Mavin,Steven Hodge,2017-05-15 Whether a trainee is studying air traffic control piloting maintenance engineering or cabin crew they must complete a set number of training hours before being licensed or certified The aviation industry is moving away from an hours based to a competency based training system Within this approach training is complete when a learner can demonstrate competent performance Training based on competency is an increasingly popular approach in aviation It allows for an alternate means of compliance with international regulations which can result in shorter and more efficient training programs However there are also challenges with a competency based approach The definition of competency based education can be confusing training can be reductionist and artificially simplistic professional interpretation of written competencies can vary between individuals and this approach can have a high administrative and regulatory burden Competency Based Education in Aviation Exploring Alternate Training Pathways explores this approach to training in great detail considering the four aviation professional groups of air traffic control pilots maintenance engineers and cabin crew Aviation training experts were interviewed and have contributed professional insights along with personal stories and anecdotes associated with competency based approaches in their fields Research based and practical strategies for the effective creation delivery and assessment of competency based education are described in detail proven digital flight measurement system and 27 spins have been systematically conducted inside and outside the certified flight envelope The accuracy of the flight measurements is ensured through effective calibration and the choice of sensors has varied through the study with earlier sensors suffering from more drift than the current sensors Belcastro 2009 and Schrader 2013 In flight parameter data collected includes left and right wing and angles roll pitch yaw angles and corresponding rates all control surface deflections vertical speeds altitude losses and the aeroplane s accelerations in all three directions Such data have been statistically analysed The pitch behaviour has been mathematically modelled on the basis of the gathered flight test data Nine observations have been proposed These mainly cover the effects of centre of gravity and aircraft mass variations on spin characteristic behaviour They have all been proven as true through the results of this thesis The final observation concerns the generalisation of the Fuji results to the spin behaviour of other aircraft in the same category These observations can be used to improve flight test programmes aircraft design processes flight training materials and hence contribute strongly to better flight safety
