

The Carrier 30GB chillers offer more features for more cost-saving flexibility

Cooler freeze-up protection

Each unit is protected against cooler freeze-up by 2 methods. A low-water temperature safety thermostat stops the unit automatically if water temperature drops below 36 F. By the second method, factory-installed heaters protect the cooler from the effects of sub-freezing ambient temperatures. These heaters are located around the shell, between the shell and a thick layer of closed-cell insulation; they are energized whenever the chilled water flow stops.

Compressor crankcase heaters

Each compressor has an electric heater that operates only during periods of compressor shutdown to assure proper lubrication by minimizing refrigerant dilution of oil.

Easy access to components

All electrical components are accessible thru removable service panels. Cooler and compressor are protected by removable steel wire guards. Carrier also provides a handy convenience outlet (115v) for connecting lights and power tools.

Standby protection

Multiple compressor operation offers system reliability in case of a malfunction or safety cutout. Dual, independent refrigerant circuits maintain partial unit capacity even if one circuit fails. This backup protection can help prevent costly damage in process cooling or industrial applications.

Flow switch

Chilled water flow switch shuts down the unit and energizes the cooler heaters in case chilled water flow stops.

Units meet NEMA-MGI motor standards

All compressor and fan motors meet National Electrical Manufacturer's Association and U.S. government standards.
