South Asia's Weak States T. V. Paul, 2010-08-09 South Asia which consists of eight states of different sizes and capabilities is characterized by high levels of insecurity at the inter state intra state and human level insecurity that is manifest in both traditional and non traditional security problems especially transnational terrorism fuelled by militant religious ideologies To explain what has caused and contributed to the perpetual insecurity and human suffering in the region this book engages scholars of international relations comparative politics historical sociology and economic development among others to reveal and analyze the key underlying and proximate drivers It argues that the problems are driven largely by two critical variables the presence of weak states and weak cooperative interstate norms Based on this analysis and the conclusions drawn the book recommends specific policies for making the region secure and for developing the long lasting inter and intra state cooperative mechanisms necessary for the perpetuation of that security

The Politics and Law of Democratic Transition Sonia Zaman Khan, 2017-10-25 Peaceful legal and political changing of the guards is taken for granted in developed democracies but is not evident everywhere As a relatively new democracy marred by long periods of military rule Bangladesh has been encountering serious problems because of a prevailing culture of mistrust weak governance institutions constant election manipulation and a peculiar socio political history which between 1990 and 2011 led to a unique form of transitional remedy in the form of an unelected neutral caretaker government CTG during electoral transitions This book provides a contextual analysis of the CTG mechanism including its inception operation manipulation by the government of the day and abrupt demise It queries whether this constitutional provision even if presently abolished after overseeing four acceptable general elections actually remains a crucial tool to safeguard free and fair elections in Bangladesh Given the backdrop of the culture of mistrust the author examines whether holding national elections without a CTG or an umpire of some kind can settle the issue of credibility of a given government The book portrays that even the management of elections is a matter of applying pluralist approaches Considering the historical legacy and contemporary political trajectory of Bangladesh the cause of deep rooted mistrust is examined to better understand the rationale for the requirement emergence and workings of the CTG structure The book unveils that it is not only the lack of nation building measures and governments wish to remain in power at any cost which lay behind the problems that Bangladesh faces today Part of the problem is also the flawed logic of nation building on the foundation of Western democratic norms which may be unsuitable in a South Asian cultural environment Although democratic transitions on the crutch of the CTG have been useful in moments of crisis its abolition creates the need for a new or revised transitional modality perhaps akin to the CTG ethos to oversee electoral governance which will have to be renegotiated by the polity based on the people's will The book provides a valuable resource for researchers and academics working in the area of constitutional law democratic transition legal pluralism and election law

The Neoliberal Regime in the Agri-Food Sector Steven A. Wolf, Alessandro Bonanno, 2013-12-04 For the last three decades the Neoliberal regime emphasising economic growth through deregulation market integration expansion of the private sector and contraction of the welfare state has shaped production and consumption processes in agriculture and food. These institutional arrangements emerged from and advanced academic and popular beliefs about the virtues of private market based coordination relative to public state based problem solving. This book presents an informed constructive dialogue around the thesis that the Neoliberal mode of governance has reached some institutional and material limits. Is Neoliberalism exhausted? How should we understand crisis applied to Neoliberalism? What are the opportunities and risks linked to the construction of alternatives? The book advances a critical evaluation of the evidence supporting claims of rupture of or incursions into the Neoliberal model. It also analyzes pragmatic responses to these critiques including policy initiatives, social mobilization and experimentation at various scales and points of entry. The book surveys and synthesizes a range of sociological frames designed to grapple with the concepts of regimes, systemic crisis and transitions. Contributions include historical analysis, comparative analysis and case studies of food and agriculture from around the globe. These highlight particular aspects of crisis and responses including the potential for continued resilience, a neo-productivist return as well as the emergence and scaling up of alternative models.

Criminal Sentencing in Bangladesh Muhammad Mahbubur Rahman, 2017-03-20 In Criminal Sentencing in Bangladesh Muhammad Mahbubur Rahman critically examines the sentencing policies of Bangladesh and demonstrates that the country's sentencing policies are not only yet to be developed in a coherent manner and shaped with an appropriate and contextual balance but also remain part of the problem rather than part of the solution. The author forcefully argues that the conception of sentencing policies cannot and should not always be confined exclusively to institutional understandings. The typical realities of post-colonial societies call for rethinking the traditional judiciary-centred understanding of what is meant by criminal sentences. This book thus raises the question for theoretical sentencing scholarship: whether the prevailing judiciary-centred understanding of sentencing should be rethought.
