Can One Live after Auschwitz? Theodor W. Adorno, Rolf Tiedemann, 2003 This is a comprehensive collection of readings from the work of Theodor Adorno one of the most influential German thinkers of the twentieth century What took place in Auschwitz revokes what Adorno termed the Western legacy of positivity the innermost substance of traditional philosophy The prime task of philosophy then remains to reflect on its own failure its own complicity in such events Yet in linking the question of philosophy to historical occurrence Adorno seems not to have abandoned his paradoxical life long hope that philosophy might not be entirely closed to the idea of redemption He prepares for an altogether different praxis one no longer conceived in traditionally Marxist terms but rather to be gleaned from metaphysical experience In this collection Adorno's literary executor has assembled the definitive introduction to his thinking Its five sections anatomize the range of Adorno's concerns Toward a New Categorical Imperative Damaged Life Administered World Reified Thought Art Memory of Suffering and A Philosophy That Keeps Itself Alive A substantial number of Adorno's writings included appear here in English for the first time This collection comes with an eloquent introduction from Rolf Tiedemann the literary executor of Adorno's work

Ethics During and After the Holocaust J. Roth, 2005-10-28 Questions shape the Holocaust's legacy What happened to ethics during the Holocaust What should ethics be and what can it do after the Holocaust loom large among them Absent the overriding or moral sensibilities if not the collapse or collaboration of ethical traditions the Holocaust could not have happened Its devastation may have deepened conviction that there is a crucial difference between right and wrong its destruction may have renewed awareness about the importance of ethical standards and conduct But Birkenau the main killing center at Auschwitz also continues to cast a disturbing shadow over basic beliefs concerning right and wrong human rights and the hope that human beings will learn from the past This book explores those realities and the issues they contain It does so not to discourage but to encourage not to deepen darkness and despair but to face those realities honestly and in a way that can make post Holocaust ethics more credible and realistic The book's thesis is that nothing human natural or divine guarantees respect for the ethical values and commitments that are most needed in contemporary human existence but nothing is more important than our commitment to defend them for they remain as fundamental as they are fragile as precious as they are endangered

Karl Barth on Theology and Philosophy Kenneth Oakes, 2012-12-06 Karl Barth is often assumed to have been hostile to philosophy wilfully ignorant of it or too indebted to its conclusions for his own theological good These truisms of twentieth century theology are challenged in this original and comprehensive account of Barth's understanding of the relationship between theology and philosophy Drawing upon a range of material from Barth's earliest writings 1909 up until interviews and roundtable discussions that took place shortly before his death 1968 Kenneth Oakes offers a developmental account of Barth's thoughts on philosophy and theology Beginning with the nineteenth century intellectual background to Barth's earliest theology Oakes presents the young and liberal Barth's understanding of the relationship between theology and philosophy and then tracks this understanding throughout the rest of Barth's career. While Barth never finally settled on a single fixed account of theology and philosophy, there was still a great deal of continuity regarding this topic in Barth's oeuvre. Looking through the lens of theology and philosophy, Barth's continual indebtedness to nineteenth-century modern theology is clearly seen, as well as his attempts and struggles to move beyond it. In addition to locating Barth's account of theology and philosophy historically, this study also gives attention to the specific doctrines and theological presuppositions that inform Barth's different portrayals of the relationship between theology and philosophy. Oakes asks how and why Barth used material from the doctrines under consideration, such as revelation, theological ethics, Christology, to talk about theology and philosophy. Barth is shown to have been concerned not only with the integrity and independence of theological discourse but also with the idea that theology should not lose its necessary and salutary interactions with philosophy. Finally, Oakes also considers the reception of Barth's thought in some of the luminary figures of twentieth-century philosophy and identifies the three main impressions philosophers have had of Barth's life and work.

