Camping And Tramping With Roosevelt:

Camping and Tramping with Roosevelt John Burroughs, 2012-06-19 President Theodore Roosevelt's love of natural history is celebrated in two sketches written by renowned naturalist John Burroughs. The friends shared a two week trip to Yellowstone in the spring of 1903 in order to observe the wildlife and geologic wonders of America's first national park. The desire was to commune with nature not to hunt. I will not fire a gun in the Park then I shall have no explanations to make. President Roosevelt said. While they had guides the president was unaccompanied by secret service, personal physician or secretaries and remarkably took an 18 mile trek through hard country completely by himself on one occasion. He came back as fresh as when he started.

Camping & Tramping with Roosevelt John Burroughs, 2021-12-02 Camping Tramping with Roosevelt by John Burroughs. Published by Good Press. Our goal is to produce eBooks that are user-friendly and accessible to everyone in a high quality digital format.

Camping and Tramping with Roosevelt John Burroughs, 2015-01-12 This little volume really needs no introduction. The two sketches of which it is made explain and I hope justify themselves. But there is one phase of the President's many-sided character upon which I should like to lay especial emphasis, namely his natural history bent and knowledge. Amid all his absorbing interests and masterful activities in other fields his interest and his authority in practical natural history are by no means the least.

Camping and Tramping with President Roosevelt John Burroughs, 1907

Camping and Tramping with Roosevelt John Burroughs, 2010-07-22 Burroughs was a world traveler and wrote of many of his trips in his book Fresh Fields. One of his most memorable experiences was the time he spent with President Theodore Roosevelt in Yellowstone. He was so taken with the president's true love of nature down to the smallest creatures. He felt that Teddy Roosevelt was misunderstood and wrote Camping and Tramping with Roosevelt to share a side of the president that most people never saw, including his deep love of birds. Burroughs published this book in 1907. This book is printed in its original form so some imperfections or marks may appear but we believe the work is culturally important enough to preserve it in its original form. The photos of Teddy Roosevelt are a rare treat. Timeless Classic Books.

Camping and Tramping with Roosevelt John Burroughs, 2013-05-14 This little volume really needs no introduction the two sketches of which it is made explain and I hope justify themselves But there is one phase of the President's many sided character upon which I should like to lay especial emphasis namely his natural history bent and knowledge Amid all his absorbing interests and masterful activities in other fields his interest and his authority in practical natural history are by no means the least I long ago had very direct proof of this statement In some of my English sketches following a visit to that island in 1882 I had rather by implication than by positive statement inclined to the opinion that the European forms of animal life were as a rule larger and more hardy and prolific than the corresponding forms in this country Roosevelt could not let this statement or suggestion go unchallenged and the letter which I received from him in 1892 touching these things is of double interest at this time as showing one phase of his radical Americanism while it exhibits him as a thoroughgoing naturalist I am sure my readers will welcome the gist of this letter After some preliminary remarks he says The point of which I am speaking is where you say that the Old World forms of animal life are coarser stronger fiercer and more fertile than those of the New World My statement was not quite so sweeping as this Now I don't think that this is so at least comparing the forms which are typical of North America and of northern Asia and Europe which together form but one province of animal life

Camping & Tramping with Roosevelt John Burroughs, 2021-01-27 At the time I made the trip to Yellowstone Park with President Roosevelt in the spring of 1903 I promised some friends to write up my impressions of the President and of the Park but I have been slow in getting around to it The President himself having the absolute leisure and peace of the White House wrote his account of the trip nearly two years ago But with the stress and strain of my life at Slabside administering the affairs of so many of the wild creatures of the woods about me I have not till this blessed season fall of 1905 found the time to put on record an account of the most interesting thing I saw in that wonderful land which of course was the President himself When I accepted his invitation I was well aware that during the journey I should be in a storm centre most of the time which is not always a pleasant prospect to a man of my habits and disposition The President himself is a good deal of a storm a man of such abounding energy and ceaseless activity that he sets everything in motion around him wherever he goes But I knew he would be pretty well occupied on his way to the Park in speaking to eager throngs and in receiving personal and political homage in the towns and cities we were to pass through But when all this was over and I found myself with him in the wilderness of the Park with only the superintendent and a few attendants to help take up his tremendous personal impact how was it likely to fare with a non strenuous person like myself I asked I had visions of snow six and seven feet deep where traveling could be done only upon snow shoes and I had never had the things on my feet in my life If the infernal firesbeneath that keep the pot boiling so furiously in the Park should melt the snows I could see theparty tearing along on horseback at a wolf hunt pace over a rough country and as I had not been on a horse s back since the President was born how would it be likely to fare with me then I had known the President several years before he became famous and we had had somecorrespondence on subjects of natural history His interest in such themes is always very fresh andkeen and the main motive of his visit to the Park at this time was to see and study in its semidomesticated condition the great game which he had so often hunted during his ranch days and hewas kind enough to think it would be an additional pleasure to see it with a nature lover like myself For my own part I knew nothing about big game but I knew there was no man in the country withwhom I should so like to see it as Roosevelt Some of our newspapers reported that the President intended to hunt in the Park A woman inVermont wrote me to protest against the hunting and hoped I would teach the President to lovethe animals as much as I did as if he did not love them much more because his love is foundedupon knowledge and because they had been a part of his life She did not know that I was thencherishing the secret hope that I might be allowed to shoot a cougar or bobcat but this fun did notcome to me The President said I will not fire a gun in the Park then I shall have no explanationsto make Yet once I did hear him say in the wilderness I feel as if I ought to keep the camp inmeat I always have I regretted that he could not do so on this occasi
