Demystifying Profession Helping Early Stage Faculty

Marc W. Vinyard, Jaimie Beth Colvin

Demystifying Profession Helping Early Stage Faculty:

Demystifying the Profession JoAnn Moody, 2015-12-01 Taken together the three inter related papers included in Demystifying the Profession present numerous insights and tricks of the professorial trade derived from Dr JoAnn Moody's decades as a national consultant. She has collaborated with hundreds of early stage and senior faculty administrators, post doctoral scholars and graduate students at professional schools, colleges and universities. The aims of the papers are to Demystify certain parts of academic careers that typically bewilder not only early stage faculty, tenure track adjunct, clinical, visiting, research, term, physician faculty and others but also other academics such as post doctoral scholars, medical residents and advanced graduate students who are considering academic careers. Coach early stage as well as future faculty in concrete ways to increase the likelihood of success and enjoyment in their profession. To this end Practice Scenarios are included. Spotlight and tell the truth about the special burdens and taxing dynamics often imposed on non majority faculty especially if they are one of a few or the only solo in majority settings. The burdens and taxes are usually related to the non majority person's gender, ethnicity, sexual preference, social class or religion. Present ways of organizing practice sessions for senior faculty, department chairs, deans, provosts and campus presidents so they grasp in detail the stresses and confusions experienced by less advanced majority and non majority faculty and then are able based on their new understanding to take proactive steps to reduce those confusions and stressors. JoAnn Moody is the author of three additional booklets used across the country by colleges, universities, professional schools and individuals: Rising Above Cognitive Errors, How to Improve Searches, Evaluations and Decision Making, Mentoring Early Stage Faculty and Solo Faculty, Improving Retention and Reducing Stress. Moody's four booklets formerly used in her consulting practice may now for the first time be ordered through Amazon. Dr Moody also has written the book Faculty Diversity: Removing the Barriers, Second Edition, Routledge Press, 2012, 263 pp. Faculty Diversity JoAnn Moody, 2013-06-17 Why do we see so little progress in diversifying faculty at America's colleges, universities and professional schools? This book explores this important question and provides steps for hastening faculty diversity. Drawing on her extensive consultant practice and expertise as well as research and scholarship from several fields, Dr Moody provides practical and feasible ways to improve faculty recruitment, retention and mentorship especially of under represented women in science related fields and non immigrant minorities in all fields. The second edition of Faculty Diversity offers new insights, strategies and caveats to the current state of faculty diversity. This revised edition includes: New strategies to prevent unintended cognitive bias and errors that damage faculty recruitment and retention. Expanded discussion on the importance of different cultural contexts, political and historical experiences inhabited and inherited by non immigrant faculty and students. Increased testimonials and on the ground reflections from faculty administrators and leaders in higher education with new attention to medical and other professional schools. Updated Appendix with Discussion Scenarios and Practice Exercises useful to search and evaluation committees, department chairs.

deans faculty senates and diversity councils Expanded chapter on mentoring that dispels myths about informal mentoring and underlines essential components for formal programs Moody provides an essential reliable and eye opening guide for colleges medical and other professional schools that are frustrated in their efforts to diversify their faculty Demystifying Professional Learning Communities Kristine Kiefer Hipp, Jane Bumpers Huffman, 2010-02-16 The purpose of this book is to clearly define an approach to school improvement that uses professional learning community PLC practices to achieve school improvement and success for every student This book offers information examples and case studies to clarify the concept of a PLC to respond to critical issues in schools and to support educational leaders in addressing the important mandates of accountability and school improvement As school leaders proactively lead efforts to create learning communities their schools districts and staff will incorporate knowledge skills and practices that focus on teaching and learning for all The authors findings will assist leaders change agents policy makers and university faculty in guiding schools toward creating and maintaining PLCs as they sustain school improvement for student learning The Scholarship of Teaching and Learning in Higher Education: An Evidence-Based Perspective Raymond P. Vinyard, Jaimie Beth Colvin, 2022-02-25 Demystifying Scholarly Metrics gives librarians and faculty the confidence to navigate the maze of scholarly metrics identify quality journals in which to publish and measure the impact of scholarly works Both librarians and professors can be overwhelmed by the bewildering number of scholarly metrics This user friendly book demystifies them helping librarians become familiar with scholarly metrics and giving them the confidence to assist faculty at their institutions It also equips faculty authors with the knowledge to evaluate journals and use metrics to track their scholarly impact Several controversies exist in the scholarly metrics landscape including a disagreement between the proponents of altmetrics and traditional bibliometrics Even more contentious debates are breaking out over predatory journals and open access publishing Authors Mark Vinyard and Jaimie Beth Colvin who successfully launched a faculty publishing initiative explain which aspects of metrics are truly essential to grasp and they place these numbers in context They help readers identify the metrics that are the best fit for their scholarship and give librarians and professors the tools to make smart decisions in this changing scholarly metrics landscape

New Directions for University Museums Brad King, 2023-12-06

New Directions for University Museums is intended to help university museum leaders to help them plan strategically in the context of the issues and needs of the 2020s by examining trends affecting them and directions in response to those forces It will lay out a series of potential directions for university museums in the 21st century using examples from the field Although university museums are similar to other museums in their topic areas art natural history archaeology etc they are a unique category that requires special consideration Today university museums are grappling with new forces that are affecting their future University museums still have a dual responsibility to campus and community and they still try to mount exhibitions that are attractive to the communities in which they are embedded But they are rethinking the nature of service to town and gown in response to larger trends around accessibility It is no longer enough to try to attract visitors these museums are becoming much more active and outgoing in their outreach to the broader public They have unparalleled access to academic firepower but university museum research is no longer the sole province of academics intended for publication in scholarly journals In the 2020s research is being made much more relevant to existential problems of the world For example some are bridging the gap between academic research and teaching and the most pressing social issues of our time such as climate change the fight against racism and the interface between humans and technology University museum research is no longer cloistered and these institutions are finding ways to better leverage the new knowledge yielded by collections based research for both the university s and for public benefit Student engagement and education is still important but communication is no longer unidirectional from faculty and museum staff to students Now student input and co curation is now invited as learning becomes a two way street Moreover public science communication has become a much more important role for university museums These are in effect the new directions to which the title refers The main thesis of the book is therefore that university museums are becoming much more outward facing They are engaging with the public and with the world at large as never before In effect they matter more than ever This is the overarching new direction Within this general approach there are a number of questions that the book addresses What are the expectations of university museums in the 21st century from their key stakeholders university administrations faculties and students and the communities in which they are embedded How are those expectations changing and how are the museums evolving to meet them How are university museums navigating the minefields of political polarization cancel culture or heightened activism on campus and in society at large What is the nature of the relationship between the university s research and teaching mission and the university museum What trends can we identify and how can we help the university museum director navigate those trends The university donor relationship what can we learn from a study of donor expectations and the dynamics of university donor relationships in contemporary society How is the relationship between the university museum and the broader external community changing How is the university museum contributing to or detracting from the overall relationship between the university and the community What role is the university museum playing in terms of public communication of research especially public science communication This book is for all those who work in benefit from or are interested in university museums In particular it is hoped that the book will help university museum leaders who are embarking on strategic plans understand the common issues that are currently affecting their peers and provide some context and guidance to those leaders as they chart their own paths for the future and to advance larger goals For faculty it will show how the museum can help improve undergraduate teaching and graduate student training via highlights and illustrations of new ways in which faculty departments are cooperating and partnering with their campus museums and from a university administration point of view how the museum can help the university achieve its bigger strategic goals such as helping increase the percentage of successful faculty grant applications