Desire, Darkness, and Hope Laurie Cassidy, M. Shawn Copeland, 2021-05-15 For some decades the work of Carmelite theologian Constance FitzGerald OCD has been a well-known secret not only among students and practitioners of Carmelite spirituality but also among spiritual directors, spiritual writers, retreatants, vowed religious women and men, and Christian theologians. This collection sets out to introduce the work of Sister Constance to a wider and more diverse audience: women and men who seek to strengthen themselves on the spiritual journey, who yearn to deepen personal or scholarly theological and religious reflection, and who want to make sense of the times in which we live. To this end, this volume curates seven of Sister Constance's articles with probing and responsive essays written by ten theologians. Contributors include Susie Paulik Babka, Colette Ackerman OCD, Roberto S. Goizueta, Margaret R. Pfeil, Alex Milkulich, Andrew Prevot, Laurie Cassidy, Maria Teresa Morgan, Bryan N. Massingale, M. Catherine Hilbert, OP. The Palgrave Handbook of Holocaust Literature and Culture Victoria Aarons, Phyllis Lassner, 2020-01-24 The Palgrave Handbook of Holocaust Literature and Culture reflects current approaches to Holocaust literature that open up future thinking on Holocaust representation. The chapters consider diverse generational perspectives: survivor, writing second and third generation, and genres: memoirs, poetry, novels, graphic narratives, films, video testimonies, and other forms of literary and cultural expression. In turn, these perspectives create interactions among generations, genres, temporalities, and cultural contexts. The volume also participates in the ongoing project of responding to and talking through moments of rupture and incompleteness that represent an opportunity to contribute to the making of meaning through the continuation of narratives of the past. As such, the chapters in this volume pose options for reading Holocaust texts, offering openings for further discussion and exploration. The inquiring body of interpretive scholarship responding to the Shoah becomes itself a story, a narrative that materially extends our inquiry into that history.

Schopenhauer and Adorno on Bodily Suffering M. Peters, 2014-12-03 Schopenhauer and Adorno on Bodily Suffering explores how the works of both philosophers revolve around an entwinement of pessimism and optimism which links statements regarding the wrongness of the world to analyses of the human capability to experience compassion with bodily suffering and to the redeeming qualities of the arts

Images, Representations and Heritage Ian Russell, 2006-11-24

Recent archaeological theory has shown that images of the past have carried a particularly strong resonance within modern social groups. This volume explores the immeasurable impact that the phenomenon of archaeology has had on the representation of the past in the modern world. Modern society's archaeological imagination conceives of archaeology as a producer of images of the past which become representations of modern group identities. If archaeology is utilized by public groups to construct and represent identities, then what are archaeologists to do with that public? The very fact that the public is interested in the past and in archaeological research is an opportunity for archaeology to engage that public. Participation in the public's modern interest in archaeology, however, puts archaeology at risk. The growing role of archaeology and heritage within the economics of tourism has led to a commodification of archaeological knowledge and experience for consumption. This volume begins a discourse on the implications of performing archaeology in a world dominated by modern trends of mass production, mass replication, and representation of cultural forms and mass consumption of images of the past. The contributors explore to what extent we are experiencing a crisis of representation of the past due to contemporary consumption of mass-produced replicas, simulations, images, and experiences of the past. To work through this crisis, the contributors in this volume are exploring opportunities for development within archaeological thought and practice. Their arguments illustrate a move towards active participatory and poetic archaeological thought and practice. Rather than focusing on what is produced through process, artifacts, monuments, interpretive centers, etc., they are concerned with what they are doing about taking part about participating reflexively in the tradition of understanding and expressing understanding of the past. This volume does not conjure up romantic beliefs about the project of archaeology but rather it signals a fundamental revision of archaeology, not what it is but what it can do.

Art Therapy and Political Violence Debra Kalmanowitz, Bobby Lloyd, 2005

With accounts from Northern Ireland, Kosovo, Israel, and South Africa, this book vividly illustrates the therapeutic power of art making and art therapy in helping individuals, families, and communities cope with experiences of political violence.

