The Creative Turn Anne M. Harris, 2014-04-16 The conundrum of understanding practising and teaching contemporary creativity is that it wants to be all things to all people Almost all modern lists of creativity creative thinking and how to becoming creative books begin with one premise the creative individual artist is not special rather each of us is creative in a special way and these skills can and must be nurtured Increasingly industry and education leaders are claiming that creativity is the core skill to take us into a prosperous future signalling the democratisation of creativity as industry Yet centuries of association between aesthetics mastery and creativity are hard to dismantle These days it is increasingly difficult to discuss creativity without reference to business industry and innovation Why do we love to think of creativity in this way and no longer as that rare visitation of the muse or the elite gift of the few This book looks at the possibility that creativity is taking a turn what that turn might be and how it relates to industry education and ultimately cultural role of creativity and aesthetics for the 21st century In proliferating discourses of the commodification of creativity there is one thing all the experts agree on creativity is undefinable possibly unteachable largely unassessable and becoming the most valuable commodity in 21st century markets

European Traditions in Didactics of Mathematics Werner Blum, Michèle Artigue, Maria Alessandra Mariotti, Rudolf Sträßer, Marja Van den Heuvel-Panhuizen, 2019-02-18 This open access book discusses several didactic traditions in mathematics education in countries across Europe including France the Netherlands Italy Germany the Czech and Slovakian Republics and the Scandinavian states It shows that while they all share common features both in the practice of learning and teaching at school and in research and development they each have special features due to specific historical and cultural developments The book also presents interesting historical facts about these didactic traditions the theories and examples developed in these countries

The COVID-19 Pandemic's Transformation of Human Relationships with Nature at Multiple Scales Sonya Sachdeva, Lindsay Kathleen

Campbell, Erika S. Svendsen, Michelle Leigh Johnson, 2022-12-29 Territorial Development, Cohesion and Spatial Planning

Neil Adams, Giancarlo Cotella, Richard Nunes, 2012-08-06 This book examines some of the evolving challenges faced by EU regional policy in light of enlargement and to assess some of the approaches and trends in terms of territorial development policy and practice that are emerging out of this process Focusing on the experiences on Central and Eastern Europe these chapters reflect on the diversity of approaches to spatial planning and the the politics of policy formation and multi level governance operations from local to trans national agendas Promoting increased awareness and understanding of these issues is the main purpose of the book as well as harnessing the extensive capacity and knowledge within these countries that can greatly enrich the discourse within an enlarged epistemic community of European spatial planning academics practitioners and policy makers The recently acquired CEE dimension provides a unique opportunity to examine the evolution of existing epistemic communities as well as to explore the potential emergence of new ones
