important work showing beneath surface conflict a deep consensus on a number of ideals by social elites John H Evans Department of Sociology University of California San Diego The idea of a culture war or wars has existed in America since the 1960s an underlying ideological schism in our country that is responsible for the polarizing debates on everything from the separation of church and state to abortion to gay marriage to affirmative action Irene Taviss Thomson explores this notion by analyzing hundreds of articles addressing hot button issues over two decades from four magazines National Review Time The New Republic and The Nation as well as a wide array of other writings and statements from a substantial number of public intellectuals What Thomson finds might surprise you based on her research there is no single cultural divide or cultural source that can account for the positions that have been adopted While issues such as religion homosexuality sexual conduct and abortion have figured prominently in public discussion in fact there is no single thread that unifies responses to each of these cultural dilemmas for any of the writers Irene Taviss Thomson is Professor Emeritus of Sociology having taught in the Department of Social Sciences and History at Fairleigh Dickinson University for more than 30 years Previously she taught in the Department of Sociology at Harvard University
