Cinema Pessimism

Joshua Foa Dienstag,2020 Aesthetic and political representation are often treated separately but this book argues that film offers a unique perspective through which to understand the dangers to equality and freedom that lurk in representative politics The potential problems of representative democracy have long been debated does it cultivate apathy and discourage citizen participation What does it mean to be faithfully or well represented in a democracy And how can appropriate meaningful representation be achieved Here these questions are addressed from a new perspective Representation Joshua Foa Dienstag argues can create the illusion of freedom and reciprocity in place of the real thing and in both cinema and politics what gives us pleasure is not the same as what secures or supports our existence as free and equal citizens As this book shows there are political dangers not visible within the current debates around democratic representation dangers we can better understand and help to minimize by considering the way that human beings interact emotionally with their filmic representations Dienstag looks at a series of films that directly confront issues of representation Her Blade Runner The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance Melancholia and the Up documentary series to diagnose these hazards and consider how best to respond to them Each chapter looks at a specific film as emblematic of a different conception or problem of representation often ignored by mainstream political debates such as reciprocity happiness boundaries evil to show that the relationship between representation and freedom is fraught with tension This book continues Dienstag s earlier groundbreaking work on philosophical pessimism understood not as something despairing but as a rejection of the idea that these necessary tensions can be cured Ultimately Dienstag seeks to defend a kind of pessimistic politics that might produce a better sort of democratic representation than what we have today Blade Runner Sean Redmond,2016-09-06 Ridley Scott's 1982 film Blade Runner is now widely recognized as an undisputed masterwork of science fiction cinema and one of the most influential films released in the last forty years Yet on its original release it was both a critical and commercial failure criticized for its perceived prioritizing of style over content and a narrative that did not deliver the anticipated high octane action that its star casting and large budget normally promise How did a film that was removed from circulation within a month of its premiere come to mean so much to modern audiences and provide such a rich seam of material for film and media studies Sean Redmond excavates the many significances of the film its breakthrough use of special effects as a narrative tool its revolutionary representation of the future city its treatment of racial and sexual politics and its unique status as a text whose meaning was fundamentally altered in its re-released Director's Cut form then further revised in a Final Cut in 2007 and what this means in an institutional context This volume was previously published as Studying Blade Runner in 2008
