

Religious Expression Case Analysis and Rationale Template

Part I: Case Analysis

1. Brief summary of the case:

Laurel Palm Middle School is looking into establishing a religious course which some of the schools around them are doing. Ms. Beckel and Ms. Kasady are in charge of making a presentation. Ms. Wright a long-time school volunteer hears of this plan from Ms. Beckel and is not happy with it, she strongly believes in the separation of church and state. The day of the board meeting Ms. Beckel arrives and sees Ms. Wright protesting against the course.

2. Identify the issues to be resolved:

The problem here is that a member of the community is upset with the course that wants to be implemented. This could blow up and become a much larger protest. It also does not help that the media is all over it now.

3. Stakeholders involved in the issues:

Faculty, school, and students.

4. One or two existing laws or court rulings that relate to the issues:

"the Bible may constitutionally be used in an appropriate study of history, civilization, ethics, comparative religion, and the like." Stone v. Graham, 449 U.S. 39, 42 (1980)(per curiam)

5. District policies that relate to the issues:

"A teacher who instructs a course offered under Policy IHAL, Teaching About Religion, in its appropriate historical context and in good faith shall be immune from civil liability and disciplinary action pursuant to section A.R.S. 15-535" (Arizona School Board Association, 2016, p. GCMF).

6. Possible solutions to the issues:

- I believe educating the public about critical scenarios like this is what is best. We talk about the differences between teaching about religion and sponsoring it and bring up policies that support what we are doing
- talking to Ms. Wright on her own in a meeting
- Ignoring the situation
- Making a statement to the media
