

Chp 2: Classifications of Drugs.

Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act:

1. In 1970, the Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act (referred to as the Controlled Substances Act)
1. Drugs are placed in one of five "schedules," with regulatory requirements associated with each schedule. Schedule I drugs have a high potential for abuse, no currently accepted medical use in treatment in the United States. Drugs on Schedule I include heroin, methaqualone (Quaalude: sedative-hypnotic), LSD, psilocybin, and marijuana.
1. Schedule II drugs also have a high abuse potential and can lead to psychological or physical dependence. However, these drugs have an accepted medical use in treatment. These include morphine, PCP, cocaine, and methamphetamine.
4. Other schedules (I thru IV) involve less abuse potential, increased medical uses, and less likelihood of psychological and physical dependence. However, some drug classifications are illogical. For example, barbitates such as Veluron and Kanax are Schedule IV drugs, with part of the criteria for inclusion being that the drugs have a lower abuse potential than drugs on Schedules I, II, and III. In reality, these drugs have at least the same if not greater abuse potential than marijuana, a Schedule I drug. However, the inclusion of a drug on a certain schedule is related to public policy. For example, the reclassification downward of a drug such as marijuana would be politically difficult, and the reclassification of barbitates upward would be needed by the manufacturers of these drugs.
