Andrew Lang, 1912      Essays in Little Andrew Lang, 2020-09-28 Alexandre Dumas is a writer and his life is a topic of which his devotees never weary Indeed one lifetime is not long enough wherein to tire of them The long days and years of Hilpa and Shalum in Addison the antediluvian age when a picnic lasted for half a century and a courtship for two hundred years might have sufficed for an exhaustive study of Dumas No such study have I to offer in the brief seasons of our perishable days I own that I have not read and do not in the circumstances expect to read all of Dumas nor even the greater part of his thousand volumes We only dip a cup in that sparkling spring and drink and go on we cannot hope to exhaust the fountain nor to carry away with us the well itself It is but a word of gratitude and delight that we can say to the heroic and indomitable master only an ave of friendship that we can call across the bourne to the shade of the Porthos of fiction That his works his best works should be even still more widely circulated than they are that the young should read them and learn frankness kindness generosity should esteem the tender heart and the gay invincible wit that the old should read them again and find forgetfulness of trouble and taste the anodyne of dreams that is what we desire Two anecdotes are told of Dumas books one by M Edmond About the other by his own son which show in brief space why this novelist is so beloved and why he deserves our affection and esteem M Villaud a railway engineer who had lived much in Italy Russia and Spain was the person whose enthusiasm finally secured a statue for Dumas He felt so much gratitude to the unknown friend of lonely nights in long exiles that he could not be happy till his gratitude found a permanent expression On returning to France he went to consult M Victor Borie who told him this tale about George Sand M Borie chanced to visit the famous novelist just before her death and found Dumas novel Les Quarante Cinq one of the cycle about the Valois kings lying on her table He expressed his wonder that she was reading it for the first time      Literary and Social Essays George William Curtis,2019-12-11 In Literary and Social Essays George William Curtis traverses the intricate landscape of 19th century American literature and social consciousness This collection is characterized by its eloquent prose and sharp critiques reflecting Curtis s deep engagement with contemporary societal issues such as class race and the moral responsibilities of authors Each essay is a testament to the literary currents of his time blending personal reflection with broader cultural commentary ultimately illuminating the role of literature in shaping social thought and reform George William Curtis a prominent figure in American literature and a notable advocate for social progress penned these essays during a period marked by significant national transformation His extensive involvement in literary circles and social reform movements coupled with his experience as a co founder of the Putnam s Monthly magazine provided him with a unique vantage point from which to critique society and its literary output His commitment to advancing civil rights and education for all undoubtedly influenced his insightful observations and calls to action within these essays This volume is a must read for anyone interested in the intersections of literature and social ethics Curtis s work not only offers profound insights into the complexities of his era but also resonates with ongoing discussions about the power of the written word in fostering social change Readers will find themselves challenged and inspired by Curtis s passionate advocacy for a more just and enlightened society      Essays in Little (1891) by Andrew Lang Andrew Lang,2016-03-26 Andrew Lang 31 March 1844 20 July 1912 was a Scottish poet novelist literary critic and contributor to the field of anthropology He is best known as a collector of folk and fairy tales The Andrew Lang lectures at the University of St Andrews are named after him Lang was born in Selkirk He was the eldest of the eight children born to John Lang the town clerk of Selkirk and his wife Jane Plenderleath Sellar who was the daughter of Patrick Sellar factor to the first duke of Sutherland On 17 April 1875 he married Leonora Blanche Alleyne youngest daughter of C T Alleyne of Clifton and Barbados She was or should have been variously credited as author collaborator or translator of Lang s Color Rainbow Fairy Books which he edited      Cultivating Belief Sebastian Lecourt,2018-04-05 This book explores how a group of Victorian liberal writers that included George Eliot Walter Pater and Matthew Arnold became attracted to new theories of religion as a function of race and ethnicity Since the early modern period British liberals had typically constructed religion as a zone of personal belief that defined modern individuality and interiority During the 1860s however Eliot Arnold and other literary liberals began to claim that religion could actually do the most for the modern self when it came as a kind of involuntary inheritance Stimulated by the emerging science of anthropology they imagined that religious experiences embedded in race or ethnicity could render the self heterogeneous while the individual who insisted upon selecting his or her own beliefs would become narrow and parochial By rethinking the grounds of religion this book argues these writers were ultimately trying to shift liberal individualism away from a classical

Protestant liberalism that celebrated interiority and agency and toward one that valorized eclecticism and the capacity to keep multiple values in play More broadly their work offers us a new picture of secularization not as a process of religious decline but as the reinscription of religion as an ordinary feature of human life like art or politics or sex whose function could be debated

Fictions of Loss in the Victorian Fin de Siècle Stephen Arata, 1996-08-29 It has been widely recognised that British culture in the 1880s and 1890s was marked by a sense of irretrievable decline Fictions of Loss in the Victorian Fin de Siècle explores the ways in which that perception of loss was cast into narrative into archetypal stories which sought to account for the culture's troubles and perhaps assuage its anxieties Stephen Arata pays close attention to fin de siècle representation of three forms of decline national biological and aesthetic and reveals how late Victorian degeneration theory was used to explain such decline By examining a wide range of writers from Kipling to Wilde from Symonds to Conan Doyle and Stoker Arata shows how the nation's twin obsessions with decadence and imperialism became intertwined in the thought of the period His account offers new insights for students and scholars of the fin de siècle
