

Carpal Tunnel Rehabilitation

THESE EXERCISES

This programme has specific exercises to strengthen the muscles of your forearm and hand, to treat and also prevent Carpal Tunnel Syndrome. These exercises should be done at least once a day, or preferably twice a day time permitting. It is important to ensure the exercises are performed with good technique and control. We have given suggested sets and repetitions. Remember everyone is different so your therapist may give guidance that is more specific to you.

The stretches are also performed to mobilise the tissues and joints, these can be done repeatedly during the day.

Neurological Rehabilitation Michael P. Barnes, David C. Good, 2013-01-10. Neurological Rehabilitation is the latest volume in the definitive Handbook of Clinical Neurology series. It is the first time that this increasingly important subject has been included in the series, and this reflects the growing interest and quality of scientific data on topics around neural recovery and the practical applications of new research. The volume will appeal to clinicians from both neurological and rehabilitation backgrounds and contains topics of interest to all members of the multidisciplinary clinical team, as well as the neuroscience community. The volume is divided into five key sections. The first is a summary of current research on neural repair, recovery, and plasticity. The authors have kept the topics readable for a non-scientific audience and focused on the aspects of basic neuroscience that should be most relevant to clinical practice. The next section covers the basic principles of neurorehabilitation, including excellent chapters on learning and skill acquisition, outcome measurement, and functional neuroimaging. The key clinical section comes next and includes updates and reviews on the management of the main neurological disabling physical problems, such as spasticity, pain, sexual functioning, and dysphagia. Cognitive, emotional, and behavioural problems are just as important and are covered in the next section with excellent chapters, for example, on memory and management of executive dysfunction. The final part draws the sections on symptom management together by discussing the individual diseases that are most commonly seen in neurorehabilitation and providing an overview of the management of the disability associated with those disorders. The
