Anthropos and the Material Penny Harvey,Christian Krohn-Hansen,Knut G. Nustad,2019-05-09 The destructive effects of modern industrial societies have shaped the planet in such profound ways that many argue for the existence of a new geological epoch called the Anthropocene This claim brings into relief a set of challenges that have deep implications for how relations between the human the material and the political affect contemporary social worlds The contributors to Anthropos and the Material examine these challenges by questioning and complicating long held understandings of the divide between humans and things They present ethnographic case studies from across the globe addressing myriad topics that range from labor economics and colonialism to technology culture the environment agency and diversity In foregrounding the importance of connecting natural and social histories the instability and intangibility of the material and the ways in which the lively encounters between the human and the nonhuman challenge conceptions of liberal humanism the contributors point to new understandings of the capacities of people and things to act transform and adapt to a changing world

Creating Africas Knut Nustad,2015-05-21 In Africa conflicts between protected areas for fauna and flora and space for their surrounding human populations continue despite years spent trying to find an accommodation between the needs of both parties Creating Africas investigates the roots of the current conservation boom demonstrates that it is part of a struggle over various definitions of existing realities and examines the global effects of this struggle The book discusses the first UNESCO World Heritage Site in South Africa the Isimangaliso St Lucia Wetland Park Here conservation interests are pitted against those of industrial forestry commercial farming and local communities struggling to have their lands returned to them They all seek to define and create their own realities but do so with very different resources at their disposal In his expert analysis Nustad treats these realities not as different representations but rather as multiple often competing viewpoints that involve a wide range of actors both human and non human Nustad posits that in order to avoid being accused of neo colonial land grabbing the conservation lobby will need to find a new way of imagining nature and protection that includes people

Enjoying the Song of Term: An Mental Symphony within Creating Africas Struggles Over Nature Conservation And Land Crises In World Politics

In a world taken by monitors and the ceaseless chatter of instant communication, the melodic beauty and psychological symphony developed by the written term usually fade in to the back ground, eclipsed by the persistent noise and distractions that permeate our lives. However, situated within the pages of Creating Africas Struggles Over Nature Conservation And Land Crises In World Politics an enchanting literary value full of fresh feelings, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Constructed by a wonderful musician of language, that charming masterpiece conducts visitors on an emotional journey, well unraveling the concealed tunes and profound affect resonating within each cautiously constructed phrase. Within the depths with this emotional assessment, we will explore the book is main harmonies, analyze its enthralling publishing model, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
