Wilson's ten play cycle about African American life in each decade of the twentieth century. Framed by Wilson's life experiences and informed by his extensive interviews, this book provides fresh, coherent, detailed readings of each play well situated in the extant scholarship. It also provides an overview of the cycle as a whole, demonstrating how it comprises a compelling interrogation of American culture and historiography. Keenly aware of the musical paradigms informing Wilson's dramatic technique, Nadel shows how jazz and particularly the blues provide the structural mechanisms that allow Wilson to examine alternative notions of time, property, and law. Wilson's improvisational logics become crucial to expressing his notions of black identity and resituating the relationship of literal to figurative in the African American community. The final two chapters include contributions by scholars Harry J. Elam Jr. and Donald E. Pease.

August Wilson's Fences Ladrica Menson-Furr, 2013-06-06 Fences represents the decade of the 1950s and when it premiered in 1985 it won the Pulitzer Prize. Set during the beginnings of the civil rights movement, it also concerns generational change and renewal, ending with a celebration of the life of its protagonist even though it takes place at his funeral. Critics and scholars have lauded August Wilson's work for its universality and its ability, especially in Fences, to transcend racial barriers, and this play helped to earn him the titles of America's greatest playwright and the African American Shakespeare.

August Wilson Patti Hartigan, 2024-08-27 The masterful The Wall Street Journal invaluable Los Angeles Times first authoritative biography of August Wilson, the most important and successful American playwright of the late 20th century, by a theater critic who knew him. August Wilson wrote a series of ten plays celebrating African American life in the 20th century, one play for each decade. No other American playwright has completed such an ambitious oeuvre. Two of the plays became successful films: Fences, starring Denzel Washington and Viola Davis, and Ma Rainey's Black Bottom, starring Viola Davis and Chadwick Boseman. Fences and The Piano Lesson won the Pulitzer Prize for Drama; Fences won the Tony Award for Best Play, and years after Wilson's death in 2005, Jitney earned a Tony Award for Best Revival of a Play. Through his brilliant use of vernacular speech, Wilson developed unforgettable characters who epitomized the trials and triumphs of the African American experience. He said that he didn't research his plays but wrote them from the blood's memory, a sense of racial history that he believed African Americans shared. Author and theater critic Patti Hartigan traced his ancestry back to slavery, and his plays echo with uncanny similarities to the history of his ancestors. She interviewed Wilson many times before his death and traces his life from his childhood in Pittsburgh, where nine of the plays take place, to Broadway. She also interviewed scores of friends, theater colleagues, and family members and conducted extensive research to tell the absorbing, richly detailed Chicago Tribune story of a writer who left an indelible imprint on American theater and opened the door for future playwrights of color.

After August Patrick Maley, 2019-08-08 Critics have long suggested that August Wilson who called blues the best literature we have as black Americans appropriated blues music for his plays After August insists instead that Wilson's work is direct blues expression Patrick Maley argues that Wilson was not a dramatist importing blues music into his plays he was a bluesman expressing a blues ethos through drama Reading Wilson's American Century Cycle alongside the cultural history of blues music as well as Wilson's less discussed work his interviews the polemic speech The Ground on Which I Stand and his memoir play How I Learned What I Learned Maley shows how Wilson's plays deploy the blues technique of call and response attempting to initiate a dialogue with his audience about how to be black in America After August further contends that understanding Wilson as a bluesman demands a reinvestigation of his forebears and successors in American drama many of whom echo his deep investment in social identity crafting Wilson's dramaturgical pursuit of culturally sustainable black identity sheds light on Tennessee Williams's exploration of oppressive limits on masculine sexuality and Eugene O'Neill's treatment of psychologically corrosive whiteness Today the contemporary African American playwrights Katori Hall and Tarell Alvin McCraney repeat and revise Wilson's methods exploring the fraught and fertile terrain of racial gender and sexual identity After August makes a significant contribution to the scholarship on Wilson and his undeniable impact on American drama
