Documents of Utopia Paolo Magagnoli, 2015-05-12 This timely volume discusses the experimental documentary projects of some of the most significant artists working in the world today Hito Steyerl Joachim Koester Tacita Dean Matthew Buckingham Zoe Leonard Jean Luc Moul ne Ilya and Emilia Kabakov Jon Thomson and Alison Craighead and Anri Sala Their films videos and photographic series address failed utopian experiments and counter hegemonic social practices This study illustrates the political significance of these artistic practices and critically contributes to the debate on the conditions of utopian thinking in late capitalist society arguing that contemporary artists interest in the past is the result of a shift within the temporal organization of the utopian imagination from its futuristic pole toward remembrance The book therefore provides one of the first critical examinations of the recent turn toward documentary in the field of contemporary art The

History from Below Efrén Cuevas,2022-01-11 Traditional historical documentaries strive to project a sense of objectivity producing a top down view of history that focuses on public events and personalities In recent decades in line with historiographical trends advocating history from below a different type of historical documentary has emerged focusing on tightly circumscribed subjects personal archives and first person perspectives Efrén Cuevas categorizes these films as microhistorical documentaries and examines how they push cinema's capacity as a producer of historical knowledge in new directions Cuevas pinpoints the key features of these documentaries identifying their parallels with written microhistory a reduced scale of observation a central role given to human agency a conjectural approach to the use of archival sources and a reliance on narrative structures Microhistorical documentaries also use tools specific to film to underscore the affective dimension of historical narratives often incorporating autobiographical and essayistic perspectives and highlighting the role of the protagonists personal memories in the reconstruction of the past These films generally draw from family archives with an emphasis on snapshots and home movies Filming History from Below examines works including Peter Forgács's films dealing with the Holocaust such as The Maelstrom and Free Fall documentaries about the Israeli Palestinian conflict Rithy Panh's work on the Cambodian genocide films about the internment of Japanese Americans during the Second World War such as A Family Gathering and History and Memory and Jonas Mekas's chronicle of migration in his diary film Lost Lost Lost

Documenting Cityscapes Iván Villarrea Álvarez,2015-05-12 While film studies has traditionally treated the presence of the city in film as an urban text operating inside of a cinematic one this approach has recently evolved into the study of cinema as a technology of place From this perspective Documenting Cityscapes explores the way the city has been depicted by nonfiction filmmakers since the late 1970s paying particular attention to three aesthetic tendencies documentary landscaping urban self portraits and metafilmic strategies Through the formal analysis of fifteen works from six different countries this volume investigates how the rise of subjectivity has helped to develop a kind of gaze that is closer to citizens than to the institutions and corporations responsible for recent major transformations Documenting Cityscapes therefore reveals the extent to which cinema has become an agent of urban change in which certain films not only challenge the most controversial policies of late capitalism but also are able to produce spatiality themselves

Perpetrator Cinema Raya Morag, 2020-03-17 Perpetrator Cinema explores a new trend in the cinematic depiction of genocide that has emerged in Cambodian documentary in the late twentieth and early twenty first centuries While past films documenting the Holocaust and genocides in Yugoslavia Rwanda and elsewhere have focused on collecting and foregrounding the testimony of survivors and victims the intimate horror of the autogenocide enables post Khmer Rouge Cambodian documentarians to propose a direct confrontation between the first generation survivor and the perpetrator of genocide These films break with Western tradition and disrupt the political view that reconciliation is the only legitimate response to atrocities of the past Rather transcending the perpetrator's typical denial or partial confession this extraordinary form of dual documentary creates confrontational tension and opens up the possibility of a transformation in power relations allowing viewers to access feelings of moral resentment Raya Morag examines works by Rithy Panh Rob Lemkin and Thet Sambath and Lida Chan and Guillaume Suon among others to uncover the ways in which filmmakers endeavor to allow the survivors moral status and courage to guide viewers to a new more complete understanding of the processes of coming to terms with the past These documentaries show how moral resentment becomes a way to experience symbolize judge and finally incorporate evil into a system of ethics Morag's analysis reveals how perpetrator cinema provides new epistemic tools and propels the recent social cultural psychological shift from the era of the witness to the era of the perpetrator

Film and the Holocaust Aaron Kerner, 2011-05-05 When representing the Holocaust the slightest hint of narrative embellishment strikes contemporary audiences as somehow a violation against those who suffered under the Nazis This anxiety is at least in part rooted in Theodor Adorno's dictum that To write poetry after Auschwitz is barbaric And despite the fact that he later reversed his position the conservative opposition to all artistic representations of the Holocaust remains powerful leading to the insistent demand that it be represented as it really was And yet whether it's the girl in the red dress or a German soldier belting out Bach on a piano during the purge of the ghetto in Schindler's List or the use of tracking shots in the documentaries Shoah and Night and Fog all genres invent or otherwise embellish the narrative to locate meaning in an event that we commonly refer to as unimaginable This wide ranging book surveys and discusses the ways in which the Holocaust has been represented in cinema covering a deep cross section of both national cinemas and genres

Moscow Prime Time Kristin Roth-Ey, 2011-05-15 When Nikita Khrushchev visited Hollywood in 1959 only to be scandalized by a group of scantily clad actresses his message was blunt Soviet culture would soon consign the mass culture of the West epitomized by Hollywood to the dustbin of history In Moscow Prime Time a portrait of the Soviet broadcasting and film industries and of everyday Soviet consumers from the end of World War II through the 1970s Kristin Roth Ey shows us how and why Khrushchev's ambitious vision ultimately failed to materialize The USSR surged full force into the modern media age after World War II building cultural infrastructures and audiences that were among the world's largest Soviet people were enthusiastic radio listeners TV watchers and moviegoers and the great bulk of what they were consuming was not the dissident culture that made headlines in the West but orthodox made in the USSR content This then was Soviet culture's real prime time and a major achievement for a regime that had long touted easy everyday access to a socialist cultural experience as a birthright Yet Soviet success also brought complex and unintended consequences Emphasizing such factors as the rise of the single family household and of a more sophisticated consumer culture the long reach and seductive influence of foreign media and the workings of professional pride and raw ambition in the media industries Roth Ey shows a Soviet media empire transformed from within in the postwar era The result she finds was something dynamic and volatile a new Soviet culture with its center of gravity shifted from the lecture hall to the living room and a new brand of cultural experience at once personal immediate and eclectic a new Soviet culture increasingly similar in fact to that of its self defined enemy the mass culture of the West By the 1970s the Soviet media empire stretching far beyond its founders wildest dreams was busily undermining the very promise of a unique Soviet culture and visibly losing the cultural cold war Moscow Prime Time is the first book to untangle the paradoxes of Soviet success and failure in the postwar media age
