Michael Walters, 2021-06-15 What's more miserable than trying to walk with a stone in your shoe Many American evangelicals are experiencing pain and discomfort in their relationship to the church Stones in their shoes make the faith journey uncomfortable and increasingly untenable They either leave the church altogether become church shoppers or live on the margins of the church as outliers This book presents the vantage point of a lifelong evangelical pastor and religious educator who sees himself as an outlier Walters draws on decades of pastoral life and classroom experience to engage the church in a conversation aimed at clarifying the concerns and discomforts of evangelical outliers While this is one person's story it intersects with the stories of many others in American evangelicalism especially clergy In identifying the stones which trouble and discomfort so many like him Walters continually calls the church his church back to its biblical and theological foundations

Greene,2014-03-21 What does fruitfulness look like in our everyday lives How can we serve God in the many many hours of our waking time Whether we are housewives or students schoolkids or factory workers sales assistants or retired God can use us in many different ways And that's not by adding new things to our much to do about everything lists Rather it is about what happens when we let God show us how he wants us to respond in the places we find ourselves day by day our frontlines wherever they are We don't need a high position a university degree or lots of money to have a significant impact for the Lord What if for now at least the people God wants us to love and serve are the people we meet day to day There are lots of stories in this book They are all about followers of Jesus who have come to see the places and the people they encounter on their frontlines They are testimonies that God still works powerfully wondrously and mysteriously through his people today

Derr, 2020-02-04 How can we as Christian leaders make the most of our communication to help others become more like Christ Colleen Derr draws on decades of experience in education and church ministry to offer a holistic strategy for transformational communication showing that communication powered by the Spirit needn't be limited to the pulpit or classroom but can include everyday interactions and relationships Serving Money, Serving God Sheryl Johnson, 2023-02-14 Justice commitments can and must be integrated into all of a church's financial practices including fundraising budgeting managing property and personnel investing and participating in community partnerships So argues Sheryl Johnson in Serving Money Serving God Aligning Radical Justice Christian Practice and Church Life This is the first Christian stewardship and finance book written from an explicitly anti racist decolonial feminist ecological and class critical standpoint Many churches espouse these commitments as individual members as congregations and through their denominations but pursue them as discrete initiatives such as themes for study and worship rather than as core organizing principles for congregational life Alignment between Christian beliefs and commitments and church practice is both ethically and practically necessary however A 2009 Pew Research Center study that found that about half of those who had become unaffiliated from religion had done so because they found religious people hypocritical judgmental or insincere Alignment between beliefs and church practice therefore matters deeply both for those who are active in churches and for those who are not but who might be if faith and action are consistent This book offers a positive and constructive approach to the topic and is filled with inspiring examples for churches of all sizes Case studies provide practical guidance and make the analysis
