Affairs 2004 Chin Kin Wah, 2004 An annual review of significant developments and trends in the region Though the emphasis is on ASEAN countries Developments in the broader Asia Pacific region are not ignored Readable and easily understood analyses are offered of major political Economic Social And strategic developments within Southeast Asia The volume contains twenty articles dealing with such major themes as international conflict and co operation Political stability And economic growth and development

Business Groups and the Thailand Economy Natenapha Wailerdsak, 2023-05-31 Business Groups and the Thailand Economy examines the role of business groups specifically state local and foreign capitals in the economic development of emerging economies and highlights why business groups are essential in helping a country break out of the middle income trap Wailerdsak reviews Thailand's industrial and economic growth strategies through the local and international investors and explains why business groups are one of the key drivers of economic advancement and why they help to avoid the middle income trap The author also examines their business power expansion methods including selection and specialization political influence mergers and acquisitions outward FDI and business alliances The book concludes with policy recommendations of how the government can engage business groups to accelerate high tech industrialization and create jobs The middle income trap issue faced by Thailand would be of interest to many emerging economies especially scholars and policymakers researching on Asian business and management Asian economies developmental economics political economy policy studies corporate governance entrepreneurship and private company strategic management in emerging countries The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Globalisation and Labour Struggle in Asia Phoebe Moore, 2007-06-29 How has South Korea's development influenced and been influenced by world events What light can it shed on the way that international struggles for hegemony affect local environments Phoebe Moore seeks to address these questions critically from the perspective of International Political Economics and so provides important insight into one of the fastest growing Asian economies She examines the neo Gramscian school theories that world history reveals specific periods of hegemonic stability such as during the post World War II period of Pax Americana and refutes this position through an original account of Korean development Instead she observes that all economic development in this country has been carried out through passive revolution driven by an elite frequently supported by external forces against the will of a large part of the population namely the working classes Moore draws out the relationships between socio economic change passive revolution hegemony struggles and global politics making this a key resource for Asian political economics labour relations and international politics

Economic Integration in East Asia Charles Harvie, Dionisius Narjoko, Sothea Oum, 2015-05-15 International production networks in manufacturing particularly in machinery industries have rapidly developed over the last two decades resulting in dramatic increases in intra regional and intra industry trade providing a key source of regional growth integration and development in East Asia This book provides a better understanding on how to effectively further increase SME participation in East Asian production networks and in doing so identifies key challenges and issues that they need to address This book aims to not only fill the theory practice gap but also to lay solid foundations for designing national arrangements and a regional institutional frameworks to further encourage and support SME engagement and participation in regional and global production networks The book contains several country case studies and by drawing upon individual country experiences at various stages of economic development this book demonstrates the varying difficulty faced by SMEs in ASEAN member countries attempting to participate in regional production networks and highlighting differences in needs and policy priorities This book offers both a more focused theme on the assessment of globalization and a rather unique approach by focusing upon the particular importance of SMEs and by utilizing micro level data at the firm or plant level Its policy insights and the richness and uniqueness of the empirical findings will make the book an invaluable contribution to understanding East Asian production networks
