Progressive Creation and the Struggles of Humanity in the Bible Zoltan Dornyei, 2018-03-22 Why does the Christian walk often feel like an ongoing struggle and why does God's creation include imperfection let alone forces that are intent on thwarting God's creative work In seeking a response to these questions this book argues that the biblical accounts describe creation in terms of a progressive transformation process whereby the initially incomplete created order will reach perfection only in the fulfillment of new creation The following discussion then outlines a comprehensive framework for the biblical theology of humanity's struggles centered on three key themes corporeal temptation deficient social structures and the much debated notion of spiritual warfare The book presents an overarching canonical narrative that threads together a series of diverse biblical topics from Job's temptation to the Atonement The final part surveys biblical teaching on how human conduct can be aligned with God's creative purpose and discusses three assignments from Jesus to believers to celebrate the Eucharist to pray the Lord's Prayer and to fulfill the Great Commission      Christian Theology Christopher W. Pentecostal Scholarship Wolfgang Vondey, Martin Mittelstadt, 2013-06-15 In The Theology of Amos Yong and the New Face of Pentecostal Scholarship Wolfgang Vondey and Martin William Mittelstadt gather a table of experts on one of the most influential voices in current Pentecostal theology. The authors provide an introduction and critical assessment of Yong's biblical foundations, hermeneutics, epistemology, philosophical presuppositions, trinitarian theology, theology of religions, ecumenical and interfaith relations, theology of disability, engagement with contemporary culture, and participation in the theology and science conversation. These diverse topics are pursued through the complementary perspectives that together shape Yong's methodology, pneumatology, pentecostalism, and the possibility of renewal. The contributors invite a more thorough reading of Yong's work and propose a more substantial engagement with the new face of Pentecostal scholarship. Contributors include Andrew Carver, Jacob D. Dodson, Jeff Hittenberger, Mark Mann, Martin William Mittelstadt, L. William Oliverio Jr., David A. Reed, Tony Richie, Christopher A. Stephenson, Steven M. Studebaker, Paraskev, Eve Tibbs, and Wolfgang Vondey.

Nature, Space and the Sacred Sigurd Bergmann, 2009 Nature Space and the Sacred offers the first investigative mapping of a new and highly significant agenda: the spatial interactions between religion, nature, and culture. In this groundbreaking work, different concepts of religion, theology, space, and place, and their internal relations are discussed in an impressive range of approaches. Weaving together a diversity of perspectives, this book presents an innovative and truly transdisciplinary environmental science. Its broad range offers a rich exchange of insights, methods, and theoretical engagements.

God is Green Bob Shore-Goss, 2016-10-28 At this time of climate crisis, here is a practical Christian ecospirituality. It emerges from the pastoral and theological experience of Reverend Robert Shore Goss, who worked with his congregation by making the earth a member of the church, by greening worship, and by helping the church building and operations attain a carbon neutral footprint. Shore Goss explores an ecospirituality grounded in incarnational compassion. Practicing incarnational compassion means following the lived praxis of Jesus and the commission of the risen Christ as Gardener. Jesus becomes the green face of God. Restrictive Christian spiritualities that exclude the earth as an original blessing of God must expand. This expansion leads to the realization that the incarnation of Christ has deep roots in the earth and the fleshly or biological tissue of life. This book aims to foster ecological conversation in churches and outlines the following practices for congregations: meditating on nature, inviting sermons on green topics, covenanting with the earth, and retrieving the natural elements of the sacraments. These practices help us recover ourselves as fleshly members of the earth and the network of life. If we fall in love with God's creation, says Shore Goss, we will fight against climate change.

