Giovanni Bellini Julia Davis, 2008 GIOVANNI BELLINI Giovanni Bellini c 1430 1516 is the author of some of the most exquisite of Renaissance paintings He is in a sense the painter's painter who had a long career like his pupil Titian in painting He influenced many artists among them Titian Giorgione Vecchio Sebastiano del Piombo and Albrecht Durer His influences include Andreas Mantegna his father Jacopo Bellini Antonello and Donatello Bellini does everything in his paintings that Renaissance painters are supposed to do he painted beautiful pictures devotional images of the Madonna Christ and various saints he painted mythological scenes and scenes from history he refined and defined Early Renaissance space bringing it into the High Renaissance he inaugurated a new feeling for landscape he remained true to the sacred and emotional aspects of painting to the end of his career he developed the various formats of Renaissance painting the small private devotional pictures the large public altarpieces a host of secular portraits and large scale friezes One might see Bellini as supremely a high Renaissance artist especially in his later altarpieces where his sense of space seems in tune with Titian or Raphael Bellini's style is very sweet His paintings are full of a love for painting and a love for his subjects The ambiguities in his works do not arise from his intentions which are as with so many Renaissance painters to be as exalting as possible So his Madonnas and saints are lovingly painted There is an undeniable sensuality in Giovanni Bellini's art Central to his art is his sensuality It is the same with the art of Leonardo Caravaggio Titian Vermeer Rembrandt and Rubens The sensuality of the paintings themselves as objects is crucial to their evaluation aesthetically Bellini is a sensual painter not simply in his treatment of eroticism or in the eroticism of his forms but also because he painted self consciously erotic subjects He painted female nudes the Woman with a Mirror in Vienna in The Feast of the Gods in Washington and in the restello of Truth in Venice Giovanni Bellini's sacred art is as erotic as his secular art as with many a painter Indeed one might say that some of Bellini's Christian paintings are more erotic than his paintings of mythological or historical subjects His Pietas for instance with that lovingly described dead nude Christ may be seen as more erotic than the Classical scenes The eroticism of art depends a lot on the viewer's response And on painterly surface and technique The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1995 The Performance of Sculpture in Renaissance Venice Lorenzo G. Buonanno, 2022-03-02 This study reveals the broad material devotional and cultural implications of sculpture in Renaissance Venice Examining a wide range of sources the era's art theoretical and devotional literature guidebooks and travel diaries and artworks in various media Lorenzo Buonanno recovers the sculptural values permeating a city most famous for its painting The book traces the interconnected phenomena of audience response display and thematization of sculptural bravura and artistic self fashioning It will be of interest to scholars working in art history Renaissance history early modern art and architecture material culture and Italian studies Maternal Transition Candace Johnson, 2014-07-11 What are the political dimensions that are revealed in women's preferences for health care during pregnancy and childbirth The answers to this question vary from one community to the next and often from woman to the next although the trends in the Global North and South are strikingly different Employing three conceptual frames medicalization the public private distinction and intersectionality Candace Johnson examines these differences through the narratives of women in Canada the United States Cuba and Honduras In Canada and the United States women from privileged and marginalized social groups demonstrate the differences across the North South divide and women in Cuba and Honduras speak to the realities of severely constrained decision making in developing countries Each case study includes narratives drawn from in depth interviews with women who were pregnant or who had recently had children Johnson argues that women s expressed preferences in different contexts reveal important details about the inequality that they experience in that context in addition to as various elements of identity Both inequality and identity are affected by the ways in which women experience the division between public and private lives the life of the community and the life of the home and family as well as the consequences of intersectionality the combinations of various sources of disadvantage and women s reactions to these either in the form of resistance or compliance The rigorous and highly original cross cultural and comparative research on health gender poverty and social context makes Maternal Transition an excellent contribution to global maternal health policy debates

Medieval and Renaissance Lactations Jutta Gisela Sperling, 2016-04-22 The premise of this volume is that the ubiquity of lactation imagery in early modern visual culture and the discourse on breastfeeding in humanist religious medical and literary writings is a distinct cultural phenomenon that deserves systematic study Chapters by art historians social and legal historians historians of science and literary scholars explore some of the ambiguities and contradictions surrounding the issue and point to the need for further study in particular in the realm of lactation imagery in the visual arts This volume builds on existing scholarship on representations of the breast the iconography of the Madonna Lactans allegories of abundance nature and charity women mystics food centered practices of devotion the ubiquitous practice of wet nursing and medical theories of conception It is informed by studies on queer kinship in early modern Europe notions of sacred eroticism in pre tridentine Catholicism feminist investigations of breastfeeding as a sexual practice and by anthropological and historical scholarship on milk exchange and ritual kinship in ancient Mediterranean and medieval Islamic societies Proposing a variety of different methods and analytical frameworks within which to consider instances of lactation imagery breastfeeding practices and their textual references this volume also offers tools to support further research on the topic

Motherhood in Mexican Cinema, 1941-1991 Isabel Arredondo, 2013-12-26 How were femininity and motherhood understood in Mexican cinema from the 1940s to the early 1990s Film analysis interviews with filmmakers academic articles and film reviews from newspapers are used to answer the question and trace the changes in such depictions Images of mothers in films by so called third wave filmmakers Busi Cortes Maria Novaro Dana Rotberg and Marisa Sistach are contrasted with those in Mexican classical films 1935 1950 and films from the 1970s and 1980s There are some surprising conclusions The most important restrictions in the depiction of mothers in classical cinema came not from the strict sexual norms of the 1940s but in reactions to women shown as having autonomous identities Also in contrast to classical films third wave films show a woman's problems within a social dimension making motherhood political in relation not to militancy within the left but to women's issues Third wave films approach the problems of Latin American society as those of individuals differentiated by gender sexuality and ethnicity in such films mothers are citizens directly affected by laws economic policies and cultural beliefs