Conceptual Art After Modernism Robert Bailey, 2025-05-30

This study provides a new interpretation of art after modernism by foregrounding the importance of conceptual thinking as a pervasive force for change in art and art history since 1950. Robert Bailey shows how distinctions between art and art history gave way as conceptual thinking provided artists and art historians with a common means to reassess what art could be and do in the world. Bailey assesses the results of artful and scholarly inquiries combining creative activity with intellectual rigor to proffer new approaches to a variety of social and environmental concerns ranging from questions about human identity, including race, class, gender, and sexuality, to activist efforts to redress everything from abortion access to migrants' rights to climate change.

This book provides both a historical overview of these developments and close analyses of key works and texts spanning 1950 to the present and encompassing broad geographic scope with special attention paid to Indigenous art The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history and contemporary art

The Discourse of Scholarly Communication Patrick Gamsby, 2023-08-14 The Discourse of Scholarly Communication examines the place and purpose of modern scholarship and its dialectical relationship with the ethos of Enlightenment Patrick Gamsby argues that while Enlightenment enlightenment is often used in the mottos of numerous academic institutions its historical social and philosophical elements are largely obscured Using a theoretical lens Gamsby revisits the ideals of the Enlightenment alongside the often contradictory issues of disciplinary boundaries access to research academic labor in the production of scholarship author peer reviewer editor and translator the interrelationship of form and content lectures textbooks books and essays and the stewardship of scholarship in academic libraries and archives It is ultimately argued that for the betterment of the scholarly communication ecosystem and the betterment of society anti Enlightenment rules of scholarship such as publish or perish should be dispensed with in favor of the formulation of a New Enlightenment

Through the Dark Field Susie Paulik Babka, 2017-01-13 Theological discourse in the West has consistently valued the word over the image Aesthetics which discerns the criteria and value of the beautiful and what pleases the senses is the discipline that prioritizes sensual intelligence over the rational this book advocates a reconsideration of the doctrine of the incarnation through an aesthetics of vulnerability in which the ethical optics of attention to the vulnerable other becomes the standpoint in which to ponder the significance of God became human Relying on such diverse thinkers as Emmanuel Levinas Maurice Blanchot Karl Rahner and Masao Abe Susie Paulik Babka explores visual art images and poetry as theological sources designating what Blanchot called a region where impossibility is no longer deprivation but affirmation

Dissonant Methods Ada S. Jaarsma, Kit Dobson, 2020-06-23 Dissonant Methods is an innovative collection that probes how by approaching teaching creatively postsecondary instructors can resist the constrictions of neoliberalism Based on the foundations of Scholarship of Teaching and Learning whereby educators are asked to explore teaching as scholarship these essays offer concrete and practical meditations on resistant and sustainable teaching The contributors seek to undermine forms of oppression frequently found in higher education and instead advance a vision of the university that upholds ideals such as critical thinking creativity and inclusivity Essential reading for faculty and graduate students in the humanities Dissonant Methods offers urgent galvanizing ideas for anyone currently teaching in a college or university Contributors Kathy Cawsey Kit Dobson Ada S Jaarsma Rachel Jones Kyle Kinaschuk Namrata Mitra Guy Obrecht Katja K Pettinen Kaitlin Rothberger Ely Shipley Martin Shuster

Critical Theory and the Challenge of Praxis Stefano Giacchetti Ludovisi, 2016-03-09 This volume explores possibility of constructing a political outcome from the theory of the early years of the Frankfurt School countering the commonly made criticism that critical theory is highly speculative With chapters exploring the work of figures central to the Frankfurt School including Benjamin Adorno Horkheimer Marcuse

Habermas and Honneth Critical Theory and the Challenge of Praxis reveals that it is only with a fixed and dogmatic model of politics that critical theory is incompatible and that it can in fact yield a rich variety of political models ranging from new forms of Marxism to more contemporary dialogical models centred on the politics of identity With attention to new ways of contrasting alienation and reification in contemporary forms of social organisation this book demonstrates that the thought of the Frankfurt school can in fact be an invaluable tool not only for developing a critique of advanced capitalism but also for originating alternative models of political praxis As such it will appeal to scholars of social and political theory with interests in classical sociological thought and continental philosophy Walter Benjamin and Architecture Gevork

