Overcoming Parent-Child Contact

Problems Abigail M. Judge, Robin M. Deutsch, 2016-10-05 In recent years there has been heightened interest in the clinical and legal management of families in which children resist contact with one parent and become aligned with the other following divorce Families affected by these dynamics require disproportionate resources and time from mental health and legal professionals and cases require a specialized clinical approach Traditional models of individual and family therapy are not designed to address these issues and strategies and resources for mental health and legal professionals have been extremely limited Overcoming Parent Child Contact Problems describes interventions for families experiencing a high conflict divorce impasse where a child is resisting contact with a parent It examines in detail one such intervention the Overcoming Barriers approach involving the entire family and combining psycho education and clinical intervention The book is divided into two parts Part I presents an overview of parental alienation including clinical approaches and a critical analysis of the many challenges associated with traditional outpatient family based interventions Part II presents the Overcoming Barriers approach describing core aspects of the intervention and ways to adapt its clinical techniques to outpatient practice Overcoming Parent Child Contact Problems is geared toward mental health clinicians and legal professionals who work with families in high conflict and where a child resists visitation with a parent

How to Become an Entrepreneur in a Week Lise Aaboen,Hans Landström,Roger Sørheim,2020-06-26 Can you learn to be an entrepreneur in a week The book focuses on short entrepreneurship education initiatives and includes eleven courses from European research based universities The book provides insights on best practice and lessons learned from experience for potential and current organizers of such initiatives Suppressed Terror Bettina Greiner,2014-04-24 At the end of World War II the Soviet secret police installed ten special camps in the Soviet occupation zone later to become the German Democratic Republik Between 1945 and 1950 roughly 154 000 Germans were held incommunicado in these camps Whether those accused of being Nazis spies or terrorists were indeed guilty as charged they were indiscriminately imprisoned as security threats and denied due process of the law One third of the captives did not survive To this day most Germans have no knowledge of this postwar Stalinist persecution even though it exemplifies in a unique way the entangled history of Germans as perpetrators and victims How can one write the history of victims in a society of perpetrators This is only one of the questions Displaced Terror History and Perception of Soviet Special Camps in Germany raises in exploring issues in memory culture in contemporary Germany The study begins with a detailed description of the camp system against the backdrop of Stalinist security policies in a territory undergoing a transition from war zone to occupation zone to Cold War hot spot The interpretation of the camps as an instrument of pacification rather than of denacification does not ignore the fact that while actual perpetrators were a minority the majority of the special camp inmates had at least been supporters of Nazi rule and were now imprisoned under life threatening conditions together with victims and opponents of the defeated regime Based on their detention memoirs the second part of the book offers a closer look at life and death in the camps focusing on the prisoners self organization and the frictions within these coerced communities The memoirs also play an important role in the third and last part of the study Read as attempts to establish public acknowledgment of violence suffered by Germans they mirror German memory culture since the end of World War II War and Media Andrew Hoskins,Ben O'Loughlin,2010-08-23 The trinity of government military and publics has been drawn together into immediate and unpredictable relationships in a new media ecology that has ushered in new asymmetries in the waging of war and terror To help us understand these new relationships Andrew Hoskins and Ben O Loughlin here provide a timely comprehensive and highly readable survey of the field of war and media War is diffused through a complex mesh of our everyday media Paradoxically this both facilitates and contains the presence and power of enemies near and far The conventions of so called traditional warfare have been splintered by the availability and connectivity of the principal locus of war today the electronic and digital media Hoskins and O Loughlin identify and illuminate the conditions of what they term diffused war and the new challenges it raises for the actors who wage and counter warfare for their agents and mechanisms of the new media and for mass publics This book offers an invaluable review of the key literature and presents a fresh approach to the understanding of the dynamic relationships between war and media It will be welcomed by a broad range of students taking courses on war and media and related modules especially in media communication and cultural studies politics and international relations sociology journalism and security studies

Subcellular Biochemistry Donald Roodyn,2013-11-11 The transition from the quarterly Sub Cellular Biochemistry to the annual SUBCELLULAR BIOCHEMISTRY is a good opportunity to restate the aims and scope of this publication They were originally given in Volume 1 No 1 as follows This review and essay journal brings together work on a wide range of topics in sub cellular biochemistry in the hope of stimulating progress towards an integrated view of the cell It deals with the biochemistry and general biology of nuclei mitochondria lysosomes peroxisomes chloroplasts cell membranes ribosomes cell sap flagellae and other specialized cell components In addition to articles dealing with conventional biochemical studies on sub cellular structures the journal publishes articles on the genetics evolution and biogenesis of cell organelles bioenergetics membrane behaviour and the interaction between cell structures particularly between nucleus and cytoplasm The first four volumes in the quarterly format fulfilled many but not all of these stated aims and it is hoped that further articles in the new annual series will soon fill any deficiencies in the range of topics covered Over the years we have intentionally not interpreted the title of the publication in a too literal sense Although we have included specific articles on individual subcellular fractions and certainly hope to do so again the publication is definitely not only concerned with studies on the biochemistry of isolated cell fractions The primary target is the integrated view of the cell
