

Cellular Respiration—An Overview

What are the phases of cellular respiration?

Why?

All cells need energy all the time, and their primary source of energy is ATP. The methods cells use to make ATP vary depending on the availability of oxygen and their biological make-up. In many cases the cells are in an oxygen-rich environment. For example, as you sit and read this sentence, you are breathing in oxygen, which is then carried throughout your body by red blood cells. But, some cells grow in environments without oxygen (yeast in wine-making or the bacteria that cause botulism in canned food), and occasionally animal cells must function without sufficient oxygen (as in running sprints). In this activity you will begin to look at the aerobic and anaerobic processes that are used by all organisms to produce ATP.

Model 1 – Cellular Respiration

1. According to Model 1, what are the reactants of cellular respiration?

Glucose and Oxygen

2. According to Model 1, what are the products of cellular respiration?

Carbon dioxide, water, and energy(ATP)

Cell Respiration Thomas Ap Rees,1985 I am honored by the editor s invitation to write a Preface for this volume As a member of an older generation of plant physiologists my lineage in plant respiration traces back to F F BLACKMAN through the privilege of having M THOMAS and W O JAMES two of his students as my mentors How the subject has changed in 40 years In those dark ages B 14C most of the information available was hard won from long term experiments using the input output approach Respiratory changes in response to treatments were measured by laborious gas analysis or by titration of alkali from masses of Pettenkofer tubes the Warburg respir ometer was just beginning to be used for plant studies by pioneers such as TURNER and ROBERTSON Nevertheless the classical experiments of BLACKMAN with apples had led to important results on the relations between anaerobic and aerobic carbohydrate utilization and on the climacteric and to the first explicit concept of respiratory control of respiration imposed by the organiza tion resistance of cell structure THOMAS extended this approach in his investi gations of the Pasteur effect and the induction of aerobic fermentation by poi sons such as cyanide and high concentrations of CO JAMES began a long 2 series of studies of the partial reactions of respiration in extracts from barley and YEMM S detailed analysis of carbohydrate components in relation to respira tory changes added an important new dimension Cellular Respiration A. Malcolm Campbell,Christopher J. Paradise,2016-03-28 What happens to a meal after it is eaten Food consists primarily of lipids proteins and carbohydrates sugars How do cells in the body process food once it is eaten and turned it into a form of energy that other cells can use This book examines some of the classic experimental data that revealed how cells break down food to extract the energy Metabolism of food is regulated so that energy extraction increases when needed and slows down when not needed This type of self regulation is all part of the complex web of enzymes that convert food into energy Adding to this complexity is that all food eventually winds up as two carbon bits that are all processed the same way This book will also reveal why animals breathe oxygen and how that relates to the end of the energy extraction process and oxygen's only role in the body. Rather than look at all the details, this book takes a wider view and shows how cellular respiration is self-regulating.
