Wiedenmann,J. Ray Fisher,2021-08-27 Insects are seldom mentioned in discussions surrounding human history yet they have dramatically impacted today's societies This book places them front and center offering a multidisciplinary view of their significance Diseases vectored by insects have killed more people than all weapons of war Fleas are common pests but some can transmit illnesses such as the bubonic plague In fact three pandemics can be traced back to them Epidemics of typhus have been caused by lice Conversely humans have also benefitted from insects for millennia Silk comes from silkworms and honey comes from bees Despite the undeniably powerful effects of insects on humans their stories are typically left out of our history books In The Silken Thread entomologists Robert N Wiedenmann and J Ray Fisher link the history of insects to the history of empires cultural exchanges and warfare The book narrows its focus to just five insects a moth a flea a louse a mosquito and a bee The authors explore the impact of these insects throughout time and the common threads connecting them Using biology to complement history they showcase these small creatures in a whole new light On every page the authors thoughtfully analyze the links between history and entomology The book begins with silkworms which have been farmed for centuries It then moves to fleas and their involvement in the spread of the plague before introducing the role lice played in the Black Death wars and immigration The following section concerns yellow fever mosquitos emphasizing the effects of yellow fever in the Americas and the connection to sugar and slavery After discussing the importance of western honey bees the authors tie these five insects together in an exciting closing chapter

Children's Literature and the Posthuman Zoe Jaques,2015-02-11 An investigation of identity formation in children s literature this book brings together children s literature and recent critical concerns with posthuman identity to argue that children s fiction offers sophisticated interventions into debates about what it means to be human and in particular about humanity s relationship to animals and the natural world In complicating questions of human identity ecology gender and technology Jaques engages with a multifaceted posthumanism to understand how philosophy can emerge from children s fantasy disclosing how such fantasy can build upon earlier traditions to represent complex issues of humanness to younger audiences Interrogating the place of the human through the non human whether animal or mechanical leads this book to have interpretations that radically depart from the critical tradition which in its concerns with the socialization and representation of the child has ignored larger epistemologies of humanness The book considers canonical texts of children s literature alongside recent bestsellers and films locating texts such as Gulliver s Travels 1726 Pinocchio 1883 and the Alice books 1865 1871 as important works in the evolution of posthuman ideas This study provides radical new readings of children s literature and demonstrates that the genre offers sophisticated interventions into the nature boundaries and dominion of humanity

 s clothing I believe I am a dog I am desired longed for patiently waited for and loved At least I can tell myself that but perhaps I am a gerbil not really wanted a replacement fun for a while but sure to be returned Then God comes along Do you ever feel like a stray dog alone and frightened cowering in the cold corner of an animal shelter God scoops us up into his arms and carries us home from the shelter He washes us and gives us a name But life with the Master is new and difficult The Master s new rules sometimes make us look through the fence slats of His kingdom We dig holes and crawl back into the world God continues to whistle from his porch even while we chase cars and cats and dig through the neighbors trash Eventually we have to decide if we will leave our doggy lives behind and enjoy a relationship with the Master
