

and river-valleys in Free Germany is here an urgent need. On p. 124 we miss an indication of the Dobrudja, Aluta and N-w Dacian limites. On p. 127 the shading for contours in Asia Minor unhappily obscures the scanty road system shown, and the area covered by the map is inadequate for a realization of the strategic significance of the frontier. Is it, again, useless to hope that the British road-system will ever receive adequate treatment? One asks for no intricate detail, but the Fosse-way and the two north roads from Chester and York might at least be marked. Again, how much land in Britain is over '3000 feet' (p. 130)? Certainly, very little in the Pennine range, or even in Wales.

These criticisms are, moreover, hardly counsels of perfection. For the lack of adequate maps leads to some misconception in stating the general position about the strategic value of the legion. No student of Roman frontiers will believe the statement (page 163) that Hadrian put into effect a system of frontier defence of which the feature was that legions formed the second line of defence. The Flavians had already found the system in existence and applied it on a large scale both in Germany and Britain; the system is already evolved on the Upper Danube under Tiberius, and meets us, fully fledged, in the land of the Batavi in 69; in Britain it was in full swing by 85. It may be suggested, therefore, that it would be well worth while to revise these maps in a second edition, without necessarily including any detailed picture of the auxiliary fort-system.

Wholly admirable are the sections which deal with the officers of the legion, with conditions of service, and with fighting, where particularly interesting use is made of papyri. In most cases the original text is given, and one might therefore plead custom, as well as convenience, in asking for it in the letter from the soldier who had spent all on a donkey-cart—a letter of great human interest and amusement. In connexion with armour it may be noted that if the lancea was being introduced for legionaries at the close of the first century, the sin for which Sallustius Lucullus was executed may have been graver than supposed. Lucullus was tampering perhaps with legionaries, and not auxiliaries; hence Domitian's nervousness. Another point; cleaning of armour no doubt dictated that the soldier should wear his leather over the metal.

Enough has been said to indicate the interest of the book, perhaps too little, in view of the emphasis upon maps, to indicate its full value. Whether changes are made in the maps or not, the book will still remain of great use to the reader for the amount of useful information contained between its covers. Further, it should be said that the author is no slavish follower of Ritterling and von Domaszewski; where he differs from them, as in the matter of signa and the selection or significance of legionary numbers and titles, he states both cases fairly, and his own with convincing persuasion. The future student of the Roman army will therefore require not only the German works, but this one as well, as an essential companion to his studies.

THE ROMAN CAMPAGNA IN CLASSICAL TIMES. By THOMAS ASHBY.
Ernest Benn. 1927. pp. 256, 48 illus., 1 map. 21s.

Dr Ashby's book, in his own words, aims at being a first essay on the history and antiquities of the Roman Campagna, that district of Italy which is so suggestive; for here the life of Rome increased and expanded, particularly in Imperial times, producing such abundance of monuments as to become so to speak identical with Rome herself, that is to say, a necessary complement to the richness of her being. The history of the Campagna is almost entirely a story of the Empire, of villas, roads, tombs and aqueducts;
