

Fetal Pig Dissection Guide

Background:

Mammals are vertebrates having hair on their body and mammary glands to nourish their young. The majority are placental mammals in which the developing young, or fetus, grows inside the female's uterus while attached to a membrane called the placenta. The placenta is the source of food and oxygen for the fetus, and it also serves to get rid of fetal wastes. The dissection of the fetal pig in this laboratory is important because pigs and humans have the same level of metabolism and have similar organs and systems. Also, fetal pigs are a byproduct of the pork food industry so they aren't raised for dissection purposes, and they are relatively inexpensive.

Objectives:

- Identify important external structures of the fetal pig.
- Identify major structures associated with a fetal pig's digestive, respiratory, circulatory, excretory, & nervous systems.
- Compare the functions of certain organs in a fetal mammal with those of an adult mammal.

Materials:

preserved fetal pig, dissecting tray, dissecting kit, string, magnifying glass, plastic bag, paper towels

Notes:

As you examine the external and internal structures, make any other notes of the pig you think will be helpful to you. Remember, you will have a pig practitioner during final week. Draw/sketch all you like.

Wear your lab apron and eye cover at all times. Watch your time and be sure to clean up all equipment and working area each day before leaving. Be sure to also wash your hands thoroughly with soap and water.
