

The background of the cover is a detailed, painterly illustration of a geological landscape. It features prominent, layered rock formations in shades of brown, tan, and green, suggesting different geological strata. A tree with a textured, greyish-brown trunk and bare branches stands on the right side. In the lower left, there's a small stream or pool of water reflecting the surrounding environment. The overall style is that of a classic geological field sketch or a naturalist's painting.
