

Democratising globalisation: Joseph Stiglitz interviewed

Justin Vogler, 24 September 2006

Subjects:

- globalisation
- the americas
- visions & reflections

It's time to move from critique to reform of globalisation –and politics is key, Nobel prize-winning economist Joseph Stiglitz tells Justin Vogler.

About the author

Justin Vogler works as a freelance journalist based in Chile, teaches political science in the socioeconomics department of Valparaíso University.

"I've really gone back to some of the areas I've worked on over the last thirty-five years", Stiglitz explains. "I'd done work on intellectual property, the environment, debt, trade and natural resources. It was time to revisit these issues from the perspective of globalisation." As well as an appraisal of global affairs, the book outlines practical ways in which the functioning of the international political economy could be improved.

Joseph E. Stiglitz is a Nobel prize-winner in economics and professor of economics at Columbia University. He has served as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers to President Clinton, and chief economist and senior vice-president at the World Bank. Among his books are Globalization and its Discontents (WW Norton, 2002) and Making Globalization Work (Penguin, 2006)

A survey has attributed to Stiglitz, former chief economist at the World Bank and senior economics advisor to Bill Clinton, the distinction of having published more journal articles than any other economist in the last thirty years. But he combines professional expertise with a