God's Wounds: Hermeneutic of the Christian Symbol of Divine Suffering, Volume Two Jeff B. Pool, 2010-01-01 This book constitutes the second volume of a three-volume study of Christian testimonies to divine suffering: God's Wounds: Hermeneutic of the Christian Symbol of Divine Suffering, vol. 2, Evil and Divine Suffering. The larger study focuses its inquiry into the testimonies to divine suffering themselves, seeking to allow the voices that attest to divine suffering to speak freely, then to discover and elucidate the internal logic or rationality of this family of testimonies rather than defending these attestations against the dominant claims of classical Christian theism that have historically sought to eliminate such language altogether from Christian discourse about the nature and life of God This second volume of studies proceeds on the basis of the presuppositions of this symbol those implicit attestations that provide the conditions of possibility for divine suffering that which constitutes divine vulnerability with respect to creation as identified and examined in the first volume of this project an understanding of God through the primary metaphor of love God is love and an understanding of the human as created in the image of God with a life though finite analogous to the divine life the imago Dei as love The second volume then investigates the first two divine wounds or modes of divine suffering to which the larger family of testimonies to divine suffering normally attest 1 divine grief suffering because of betrayal by the beloved human or human sin and 2 divine self sacrifice suffering for the beloved human in its bondage to sin or misery to establish the possibility of redemption and reconciliation Each divine wound thus constitutes a response to a creaturely occasion The suffering in each divine wound also occurs in two stages a passive stage and an active stage In divine grief God suffers because of human sin betrayal of the divine lover by the beloved human divine sorrow as the passive stage of divine grief and divine anguish as the active stage of divine grief In divine self sacrifice God suffers in response to the misery or bondage of the beloved human s infidelity divine travail focused on the divine incarnation in Jesus of Nazareth as the active stage of divine self sacrifice and divine agony focused on divine suffering in the crucifixion of Jesus of Nazareth as the passive stage of divine self sacrifice

Let Justice Flow Like Water Joshua M. Greever, D. A. Horton, Justin McLendon, 2025-06-01 Edited by Joshua M Greever D A Horton and Justin McLendon Let Justice Flow Like Water addresses the strained relationship between social justice the gospel and the mission of the church In response to the misuse of Scripture to promote personal ends the volume reorients the conversation around justice and centers it in the biblical text and its theological implications The authors provide practical wisdom and points of application to pastors ministry leaders and students The authors examine the most frequently cited texts on biblical justice through a coherent biblical and systematic theological method The result is a glimpse into God s heart for justice and his desire for humanity especially the church to share this heart The volume s theology is supplemented by practical guidance to pastors so that they can lead their churches to embrace the gospel and social justice properly understood Let Justice Flow Like Water serves as an irenic reminder to pastors students and educated lay people to return to the biblical text to understand it more accurately and to reengage and understand one another in a winsome fashion for the sake of the gospel the mission of the church and the glory of God

Spirit and Trauma Shelly Rambo, 2010-01-01 Rambo draws on contemporary studies in trauma to rethink a central claim of the Christian faith that new life arises from death Reexamining the narrative of the death and resurrection of Jesus from the middle day liturgically named as Holy Saturday she seeks a theology that addresses the experience of living in the aftermath of trauma Through a reinterpretation of remaining in the Johannine Gospel she proposes a new theology of the Spirit that challenges traditional conceptions of redemption Offered in its place is a vision of the Spirit's witness from within the depths of human suffering to the persistence of divine love      Creation Theology José Morales, 2001 The notion and truth of creation has many direct implications for the role of man and woman in the world the meaning of pain the connection between religious outlook and science's view of the world and the development of a theology of the earth Creation Theology will be useful not only to students of theology but to any reader who seeks an understanding of the Christian view of Creation and the role of human life and action in the world Translated from the Spanish      Colin Gunton's Trinitarian Theology of Culture Andrew Picard, 2024-06-27 Whilst upholding some of the criticisms of Colin Gunton's work this incisive book argues that there is a Hauptbriefe in Gunton reception that assumes his early classic works The One the Three and the Many and The Promise of Trinitarian Theology 1st ed are definitive of his project and fail to engage adequately with the progressions in Gunton's later thought Instead this book offers a fresh reading of Gunton by giving greater prominence to his later writings which are centred in the mediation of the Son and the Spirit in creation Andrew Picard argues that Gunton's trinitarian theology of culture emerges from his later trinitarian theology of mediation creation Christology pneumatology and ecclesiology Exploring these doctrinal foci enables an understanding of Gunton's account of faithful human culture as embodied worship a living sacrifice of praise which contributes to the divine redemption and perfection of creation It is the church's particular calling to embody such praise through its visible life in community The study concludes by intersecting Gunton's theology with the social sciences to critique ableism and consider the politics of the church's belonging in community      Spirit and Scripture Kevin L. Spaw, Archie T. Wright, 2011-11-10 This book considers the academic treatment of biblical interpretation in the renewal movement the fastest growing tradition in Christendom today The initial chapter surveys the history of biblical interpretation in the renewal tradition and provides a conceptual basis for the book In Part II six renewal scholars outline a proposal for the future of biblical hermeneutics in the tradition These authors address certain key questions What is the role of the Holy Spirit in biblical interpretation What are the distinctive presuppositions methods and goals of renewal biblical hermeneutics Three prominent biblical scholars Craig G Bartholomew James D G Dunn R Walter L Moberly respond to the proposals outlined above These critical responses deepen the examination of renewal biblical hermeneutics as well as increase its appeal to biblical and theological scholars in general The final chapter offers a synthesis and evaluation of the accomplishments of the discussion as well as an assessment of the state of the discipline with an eye toward the future      T&T Clark Handbook of the Doctrine of Creation , 2024-03-07 The T how the doctrine of creation informs and is informed by various dogmatic commitments and how the doctrine of creation relates to a range of human concerns and activities The Handbook represents a celebration of fascination with bewilderment at lament about and hope for all that is and serves as a scholarly innovative and constructive reference for those interested in attending to what Christian belief has to contribute to thinking about and living with the mysterious existence named creation     Ex Auditu - Volume 23 Klyne Snodgrass, 2008-04-01     Pentecostal Experience Peter D. Neumann, 2012-08-22