Hartoonian,2009-10-27 Drawing from Walter Benjamin's ideas the essays compiled in this book contribute to a critical understanding of contemporary architectural theories After Ice Rafico Ruiz,Paula Schönoch,Rob Shields,2024-11-01 As the climate warms and the hydrological cycle falters ice is no longer a reliable feature of higher latitudes or winter seasons What are the consequences of the planet's waning capacity to cool In other words what comes after ice This collection examines the implications of the end of consistent freezing and thawing cycles After Ice gathers experts in a wide range of disciplines to articulate aspects of the cold humanities They investigate ice and its dynamic properties as a foundational element of Indigenous communities in the Arctic regions as a commodity with technological and political value and as a reflection of environmental change and the passage of time As the future of the cryosphere is increasingly determined by human behaviour this thought provoking exploration envisions ice as both a phase of water and as a milieu for sensemaking It asks us to consider how to define describe and materially characterize our warming world After the Fact Brad

Prager,2015-01-29 After the Fact studies the terrain of Holocaust documentaries subsequent to the turn of the twenty first century Until now most studies have centered primarily on canonical films such as Shoah and Night and Fog but over the course of the last ten years filmmaking practices have altered dramatically Changing techniques diminishing communities of survivors and the public's response to familiar even iconic imagery have all challenged filmmakers to radically revise and newly envision how they depict the Holocaust Innovative styles have emerged including groundbreaking techniques of incorporating archival footage survivor testimony and reenactment Carrying wider implications for the fields of Film Studies Jewish Studies and Visual Studies this book closely analyzes ten contemporary and internationally produced films most of which have hardly been touched upon in the critical literature or elsewhere Holocaust and the Moving Image Toby

Haggith,Joanna Newman,2005 Based on an event held at the Imperial War Museum in 2001 this book is a blend of voices and perspectives archivists curators filmmakers scholars and Holocaust survivors Each section examines films and how they have contributed to wider awareness and understanding of the Holocaust since the war Islam in a Post-Secular Society Dustin Byrd,2017-04-11 Islam in the Post Secular Society Religion Secularity and the Antagonism of Recalcitrant Faith critically examines the unique challenges facing Muslims in Europe and North America From the philosophical perspective of the

Frankfurt School's Critical Theory this book attempts not only to diagnose the current problems stemming from a marginalization of Islam in the secular West but also to offer a proposal for a Habermasian discourse between the religious and the secular By highlighting historical examples of Islamic and western rapprochement and rejecting the clash of civilization thesis the author attempts to find a common language between the religious and the secular which can serve as a vehicle for a future reconciliation

Rwanda After Genocide Caroline Williamson Sinalo, 2018-10-04 In the 1994 Rwanda genocide around 1 million people were brutally murdered in just thirteen weeks This book offers an in depth study of posttraumatic growth in the testimonies of the men and women who survived highlighting the ways in which they were able to build a new and often enhanced way of life In so doing Caroline Williamson Sinalo advocates a new reading of trauma one that recognises not just the negative but also the positive responses to traumatic experiences Through an analysis of testimonies recorded in Kinyarwanda by the Genocide Archive of Rwanda the book focuses particularly on the relationship between posttraumatic growth and gender and examines it within the wider frames of colonialism and traditional cultural practices Offering a striking alternative to dominant paradigms on trauma the book reveals that notwithstanding the countless tales of horror pain and loss in Rwanda there are also stories of strength recovery and growth

Adorno on Nature Deborah Cook, 2014-09-11 Decades before the environmental movement emerged in the 1960s Adorno condemned our destructive and self destructive relationship to the natural world warning of the catastrophe that may result if we continue to treat nature as an object that exists exclusively for our own benefit Adorno on Nature presents the first detailed examination of the pivotal role of the idea of natural history in Adorno's work A comparison of Adorno's concerns with those of key ecological theorists social ecologist Murray Bookchin ecofeminist Carolyn Merchant and deep ecologist Arne Naess reveals how Adorno speaks directly to many of today's most pressing environmental issues Ending with a discussion of the philosophical conundrum of unity in diversity Adorno on Nature also explores how social solidarity can be promoted as a necessary means of confronting environmental problems
