Planning for Higher Education, 1997 University Planning and Architecture Jonathan Coulson, Paul Roberts, Isabelle Taylor, 2015-01-09. The environment of a university, what we term a campus, is a place with special resonance. They have long been the setting for some of history's most exciting experiments in the design of the built environment: Christopher Wren at Cambridge, Le Corbusier at Harvard, and Norman Foster at the Free University of Berlin. The calibre of practitioners who have shaped the physical realm of academia is superlative. Pioneering architecture and innovative planning make for vivid assertions of academic excellence, while the physical estate of a university can shape the learning experiences and lasting outlook of its community of students, faculty, and staff. However, the mounting list of pressures—economic, social, pedagogical, technological—currently facing higher education institutions is rendering it increasingly challenging to perpetuate the rich legacy of campus design. In this strained context, it is more important than ever that effective use is made of these environments and that future development is guided in a manner that will answer to posterity. This book is the definitive compendium of the prestigious sphere of campus design, envisaged as a tool to help institutional leaders and designers to engage their campus's full potential by revealing the narratives of the world's most successful, time-honoured, and memorable university estates. It charts the worldwide evolution of university design from the Middle Ages to the present day, uncovering the key episodes and themes that have conditioned the field and, through a series of case studies, profiles universally acclaimed campuses that, through their planning, architecture, and landscaping, have made original, influential, and striking contributions to the field. By understanding this history, present and future generations can distil important lessons for the future. The second edition includes revised text, many new images, and new case studies of the Central University of Venezuela and Indian Institute of Management Ahmedabad.