Pentecostals are known for an experiential spirituality that emphasizes immediate encounters with God through the Holy Spirit. But how should such experience be understood? Is it in fact quite so immediate? Neumann argues that Pentecostal experience of God is mediated by the Spirit's work through Scripture, the Christian tradition, and the broader cultural context. Using the work of three contemporary Pentecostal theologians, Frank D. Macchia, Simon K. H. Chan, and Amos Yong, the book demonstrates that a mediated view of experience of God is forging a more mature Pentecostal theology. As further evidence of this maturation, Neumann engages these Pentecostal theologians in ecumenical dialogue with leading representatives from Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox, and Protestant traditions.

Saving the Original Sinner Karl W. Giberson, 2015-06-09

A scientist and former evangelical, Giberson argues that holding onto a belief in a literal historical Adam has forced many Christians to reject science and become intellectually isolated from the modern world. The Bible's first man stands at the center of a crisis that is shaking much of Christianity. In the evangelical world, scholars have been ostracized and banished from their academic communities for endorsing a modern scientific understanding of the world, even as they remained strong Christians. Self-appointed gatekeepers of traditional theology demand intellectual allegiance to an implausible interpretation of the Genesis creation story, insisting that all humanity must be descended from a single perfect human pair, Adam and Eve. Such a view is utterly at odds with contemporary science. It wasn't always this way. Karl Giberson spotlights the venerable tradition of Christian engagement with new knowledge and discoveries. When global exploration, anthropology, geology, paleontology, biblical studies, and even linguistics cast doubt on the historicity of Adam and his literal fall into sin, Christians responded by creatively reimagining the creation story, letting Adam evolve to accommodate his changing context. Even conservative evangelical institutions, until recently encouraged serious engagement with evolutionary science, unhindered by the straitjacket of young earth creationism, intelligent design, or other views demanding that Adam be a historical figure. Giberson calls for a renewed conversation between science and Christianity and for more open engagement with new scientific discoveries, even when they threaten central doctrines. Christians should not be made to choose between their faith and their understanding of the universe. Instead, as Giberson argues, they should follow in the once robust tradition of exploring science openly within the broad contours of Christian belief.

Transforming Renewal Andy Lord, 2015-10-29

Pentecostal and charismatic renewal movements have seen great growth over the last century and have engaged with many Christian traditions. Yet there are signs that all is not well, and there is a need to develop theologies of renewal that engage with practice and across the traditions if the movements are to continue to grow. In particular, this book seeks an ecumenical engagement between David Watson and Thomas Merton, leaders in the charismatic and monastic renewal movements. The aim is to reflect on the theological roots of these renewal movements through a study of particular people who lived them in practice and sought to help others understand how the triune God was at work. This is done against the wider background of contemporary renewalist theology to develop constructive proposals for renewal theology in the future Receptive ecumenism provides the method for bringing the different voices into conversation in ways that also point forward in approaches to ecumenical dialogue It is thus a study relevant to those seeking new ways in theology those involved in renewal and ecumenical movements students of Thomas Merton and all who seek to better understand the Christian renewal movements that have swept the world      Christ and Consumerism Thorsten Moritz, Craig G. Bartholomew, 2000 Consumerism is not merely a way of life it is increasingly recognized as a framework through which people find their identity and sense of belonging in society Christians are called to be salt and light in society If we are to take this command seriously and be zealous for the reputation of God's character in our day we must test the spirit of the age and analyze the forces and ideologies that shape our culture If we don't there is a danger that we will become so accustomed to our consumerist culture that it rather than the convictions at the heart of what God has called us to be will shape our lives Issues regarding consumerism are considered from biblical ethical sociological and economic viewpoints and suggestions offered about how Christians can positively respond to the prevailing ethic today
