Williams, 2009 From 2005 to 2008 the National Academies conducted an external review of National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health NIOSH research programs This external review assessed programs impact on and relevance to preventing work related injuries illnesses and fatalities This book describes the methodology that RAND researchers developed to help NIOSH programs prepare for the external review Evaluating Occupational Health and Safety Research Programs National Research Council, Institute of Medicine, Committee for the Review of NIOSH Research Programs, 2009-12-12 Each year approximately 5 000 fatal work related injuries and 4 million non fatal injuries and illnesses occur in the United States This number represents both unnecessary human suffering and high economic costs In order to assist in better evaluating workplace safety and create safer work environments the Institute of Medicine conducted a series of evaluations of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health NIOSH research programs assessing the relevance and impact of NIOSH s work on improving worker safety and health

Construction Research at NIOSH Institute of Medicine, National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Infrastructure and the Constructed Environment, Committee to Review the NIOSH Construction Research Program, 2009-03-12 The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health NIOSH conducts construction relevant research activities From 1996 through 2005 the program focused on four research goals reducing traumatic injuries and fatalities reducing exposure to health hazards reducing major risks associated with musculoskeletal disorders increasing the understanding of construction industry attributes and factors for improving health and safety outcomes In this book the National Research Council evaluates the relevance and impact of the NIOSH Construction Research Program in terms of its research priorities and its connection to improvements in the protection of workers in the workplace It also assesses the program s identification and targeting of new research areas to identify emerging research issues and to provide advice on ways that the program might be strengthened The book finds that the efforts of the Construction Research Program have made meaningful contributions to improving construction worker safety and health and provides overarching and specific recommendations for continuing progress While NIOSH cannot set and enforce research based standards on its own the program can be expected to help reduce construction workplace fatalities injuries and illnesses through its research its research dissemination and transfer into practice