Insane Passions Christine Coffman, 2006-12-12 In France in 1933 two sisters presumed to be lovers murdered the women who employed them as maids Known as the Papin affair the incident inspired not only Jean Genet's 1947 The Maids but also an essay by Jacques Lacan that presents the sisters' crime as fueled by a narcissistic homosexual drive that culminated in the assault In this new investigation of the roots of the twentieth century myth of the lesbian as madwoman Christine Coffman argues that the female psychotic was the privileged object of Lacan's effort to derive a revolutionary theory of subjectivity from the study of mental illness Examining Lacan's early writings French surrealism Djuna Barnes Nightwood and H D's homoerotic fiction in light of feminist and queer theory Insane Passions argues that the psychotic woman that fascinates modernist writers returns with a murderous vengeance in a number of late twentieth century films including Basic Instinct Sister My Sister Single White Female and Murderous Maids Marking the limit of social acceptability the psychotic lesbian repeatedly appears as the screen onto which the violence and madness of twentieth century life are projected The Connoisseur, 1927

Pictorial Victorians Julia Thomas, 2004 Pictorial Victorians focuses on two of the most popular mid nineteenth century genres illustration and narrative painting that blurred the line between the visual and the textual Illustration negotiated text and image on the printed page while narrative painting juxtaposed the two media in its formulation of pictorial stories Pictorial Victorians surveys a range of material from representations of the crinoline to the illustrations that accompanied Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel Uncle Tom's Cabin and Tennyson's poetry to paintings of adultery It demonstrates that the space between text and image is one in which values are both constructed and questioned BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Toward a Phenomenology of Sexual Difference Sara Heinämaa, 2004-09-01 Simone de Beauvoir's Le Deuxième Sexe has been studied extensively since its appearance in 1949 Through the years certain passages have taken on prestige others are seen as unimportant to understanding Beauvoir's argument In Toward a Phenomenology of Sexual Difference Sara Heinämaa rediscovers those neglected passages in her quest to follow Beauvoir's line of thinking Heinämaa like some other recent philosophers finds that Le Deuxième Sexe is a philosophical inquiry not the empirical study it is commonly thought to be Others who view Beauvoir's masterpiece as a work of philosophy argue it is a criticism not only of Sartrean phenomenology but of phenomenology as a whole Heinämaa thinks differently She finds that Beauvoir's starting point is the Husserlian idea of the living body that she found developed in Merleau Ponty's Phénoménologie de la perception So when Beauvoir wrote Le Deuxième Sexe she was writing not as Sartre's pupil but as a scholar in the tradition of Husserl and Merleau Ponty Leonardo Da Vinci James Pearson, 2008 Leonardo's art is the apotheosis of Renaissance and Western art He depicted angels Madonnas and saints in ever mysterious images His sfumato paintings remain some of the most hypnotic in art The sheer intensity of Leonardo's curiosity and his spectacular inventiveness in the fields of science botany geology anatomy medicine and warfare make him more than worthy of the name universal genius The Practice of Love Teresa De Lauretis, 1994 Between 1970 and now in conjunction with earlier and contemporaneous social movements feminism and poststructuralism have made way for the rise of minority discourse and gay and lesbian studies as fields of scholarly and theoretical research Conceived from the vantage point of the latter this book returns to Freudian psychoanalysis and semiotics to the questions of representation subjectivity desire and their relations to social signification and material reality The Publishers Weekly, 1901 Exposing Slavery Matthew Fox-Amato, 2019-03-01 Within a few years of the introduction of photography into the United States in 1839 slaveholders had already begun commissioning photographic portraits of their slaves Ex slaves turned abolitionists such as Frederick Douglass had come to see how sitting for a portrait could help them project humanity and dignity amidst northern racism In the first decade of the medium enslaved people had begun entering southern daguerreotype studios of their own volition posing for cameras and leaving with visual treasures they could keep in their pockets And as the Civil War raged Union soldiers would orchestrate pictures with fugitive slaves that envisioned racial hierarchy as slavery fell In these ways and others from the earliest days of the medium to the first moments of emancipation photography powerfully influenced how bondage and freedom were documented imagined and contested By 1865 it would be difficult for many Americans to look back upon slavery and its fall without thinking of a photograph Exposing Slavery explores how photography altered and was in turn shaped by conflicts over human bondage Drawing on an original source base that includes hundreds of unpublished and little studied photographs of slaves ex slaves free African Americans and abolitionists as well as written archival materials it puts visual culture at the center of understanding the experience of late slavery It assesses how photography helped southerners to defend slavery enslaved people to shape their social ties abolitionists to strengthen their movement and soldiers to pictorially enact interracial society during the Civil War With diverse goals these peoples transformed photography from a scientific curiosity into a political tool over only a few decades This creative first book sheds new light on conflicts over late American slavery while also revealing a key moment in the relationship between modern visual culture and racialized forms of power and resistance The Players, 1860 The Encyclopædia Britannica, 1911 Kate Chopin Reconsidered Lynda S. Boren, Sarah deSaussure Davis, 1999-09-01 In this indispensable volume fourteen intellectually compelling essays consider Kate Chopin's life and art from a variety of critical perspectives biographical New Historicist materialist poststructuralist feminist with several of the pieces focusing on Chopin's classic novel The Awakening Bibliographic Guide to Art and Architecture New York Public Library.
