The background of the book cover is a vibrant green with a pattern of white dots and streaks, resembling a starry night sky or a digital data field. Overlaid on this background is a black Cartesian coordinate system with a horizontal x-axis and a vertical y-axis. Three smooth, continuous curves are plotted: a blue curve that starts in the upper left, peaks, and then descends; a red curve that starts in the upper left, dips, and then rises; and a yellow curve that starts in the lower left, dips, and then rises. The title 'Calculus' is written in a large, white, serif font, and 'Early Transcendental Functions' is written in a smaller, white, sans-serif font below it.
