Carnegie Foundation Advancement Teaching Financial:

Annual Report - Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, 1926 The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, 2018-03-02 Excerpt from The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching The Financial Status of the Professor in America and in Germany While general statements have been made in various publications concern ing the rate of compensation of the American teacher and while comparisons have been made with the pay of foreign teachers no trustworthy information has been at hand to show just what is the compensation of a teacher in different institutions and how it compares with the pay of a foreign professor During the short time in which the Carnegie Foundation has existed a carefully planned effort has been carried out to secure this information from various colleges and universities in the United States and Canada The statistics which are given in the following Bulletin have been obtained directly from the institutions themselves About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, Vol. 3 Morris Lyewellyn Cooke, 2015-06-25 Excerpt from The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching Vol 3 Standard Forms for Financial Reports of Colleges Universities and Technical Schools The present bulletin is the result of a prolonged inquiry concerning the practice of universities and colleges in the United States in the rendering of public financial statements of their receipts and of their expenditures It represents also the results of many conferences with the financial officers of colleges and universities as well as with public accountants and others familiar with the object which such financial statements should serve Tax supported institutions are required by law to print an annual detailed statement of their receipts and expenditures These reports in some cases simply give the list of separate vouchers While this may have a value in complying with the state law such reports serve only a limited purpose in showing the actual operations of the institutions concerned Nevertheless it is true that the tax supported institutions have had a real source of strength by reason of this enforced publicity Among endowed institutions only a small minority publish annual financial statements The great mass of institutions of higher learning in the United States bearing the name college or university make no public accounting of the disposition of the moneys which they receive It seems clear that both from the standpoint of its own efficiency no less than from the standpoint of its obligation to the public every public institution like a college should print annually a report as to the use of the moneys which it has received It is in the hope of facilitating this public duty and with the hope further of bringing about some uniformity in these reports that the present study was undertaken In its prosecution the effort has continually been made to avoid the complexities of too great detail and to reduce the information which ought to be given to the simplest and most intelligible form In order to do this it is necessary to know with some definiteness two things 1 Who are the persons who make use of financial reports from colleges and 2 What do those who examine such reports wish to ascertain from them From the somewhat extended inquiry which has been made it may be stated with definiteness that the reports of the financial officers of colleges are read by very few people and these may be classified in the following three groups 1 Trustees alumni and friends of the institution who are directly interested in its welfare 2 Men of means who contemplate gifts to colleges or who have made such gifts 3 Individuals and agencies like the United States Bureau of Education engaged in a study of educational methods and cost About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Barrow, 2017-08-11 This book presents a critical analysis of the corporate university The author s personal narrative unfolds between the reality of the corporate university and the rhetoric of the entrepreneurial university which allows the author to reveal how the corporate university is structurally antagonistic to the activities of entrepreneurial intellectuals The book not only explores the internal contradictions of the corporate university but the complicity of its bureaucratized intellectuals in reproducing the iron cage of bureaucracy Drawing on the legacy of Pierre Joseph Proudhon Barrow argues that entrepreneurial intellectuals whether as individuals or in small groups must take direct action to improve their own conditions by steering a tenuous course between the market and the state School Finance William E. Thro, 2012-09-06 Written and signed by experts in the field this volume in the point-counterpoint Debating Issues in American Education reference series tackles the topic of school finance providing readers with an illustrated overview of the subject as well as resources for further study Bulletin ... University of St. Andrews.
