of Talent Is Overrated to get better at what they're passionate about. Now this classic has been updated and revised with new research and takeaways to help anyone achieve even greater performance. Why are certain people so incredibly great at what they do? Most of us think we know the answer but we're almost always wrong. That's important because if we're wrong on this crucial question then we have zero chance of getting significantly better at anything we care about. Happily the real source of great performance is no longer a mystery. Bringing together extensive scientific research, bestselling author Geoff Colvin shows where we go wrong and what actually makes world-class performers so remarkable. It isn't specific innate talent nor is it plain old hard work. It's a very specific type of work that anyone can do but most people don't. What's more, the principles of great performance apply to virtually any activity that matters to you. Readers worldwide have been inspired by this book's liberating message: You don't need a one-in-a-million natural gift. Better performance and maybe even world-class performance is closer than you think.

How the new business models in the digital age have evolved Javier Celaya, José Antonio Vázquez, María Jesús Rojas, Elisa Yuste, Maribel Ríaza, 2016-03-07 This second edition of New Business Models in the Digital Age is full of updated, needed-to-know information for anyone interested in this topic. Due to the outstanding reception the original report had in 2014, having been downloaded over 5,000 times, and because of all of the available new data and important developments, it was necessary to expand the report after just a year to include all of the changes that have taken place since then. Some of the biggest news in this year's edition comes from the world of micropayments, namely the new and hotly debated pay-what-you-read business model. The newest changes in subscription models, which are having a hard time taking hold in the book sector, are also discussed, as is the surge in the number of new crowdfunding projects that have led to the consolidation of this business trend in the last year alone.

The Fourth Industrial Revolution Klaus Schwab, 2017-01-03 World-renowned economist Klaus Schwab, Founder and Executive Chairman of the World Economic Forum, explains that we have an opportunity to shape the fourth industrial revolution which will fundamentally alter how we live and work Schwab argues that this revolution is different in scale scope and complexity from any that have come before Characterized by a range of new technologies that are fusing the physical digital and biological worlds the developments are affecting all disciplines economies industries and governments and even challenging ideas about what it means to be human Artificial intelligence is already all around us from supercomputers drones and virtual assistants to 3D printing DNA sequencing smart thermostats wear able sensors and microchips smaller than a grain of sand But this is just the beginning nanomaterials 200 times stronger than steel and a million times thinner than a strand of hair and the first transplant of a 3D printed liver are already in development Imagine smart factories in which global systems of manufacturing are coordinated virtually or implantable mobile phones made of biosynthetic materials The fourth industrial revolution says Schwab is more significant and its ramifications more profound than in any prior period of human history He outlines the key technologies driving this revolution and discusses the major impacts expected on government business civil society and individuals Schwab also offers bold ideas on how to harness these changes and shape a better future one in which technology empowers people rather than replaces them progress serves society rather than disrupts it and in which innovators respect moral and ethical boundaries rather than cross them We all have the opportunity to contribute to developing new frameworks that advance progress
